Rome Aviators Defy Fog

Williams and Yancey Start for Eternal City After Earlier Crack-ups

Gasoline Load of Ship Cut at Last Minute by Pair; No Ocean Reports

[illegible] (Me.) July 8. (AP)—[illegible] American aviators, twice prevented from starting across the Atlantic by the wrecking of their plane as they attempted a take-off, tonight are believed over the ocean flying the Bellanca monoplane Pathfinder toward Rome.

[illegible] Q. Williams, pilot, and [illegible] A. Yancey, navigator, determined on the take-off even though [illegible] fog covered the beach and cut visibility to less than a quarter of a mile.

The only report of the plane, which took off at 7:40 a.m. (eastern standard time) was from Lieut. L. [illegible] of the Coast Guard, who accompanied the Pathfinder in an amphibian. He lost sight of the Rome-bound plane an hour later forty-five miles off Portland lightship. He was then going "fine."

[illegible] NOT DISCOURAGED

Lack of reports of the progress of the silver and green plane did not discourage friends nor Mrs. Gertrude Yancey, wife of the navigator. The fog which caused Williams to have a line of lime poured down the beach to mark his take-off, was general all along the coast.

The plane had 445 gallons of gasoline—fifty-five less than the original 500—to carry it the 4232 miles to the Eternal City along its plotted course. Reduction of the load was ordered at the last minute, apparently because the flyers feared they could not get the heavily loaded ship off the sands.

RETURN CONSIDERED

For a time it was thought the flyers might return in a few hours as Yancey told Ben Zebora, mechanic, that if a check of the fuel showed there was not enough to carry through the Pathfinder would be brought back.

Zebora, who had worked on both the Pathfinder and the Green Flash, which was wrecked on its first attempted take-off on June [illegible], cried when Yancey ordered him to remove eleven of the five-gallon cans of gasoline. He said he felt it might mean the difference between success or failure of the flight.

ONLY AIR CUSHIONS

The aviators must get through to their goal or alight near a ship if forced down or there will be but little hope of their rescue. They carried no [illegible], no lifeboats, no radio—only two air cushions.

The normal cruising speed of the Pathfinder—ninety-eight miles an hour—would bring it to the Itali-

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, July 8. [To the Editor of The Times:] I just happened to hear of it in an indirect way, and it may be that lots of us won't get any actual proof of it for weeks, but the new shape of money is to go into circulation Wednesday and practically the same people that handled the old will have charge of this new type. It's one-third smaller and practically two-thirds more elusive.

France wants to insert in our debt settlement that they will pay us as soon as Germany pays them. That's to be in sixty-two years, so sixty-three years from now we start receiving our payments.

Secretary Seeks Opinions and Methods to Augment Department Ideas

(Exclusive)—Calling on experts outside the Department of Agriculture for advice and recommendations in the fight to exterminate the Mediterranean fruit fly Secretary of Agriculture Hyde today appointed a committee of seven nationally known agriculturists, including Dr. H. J. Quayle of the University of California, and director of the Riverside Research Farm, to investigate the fly blight first hand and report their findings directly to him.

Four members of the committee held an informal meeting here this afternoon and left tonight for Florida. Three of the committeemen, Dr. Quayle included, were unable to be present at the organization meeting here but will join their conferees in Florida.

The other members of the committee are President H. A. Morgan of the University of Tennessee, slated to be chairman of the group; Dr.

POSTAL LOSS TO BE CUT

Hoover Confers With Brown

President Seeking Way of Holding Down Mounting Deficits on Mails

Rates Will Not be Increased, White House Asserts; Survey Ordered

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Uncle Sam's unprofitable postal business engaged the attention of President Hoover today at a conference with Postmaster-General Brown and the four assistant postmasters-general, but raising mail prices was not discussed as a means of reducing the huge annual deficits.

The President called for a more accurate determination of what the White House referred to later as the "mounting deficits," and for means of effecting economies. To Assistant Postmaster-General Tilton, who supervises the department's fiscal affairs, he entrusted the task of a thorough survey in the interest of reducing expenses.

NO RATE INCREASES

After the meeting, Postmaster-General Brown said problems had been discussed, especially as they related to means of making the department more self-supporting and to the air mail. As to the first, he suggested two solutions—increased mail volume and cheaper contracts for its transportation.

In announcing what had occurred, the White House emphasized there had been no discussion of the possibility of meeting deficits by increases in postal rates.

The unfavorable balance in 1926 was $19,972,379. This mounted to $31,506,200 in 1927, and to $32,121,095 in 1928.

DEFICIT TO BE LARGE

Comptroller William E. Buffington said today the 1929 deficit, which will be for the year ending June 30, last, would be extremely large and not comparable with the years immediately preceding, but more with 1921, when it jumped to $157,502,298 from $17,270,480, in 1920. The increase was attributed to increased compensation to railroads and increased pay to postal employees.

The 1929 deficit figure may not be disclosed until Mr. Brown makes his annual report early in December, and by that time some definite information is expected regarding the survey initiated today.

Three Killed in Wisconsin by Lightning Bolt

WISCONSIN RAPIDS (Wis.) July 8. (AP)—Three men were killed today at the village of Kellner, six miles from here, by a bolt of lightning, during an electrical storm.

The dead were: Fred Anderson, 26 years of age, Walter Peterson, 30, and Herman Behrne, 45.

The men were stripping seed from grass on the marshes near here, when the storm suddenly arose. They took shelter in an abandoned house.

The bolt of lightning entered at a window, struck down the three men and passed through a door without doing any damage to the building.

Seven Burned by Overflow of White Hot Steel

CLEVELAND, July 8. (AP)—Trapped by fifteen tons of flowing white hot steel in an industrial accident here today, seven men were burned badly, and two of them are not expected to recover. The others are in a critical condition.

The men were working in the furnace room of the American Steel and Wire Company when the bolts of a huge ladle broke. It overturned and spilled its deadly stream of molten metal on the floor. It splashed in all directions, hitting the seven before they could escape.

Mystery Vessel Sunk by Blast

LONDON, July 8. (AP)—Identity of a vessel reported by Lloyds to have been sunk by an explosion near Smithknoll Lightship, off the Norfolk coast, has not been established.

The explosion is supposed to have been about thirty miles off Great Yarmouth.

KING GEORGE'S TRIP BARRED

Public Anxiety Renewed as Doctors Halt Journey to Sandringham Because of Sinus Ill

LONDON, July 8. (AP)—The British public, fresh from yesterday's thanksgiving services for the recovered health of King George, relapsed into a state of anxiety today when no fewer than five doctors canceled the monarch's projected trip to the summer palace at Sandringham. The postponement was announced only three hours before the royal party was scheduled to leave London.

The public anxiety was only slightly lessened by announcements that an X-ray examination had been carried out this afternoon and that the King's general health was so good he was able to take his usual walk with Queen Mary in the palace grounds. The examination was decided on after the King's regular physician had found that the sinus in the right side was not progressing in a satisfactory manner.

The result of the examination, it is expected, will be announced tomorrow. Meanwhile it may be another week before the King will be allowed to go to Sandringham. The royal servants who had gone there in advance were recalled today.

The trip to Sandringham had been anticipated by the King for some time. It is said that he even had ordered some new guns with the idea that he possibly might enjoy some duck shooting there.

After the X-ray examination had been carried out His Majesty returned to Buckingham Palace gardens for tea and spent a considerable time sitting in the grounds with the Queen. He did not go into the palace until after 7 p.m. At a late hour tonight officials at the palace stated that His Majesty was quite comfortable.

The boy's two playmates, Howard Craton, 12, and Harley Topham, 15, have been remanded to the custody of their parents pending further questioning.

The boy's death is believed to have resulted from blood poisoning developing from a scratch on the leg he received when he submitted to "the royal bumps" at the hands of his playmates.

SICK COSTS DIAGNOSED

Medical Men in Convention

Heated Discussion Follows Proposal to Reduce Illness Expense

Association Head Presents Plan for Clinics Owned by Profession

PORTLAND (Or.) July 8. (Exclusive)—The high cost of being sick, a national problem which has been laid for solution in the lap of the medical profession, went under diagnosis today at the opening session of the American Medical Association, holding its eightieth annual convention in Portland this week.

Although the officials in charge of the convention have shied completely away from the now-celebrated Schmidt case, which brought the question of exorbitant medical costs into public issue, the physicians nevertheless have before them a number of matters related directly to the cost problem.

Dr. M. L. Harris of Chicago, new president of the association, in his first presidential utterance before the house of delegates, the law-making body of American medicine, presented a plan for bringing the price of medical care within the reach of all the people of all classes. The Harris plan will be discussed in committee and brought again before the floor of the house, where it is expected to result in active, perhaps heated, discussion.

QUESTION OF ETHICS

Dr. William Allen Pusey, also of Chicago, asked for a rewriting of the ethical code affecting the practice of medicine by corporations, pay clinics, hospitals, charitable organizations and similar agencies. Such grave importance was attached to the Pusey resolution that the entire house of delegates went into executive session to consider it.

The section of the ethical code in question, as stated in Dr. Pusey's resolution, was voted unanimously by the house of delegates at the 1928 convention, and holds that the "practice of medicine is not the proper function of corporations, and that the American Medical Association should use its utmost endeavors to stop this growing abuse."

During the executive session a heated discussion ensued, it was learned, at which arguments on many sides of the medical cost controversy were aired.

Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, noted Chicago specialist, central figure in the controversy over medical costs, is in Portland, having come personally to present his appeal from the action ousting him from the Chicago Medical Society. But it was made plain by members of the judicial council of the association, which will pass final judgment upon Dr. Schmidt's professional standing, that no action will be taken at this session.

The proceedings of the convention opened with a denunciation of prohibition laws, delivered by Dr. William S. Thayer of Baltimore, retiring president of the association.

HARRIS PLAN

Dr. Harris, presenting his plan for hauling down the high costs of medical and hospital services, acknowledged that the solution of the problem clearly is an obligation of the medical profession. The association must meet the issue squarely and find a means of saving the middle-class public, which does not seek or accept charity, from the present high costs of illness, Dr. Harris said.

"My plan consists, in brief, in each county medical society forming a medical center with headquarters properly equipped for the diagnosis and treatment of all varieties of ambulatory patients," President Harris explained.

"The organization should be in a sense a pay clinic owned and controlled by the profession. Every person receiving services should pay. Those who are unable to pay regular fees should be treated at the center and charged a fee depending on their economic status and the character of the services rendered. Those who are unable to pay anything are charges on the community and should be paid for by the community, at rates to be agreed on by

FIND BALKS DOPE PLOT

Chinese Official's Wife Involved

Opium Valued at $1,000,000 in Luggage of Bay City Vice-Consul's Mate

Customs Men Open Trunks Despite Immunity Seals and Legal Protests

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—What government officials declare an audacious attempt to smuggle a fortune in opium through use of the baggage privileges extended foreign diplomats was frustrated today with seizure here by customs officials of 3000 tins of the contraband found in the luggage of Mrs. Suie Ying Kao, daughter of the Chinese Minister to Cuba and wife of the Chinese Vice-Consul here.

Customs inspectors say the opium is worth approximately $1,000,000.

Rare Chinese silks and laces on which no duty had been paid also were found in the luggage, which the Federal officials seized aboard the liner Tenyo Maru last Friday when Mrs. Kao returned from a visit to China. The luggage was not opened, however, until authority was received today from Washington for such action. There are eight large trunks and six suitcases.

SILK-LINED BAGGAGE

Eleven of these pieces of baggage, the search today revealed, were lined with expensive silks which covered the 3000 five-tael tins of the drug. Three other trunks, said to be the personal property of Mrs. Kao, were resealed without being searched and were kept under guard pending word from Washington.

Mrs. Kao, with her husband and their attorneys, watched the opening of the luggage. When the tins of the drug tumbled out on the floor she protested they were not her property and that she had no knowledge of them.

"Wealthy and influential" friends in China, Mrs. Kao explained, asked her to bring in the eleven pieces of baggage under her "courtesy of the port" privilege. The baggage, she believed, contained presents for friends in this country.

"VICTIM OF FRIENDS"

"Evidently they took advantage of my kindness to make me the dupe of a narcotic smuggling attempt," she declared to Henry Farmer, assistant Collector of Customs, and John Smith, special agent, whose investigations over a two-year period culminated in the seizure today.

The trunks were placed in liquor vaults at the Appraisers' Building and Mrs. Kao and her young husband were permitted to leave. The future procedure as regards the couple, Farmer says, rests with Washington, and no attempt will be made to question them until a ruling has been received from the capital.

Mrs. Kao refused to reveal the names of the "influential friends" who she declared were the owners of the narcotic-filled baggage.

FEAR OF DEATH

"To do so now, knowing what this luggage contains," she declared, "probably would result in my death."

Pending word from Washington, Smith and Farmer declare they will continue their investigation into the ramifications of a narcotic smuggling ring whose heads, they assert, direct operations from the Orient, where they are practically immune from prosecution.

The opium seized today, they say, is of the Macao brand, considered the best and most expensive of the many varieties used by addicts. Manufactured in Macao, Portuguese China, this opium, they say, is in demand all over the Orient as well as in Hawaii and in the United States.

TREASURY OFFICIALS LACK DRUG FIND DATA

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Treasury officials had received no information tonight of the finding of 3000 tins of opium in the baggage of Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese Vice-Consul in San Francisco, and any action that may be taken by the government awaits this information.

RUMANIAN PLOT CRUSHED

Twenty-five Conspirators, Including High Army Men, Arrested in Move to Seize Capital

BUCHARES, July 8. (Exclusive)—Twenty-five persons have been arrested, including Gen. Brosteanau and Col. Sturdza and Stokja, charged with conspiracy to overthrow the Rumanian government by force and to proclaim a dictatorship. Arrests were made late last night and early this morning. The entire country became wildly excited. Minister of the Interior Alexander Vayda-Voevod tonight issued a communique explaining that original reports were unfounded and the army was not involved, with the exception of Col. August Stokja.

That a plan existed to take possession of the postoffice and government buildings was denied. However, the government is taking every precaution to protect ammunition stores and prevent the defection of the garrisons.

The communique denies the report that 200 arrests were made and also that actual plans for a coup d'etat were formulated. The communique explains that the colonel and certain civilians, their names not mentioned, are guilty of conspiracy, but maintains that the plan was absurdly impossible and the government not for a second endangered.

However, Belgrade and Budapest report attempts to connect the conspiracy with the imminent visit of the exiled Prince Carol to Bled, Jugo-Slavia, where he will see his mother, Queen Marie. His mother is said to be continuously disputing with Princess Helen regarding the education of 7-year-old Michael, boy King of Rumania. His mother insists that Michael should be brought up democratically as any boy is, while Marie wants him brought up in the old fashion of kings.

FARM BOARD FILLING UP

Hoover Appoints Minnesotan

W. F. Schilling to Represent Dairying Industry; Meet Monday

Two More to be Selected, Including Spokesman for Wheat Men

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—President Hoover's task of selecting the members of the Federal Farm Board neared completion today with announcement that William F. Schilling of Northfield, Minn., had accepted appointment as spokesman for the dairying industry.

Six of the board's eight places have now been filled and Mr. Hoover looks forward confidently to filling the two remaining vacancies before next Monday, at which time the board will gather at the White House for its first meeting. All of the appointees have notified the President that they will be present.

BOARD PERSONNEL

As president of the Twin City Milk Producers' Association, Schilling has had considerable experience with co-operative associations dealing with the production and marketing of dairy products. The post of spokesman for the dairymen was offered last week to W. S. Moscrip, secretary-treasurer of the Twin City association, but he declined.

As now drawn up, the board will consist of Alexander H. Legge of Chicago, as chairman and representative of general business; James Stone of Lexington, Ky., as vice-chairman and spokesman for the tobacco growers; Carl Williams of Oklahoma City, representing cotton; K. B. Denman of Farmington, Mo., representing live stock; C. C. Teague of Los Angeles, representing the fruit-growing industry, and Schilling.

WHEAT POST UNFILLED

Of the two remaining vacancies, one at least will go to a spokesman for the wheat-growing industry. It is known that President Hoover has been having difficulty in settling upon a suitable appointee for this position.

President Hoover lost no time after returning this morning from his Blue Ridge Mountain fishing preserve in tackling the farm board problem. Less than an hour after he reached the White House he was in conference with Schilling. The latter left Washington this afternoon to keep speaking appointments in the Middle West but is expected back for the meeting of the board on Monday.

SCHILLING SUCCESSFUL AS CO-OPERATIVE MARKETER

NORTHFIELD (Minn.) July 8. (AP)—William F. Schilling, appointed to the new Federal Farm Loan Board today by President Hoover, is the head of what is recognized as one of the most successful co-operative marketing organizations in the United States, the Twin City Milk Producers' Association.

The association represents 7000 farmers living within a radius of forty miles of St. Paul and Minneapolis. Mr. Schilling has long been an advocate of dairying and diversified farming practices in this section, where he operates a 320-acre farm.

Mr. Schilling, who is 56 years of age, has served continuously as head of the association since 1917. He is also a director of the Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., another co-operative organization.

HYDE SAYS LAW HAS BENEFITED AGRICULTURE

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP)—Farm legislation passed at the recent special session of Congress already has had a big psychological effect in agriculture, Secretary Hyde, here on a visit, said today.

It has had a stabilizing effect on the market, he explained. "The effect in the future will be still greater, as the market always will realize the possibilities of the Farm Board's action.

"The Farm Board will meet Monday and as soon as it perfects its organization it will be ready for business. One of the first things before it will be to help stabilize the wheat prices.

"It is impossible to say what amount will be used from the $500,000,000 revolving fund for wheat. The procedure is within the entire control of the Farm Board, which is autonomous as the Supreme Court, and no one can forecast what it will do."

Secretary Hyde reiterated his advice to farmers to hold their wheat.

"It is on the upgrade," he said. "I believe if the farmers will hold it they will get more for it later."

OCEAN FLYERS HOP FOR ROME

lian capital about 9 o'clock, eastern standard time (6 o'clock Pacific time) Wednesday morning. Reports of favoring winds over most of the course were said by friends to have been the reason for cutting down on the fuel supply.

WILL TAKE READINGS

The flight was to be not only a long-distance attempt, but readings were to be made by Yancey, navigator of the plane, and a master mariner, to aid Dr. James H. Kimball, New York meteorologist, in forecasting weather conditions over the Atlantic. Dr. Kimball has been the unofficial starter of all trans-Atlantic flights, flyers waiting for a favorable report from him before taking off.

The plane is driven by a 200-horsepower Wright Whirlwind motor. It has an overall length of twenty-nine and one-half feet, and a wing span of fifty feet.

The Airvia Transport Company of New York, of which Williams is president, was revealed as the backer of the flight. Charles Ramsgate, New York attorney, and Williams's business manager, said the flight, including the plane, which was purchased from Mrs. James H. Stillman, had cost $30,000.

The course as outlined by Yancey will take the Pathfinder over Cape Sable, N. S., then east-southeast to the "corner" junction of ship lanes 1000 miles off Old Orchard, then along the forty-first parallel to Cape Ortegal, Spain, across to Bayonne, France, and over the Mediterranean to Rome.

MANY OFFICIALS NOW ON VACATIONS

ROME, July 8. (AP)—News of the hop-off of the Pathfinder for Rome reached the Eternal City in the midst of the summertime lunch hour and found new officials at their offices to receive it.

Since it is the beginning of the vacation season many prominent persons who would like to be on hand for the flyers' arrival are out of town. Ambassador Fletcher is taking the cure at Montecatini. Air Attache Maj. George E. Lovell, Jr., and Commander Patrick N. L. Bellinger, of the NC-4 crew were out of town today, but will return this evening.

The Air Ministry's principal secretary, who first learned of the take-off from the Associated Press, expressed delight that the American flyers had gotten away apparently to a good start.

FRENCH FLYERS HOPE FOR SUCCESS

CERMONT-FERRAND (France) July 8. (AP)—Jean Assolant, Rene Le Fevre and Armeno Lotti, the three French trans-Atlantic flyers who for so many days kept company with Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey at Old Orchard waiting for an opportunity to take off on their own successful Atlantic crossing, today expressed great satisfaction on hearing of the departure of the Pathfinder.

"Taking off is the hardest part of the flight," said Assolant. "Our sincerest wishes are with those two brave, charming chaps."

Lotti then added, "I hope they have better weather than we had." The flyers are guests of the Auvergne Aviation Club here.

Herrick Shaft to be Unveiled

PARIS, July 8. (AP)—The late Myron T. Herrick, who died at his post as Ambassador to France, will soon have his monument in the city he loved so well. A motion placed before the municipal council today provided for unveiling such a monument on the first anniversary of his death.

The site will be near the American Embassy, between the Place Des Etats-Unis and the Avenue Du President Wilson.

Chamberlain Seriously Ill

LONDON, July 9. (Tuesday) (AP) Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Conservative Foreign Minister, is sick in bed with a severe cold and a high temperature. The Daily Express stated this morning that his condition was not alarming but in view of his severe illness a year ago, complete rest and quiet were thought advisable as a precaution.

EXPERTS ENTER FRUIT FLY WAR

T. P. Headlee, State entomologist of New Jersey; Prof. Victor R. Gardner, horticulturist of the University of Michigan; Dr. G. A. Dean, entomologist of the University of Kansas; Dr. T. P. Cooper, agricultural economist of the State University of Kentucky, and Dr. Vernon Kellogg, secretary of the National Research Council.

In announcing the appointment of the committee Secretary Hyde stated definitely that the appointment of the outside experts is in no way a reflection on the men in the department who have been waging warfare against the dread fruit pest. He said that the situation is so grave that the department feels that the advice and opinion of a nationally representative body of agricultural experts will be of benefit to all concerned.

INDEPENDENT SURVEY

Members of the committee recommended by Dr. Marlatt, director of the Bureau of Plant Quarantine and Control, in continuance of his policy to leave no stone unturned in the battle against the fruit fly, will go over the ground in Florida and neighboring States, make an independent survey of the work done by State and Federal quarantine forces, investigate the co-operation of growers, shippers, jobbers, commission men and carriers, and check results. They will report their findings and recommendations directly to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Their findings will be correlated with the testimony of agriculturalists, entomologists, economists and others from the "front-line" States of the fly battle, who already have appeared before the Department of Agriculture in various hearings on the fruit fly quarantine.

Members of the committee here have not indicated that they will make recommendations along any specific line, preferring to cover the "battle ground" before commenting on the situation.

ment today after the baggage had been seized and asked that a full report of the incident in San Francisco be handed him.

It was secret agents of the Treasury abroad who gave the information that the trunks and handbags of Mrs. Kao contained the opium and caused the seizure.

No request has been received at the Treasury from Coast inspectors for permission to examine also the bags which Mrs. Kao said contain only her personal belongings. However, it is indicated that since contraband already has been found in the baggage of Mrs. Kao, her other bags also may be scrutinized, if the agents believe they contain illicit goods.

The attitude of the American government regarding such foreign officials as the Vice-Consul is that they do not enjoy the usual diplomatic privilege of nonsearch and nonseizure.

TRAIN BANDIT TRAIL POINTS TO THIS CITY

MARTINEZ, July 8. (Exclusive)—Postal inspectors and deputy sheriffs turned their attention to Los Angeles tonight in the search for the bandits who escaped with $16,600 worth of valuables in the machine gun hold up of a Southern Pacific train near here two weeks ago. Following discovery yesterday of two rifled and abandoned mail pouches in Pacheco Pass, investigators said the trail of the bandits, as followed to that point, indicated they had crossed the pass and driven to Los Angeles on the Coast Highway. It is believed they are being protected by friends in the southern city.

YOUNG BANDITS LOCK THEIR VICTIM IN ROOM

the community and the organization.

"The center should be managed by a board of directors which should arrange for the time and service that each is to devote to the work of the center. The income, which will be considerable, after paying the running expenses and upkeep, will go toward paying in an equitable manner those who do the work. Services eventually may be extended to patients of the same class at their homes, or in hospitals; in fact, the hospitals, which should be controlled and managed by the profession, should form a part of the general organization."

SCHMIDT CHARGE

It was for an indirect connection with the Public Health Institute that Dr. Schmidt was ousted on a charge of unprofessionalism from the Chicago Medical Society, and is the same charge which Dr. Schmidt seeks to present to the National Judicial Council. Dr. Schmidt is president of the Illinois Social Hygiene League, which treats all the charity patients of the Public Health Institute, and receives from the institute for this service an endowment of $12,000 annually.

Dr. James A. Bloss of Huntington, W. Va., introduced a resolution asking that the committee on medical education investigate the present methods of teaching obstetrics. There has been no decrease in the high rate of maternal mortality in childbirth since 1915, Dr. Bloss said. He pointed out that the causes of these deaths are in the main preventable and declared general practitioners should be given more complete courses in obstetrical methods.

Dr. J. C. Litzenberg of Minneapolis asked the house to condemn the action of the American Red Cross in allowing Red Cross nurses to work with chiropractors.

PROHIBITION FLAYED

Prohibitory laws and the whole subject of government regulations were pushed unexpectedly to the forefront of the convention as it got under way by Dr. William S. Thayer of Baltimore, president of the association. He warned of the presence of "tyranny" in any legislation covering subjects "as to what we may, or may not eat or drink, as to how we may dress, as to our religious beliefs or as to what we may or may not read."

Dr. Thayer did not mention prohibition specifically, but most of the delegates interviewed later expressed no doubt as to what the speaker implied.

"The Congress of the United States is not made up of men who desire to establish a tyranny," he said in his speech. "Far from it, but in certain ways against the warnings of wise and temperate men such as the Chief Justice they have passed laws which are intemperate, meddlesome and may justly be regarded as tyrannical.

"As a nation we have of recent years set a rather sorry example in the passage of ill-considered and intolerant prescriptions and prohibitions, some of which may be proper enough in certain localities where they represent the desire of the majority, but which when applied to the country at large interfere with the personal liberties of the people. Such laws cannot be enforced; they defeat their own ends."

City Seventh in Postal Returns

WASHINGTON, July 8. (Exclusive)—Los Angeles postal receipts for June insured her seventh place in the large cities of the United States. Los Angeles again went ahead of Cleveland and also exceeded Kansas City for the month of June. Only New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Detroit were ahead of Los Angeles. Los Angeles total receipts for the month were $809,028.23, an increase over last June of $8536.62.

San Francisco for this June showed $721,237.80 which was $33,469.06 less than for June 1928. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Kansas City this June showed great losses over last June. Only Los Angeles, Detroit and Boston showed increases.

In explaining the slump the Postoffice Department said that last June had twenty-six business days and this year there were only twenty-five business days.

MILL VALLEY HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

'UNTIN' BOWLER REMAINS SILENT

Information Lacking on Its Progress in Journey

Radio Reports Conflict on Whereabouts Now

Copyright, 1929, by the Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, July 8. (Exclusive)—Weather conditions which have been unfavorable in Canada since the 'Untin' Bowler, the Chicago Tribune's amphibian plane, left Lake Remi on the second lap of its Chicago-to-Berlin journey by way of Greenland and Iceland, apparently still are holding up the flight that would have carried the crew to Port Burwell on Cape Chidley today.

Again today there were reports that the weak hum of the generators attached to the plane's motors had been heard. Port Burwell operators believed they caught them between 10:30 and 10:40 a.m. The station at Hope's Advance, on the west side of Ungava Bay, heard a faint sound coming in that was assumed to be the same generator.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

On the other hand, the low wave station of WGN at Elgin, Ill., which had picked up a continuous indication of the motors running for five and a half hours on Sunday, had only a minute and a half of reception a little after 10 a.m., and the operators were far from satisfied they had heard the plane.

S. W. Brazill of Battle Harbor, Labrador, telegraphed that he had heard signals from the Bowler at 1:30 p.m. Sunday and held them for ten minutes. He added that he had heard the call letters of the plane's set, KHEJ, but was unable to get any message sent by Parker D. Cramer, copilot and radio sender, because of thunder and lightning.

The atmospheric disturbance continued until 4 p.m. and thereafter Brazill was unable to make any contact.

MAY NOT HAVE STARTED

Port Burwell and the Canadian radio marine headquarters at Ottawa are inclined to the opinion that the 'Untin' Bowler never has taken off from the Hudson's Bay Company post at Great Whale River, on the eastern shores of Hudson Bay. The signals at Burwell were described as "very distant."

The weather report this evening varied from those of previous days, holding good flying weather soon will prevail over the Ungava territory, although the improvement thus far has been slight. Cape Chidley is at the northeastern end of the bay.

MENINGITIS BAN PUT ON ORIENT

State Department's Order Prohibits Entrance

China and Philippines Cited in Health Edict

Exceptions Being Formulated by Dr. Cumming

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The State Department today made public an executive order restricting the entrance of all persons from China or the Philippine Islands into the United States, except under conditions prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury as a result of the continuance of an epidemic of cerebrospinal meningitis in those sections.

The order said that since last November, seventeen trans-Pacific passenger vessels had arrived at Pacific ports with the infection existing among oriental steerage passengers.

ORDER STRICT

It read, in part: "No persons may be introduced directly or indirectly by transshipment or otherwise into the United States of a wise into the United States or any of its possessions or dependencies from any port in China (including Hongkong) or the Philippine Islands for such period of time as may be deemed necessary, except under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury."

The order, which took effect June 21, last, said the continued arrival of vessels having cerebrospinal meningitis aboard has overtaxed the combined available quarantine facilities of Federal and local health authorities, and that notwithstanding the quarantine defense there is danger of the introduction of the disease into the United States.

NOW EFFECTIVE

Public health officials said the order is now in effect and will obtain without exception until the Public Health Service issues regulations permitting the entry of ships under certain conditions.

Vessels which left the Far East before the order was issued on June 21, last, will be admitted. No exception, however, will be made in the case of any vessel which left the Far East after the order was issued, until the health service provides for admission of excepted vessels.

Surg.-Gen. Cumming appointed a board of health officers to draw up regulations permitting certain exceptions, but these have not been completed. Dr. Cumming is attending the meeting of the American Medical Association in Portland, Or., and is studying suggestions regarding the regulations.

He has conferred with health officials at San Francisco and Seattle, and the rules permitting exceptions to President Hoover's order are expected to be announced soon.

LADY DUKES WEDS IN PARIS

Margaret Rutherford Becomes Princess Murat at Quiet Church Ceremony

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Margaret Rutherford, former wife of Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, and later ballet dancer and devotee of the cult of Oom the Omnipotent, was married for the third time today in Paris to Prince Charles Murat, son of Prince Joachim Napoleon Murat.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and the late Morris Rutherford, was one of New York society's most spectacular figures. She became the bride of Ogden Mills in a brilliant marriage during the social season of 1911. Eight years later they were divorced.

Shortly thereafter, she became associated with the mystic order of the "Tantriks of India," a so-called love cult. At Nyack, N. Y., center of the cult, she met Sir Paul Dukes, who had been knighted for his services as head of the British secret service in Russia in the early days of the soviet regime. He had come to America to recuperate from a nervous breakdown. They were married.

The Dukes lived in New York and entertained advocates of a "new thought" movement. Early this year Lady Dukes was granted a Paris divorce.

In April, 1928, a year before her divorce, Lady Dukes made her stage debut here. Under her maiden name, Margaret Stuyvesant Rutherford, she became a member of the cast of Gabrilov's ballet, "Her Majesty's Escapade," at Gallo Theater.

Today's marriage in Paris, celebrated at the Church of St. Francois the Savior, was witnessed by Alan Rutherford, cousin of the bride; Jacques Balsan, husband of the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, the Duc D'Elchingen, and Prince Charles Murat's brother, Prince Joachim.

ITALY TRIES TO RECLAIM AMERICAN

Italian-Born Citizen Flees Homeland When Ordered to Serve in Army

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) July 8. (AP) Sam Cefalu, 23 years of age, of Milwaukee, landed here on the Fabre liner Sinaia last night, declaring that he had fled from Palermo, Italy, because the Italian government had tried to force him, an American-born citizen, to serve two years in the army. He left his mother and young bride, whom he married on the trip in Palermo, he said. They planned to rejoin him and his father in Milwaukee next month.

Cefalu said the Italian authorities told him his American rights meant nothing to them because his parents were born in Italy. Under the present government, he declared, it takes two generations born on American soil officially to remove an Ijalian from the jurisdiction of the government at Rome.

With him on the Sinaia were Antonio Anastasi of Centredale, R. I., and Vito Schiliro of New York, who said they also fled from Italy to escape prison sentences imposed upon them because they failed to return to Italy for service during the World War. Both are said to be naturalized American citizens.

UNECONOMIC RECLAIMING DENOUNCED

Future Irrigation Projects Depend on Soundness, Says Secretary Wilbur

PORTLAND (Or.) July 8. (AP)—The future development of reclamation projects in the West by the Interior Department will depend on the economic soundness of the individual projects proposed.

Secretary Wilbur, on an inspection trip of Interior Department activities in the West, declared here today that the department was making a complete economic survey of existing irrigation projects and that where "the economics of the situation are unsound stern remedial measures will be resorted to."

"Most reclamation projects depend largely on the kind of people who settle them," Dr. Wilbur said. "But in a number of cases we have placed good farmers on reclaimed land to compete in an open market with the result that they have practically starved to death.

"There is no more reprehensible trick in the world than settling a farmer on land where there is no chance for him to make a living," he declared.

BLACKHAND BLAMED IN BOY'S DEATH

Police Hunt Man Believed to Have Sent Threats to Victim's Parents

SAUGUS (Mass.) July 8. (AP)—Hysterically shrieking "Patsy has carried out his threat," Mrs. Santi Demori, of the North End district of Boston, today identified the body of a 10-year-old boy found in the marshes here yesterday as that of her son, Salvatore. The boy had been missing nineteen days.

According to police, "Patsy" was the leader of a blackhand group in Boston, which in a letter had demanded $5000 from the boy's father under threat of injury to his family.

The threat, police said, was the outgrowth of a feud of long standing. The first demand was made shortly before the boy disappeared. During his absence two other letters were received which contained similar threats.

The identity of "Patsy" is known to police and a search is being made for him.

JOHN D. FEASTS—HIS EYES

Oil Baron's Birth Anniversary Just Another Day Save as Festal Cake Decorates Board

TARRYTOWN (N. Y.) July 8. (AP)—Entirely in accordance with the rules for sane and simple living which he advocates, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., today passed his ninetieth birthday anniversary.

The only deviation from the daily routine at Pocantico Hills was the presence on the dinner table tonight of a large birthday cake. Members of his family assembled in the mansion as is customary on his natal days.

"Sane and simple living," to Mr. Rockefeller means, among other things, privacy. To avoid the camera man he remained away from church yesterday and today a group of reporters and photographers who gathered outside the high fence around his estate hoping to be invited inside were disappointed, as usual.

The day—just a "usual day" at Pocantico Hills—began for Mr. Rockefeller at 7 a.m. He had breakfast at 8, attended to a few business matters and listened while his secretary read the newspapers aloud until 9, and then, attired in a soft shirt and pair of old baggy trousers, played nine holes of golf on his private course with intimate friends whose names were not revealed.

After luncheon he took a nap. In the late afternoon there was a drive with some of the members of his family and then dinner at 7:30, with the cake as the unusual decorative feature. During the day many congratulatory messages were received.

UNIFORM LAWS OF AIR URGED

Standard Rules Keynote of Western States Parley

Four Governors Attending Sessions in Idaho

Mrs. Willebrandt Appears for Corporation

BOISE (Idaho) July 8. (AP)—States within whose bounds many of the bitter railroad battles were fought in the early days of that industry's history today had delegates here to form a permanent organization whose aim will be to prevent development of such troubles in the world of aviation.

The opening session of the Western States' Aeronautical Conference found representatives here from all but one of the eleven Western States, New Mexico, whose delegates are to arrive tomorrow.

In the list were four governors, George H. Dern of Utah, I. L. Patterson of Oregon, Frank C. Emerson of Wyoming and H. C. Baldridge of Idaho, sponsor of the congress.

In addition were representatives of the Navy, the Army, the Department of Commerce, as well as representatives of virtually every prominent aviation company in the country. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney-General, and now chief counsel for the Aviation Corporation of America, represented her company.

UNIFORM LEGISLATION

Throughout most of the several speeches of the day was wound the principal theme of "uniform legislation" to govern this rapidly growing industry and protect both the industry and the people served by it.

"The story of human flight is an unfinished, thrilling romance, and we who are gathered here should feel proud that we may, in some small degree, influence the writing of future chapters in that great epic," said Gov. Dern in an address on the necessity for uniform legislation.

"Wherever planes fly, regulations must extend," he said.

Gov. Dern predicted a time when all airports will be built on the same plan as highways—Federal aid combined with local funds.

Other speakers were Gov. Baldridge, P. G. Johnson, president of Boeing Aircraft Corporation; Col. Harry H. Blee, representing the Department of Commerce; Gov. Patterson, and former Representative Allan J. Furlow of Minnesota.

FURLOW'S WARNING

Furlow, a World War aviator, warned that all States should base their legislation on the Federal air code to prevent a multiplicity of regulations that would hamper the industry.

Col. Blee said these States which have adopted Federal regulations or have co-operated with the Federal department in licensing, have crowded unfit factors out of the air in their States with the result that those States which lagged behind have been forced to absorb this unairworthy stock. He called on these States to fall in line to put it out altogether.

A committee on committees, composed of the four governors present and representatives of the governors, met following the afternoon conference to work toward formation of the permanent organization which is the aim of the conference.

REVENUE OFFICE PROPOSED HERE

Shortridge Recommends New Southwest District

Suggestion Made in Letter to Secretary Mellon

Porter Linder Mentioned for Collector's Position

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8. (Exclusive)—Los Angeles may be the center of a new internal revenue collection district for Southern California and Arizona if Secretary Mellon approves the suggestion just made to him by Senator Shortridge. He bases his recommendation on the belief that Los Angeles is now the fourth city of the United States in population and that the change would save the United States much time and expense now required in sending inspectors from San Francisco, where the headquarters heretofore have been maintained. He also says that the motion-picture industry and the great development in oil production in Southern California call for certain specialists and experts to pass on both these sources of income taxes and that no such development occurs elsewhere in the country.

SHORTRIDGE LETTER

Senator Shortridge incorporated his recommendations in a letter to Secretary Mellon. If the Secretary of the Treasury will approve, the new district can be created at once by department order initiated by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Lucas.

Senator Shortridge explained to Secretary Mellon the need for this change as follows:

"I am informed that Mr. E. C. Wright, internal revenue agent in charge of the San Francisco division, is resigning from the service, effective August 31, next, and has recommended the creation of a new field division of revenue agents with headquarters in Los Angeles. This reminds me of the fact that prominent citizens of my State repeatedly have requested me to urge your department to establish another field division. Some of the arguments advanced in support of the requests for a change may be summarized as follows: First, because Los Angeles ranks as the fourth city of the United States in population; second, because Los Angeles, which requires the constant attention of more than half the total number of agents employed in the division, is located about 473 miles south of the present headquarters at San Francisco, causing unnecessary expense of travel and inconvenience for many of the principal taxpayers.

"Third, because the Los Angeles branch office would function more efficiently as well as more economically if designated as the headquarters of a new division.

NO ADDED COST

"Fourth, because the moving-picture industry and progressive developments in the oil fields of Southern California require the expert attention of revenue agents acquainted with the district and specialists in that class of audit work.

"I am also informed that the change suggested herein would not disrupt the existing organization in any way, or necessitate the appointment of additional personnel other than that of one more revenue agent in charge. It is claimed that this added expense, if any, would be offset by the reduction of much travel expense that is necessary under the present arrangement.

"In view of the foregoing I respectfully recommend the creation of a second division of revenue agents in California—the first to comprise the first collection district of California and the State of Nevada, and the second the sixth collection district of California and the State of Arizona.

"Anticipating favorable consideration of that recommendation, I also am taking the liberty of suggesting the promotion of Mr. E. W. Wilde, Jr., present assistant revenue agent in charge of the position of internal revenue agent in charge of the San Francisco division and Mr. Porter Linder, a Californian temporarily on duty in New York State, for the position of revenue agent in charge of the new Los Angeles division."

Youth Who Cut Girl Confesses Detroit Murder

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Charles Delaet, an unemployed bus boy, who confessed to the police that he had killed a woman in Detroit four years ago, today slashed Miss Caroline Goodwin of Rahway, N. J., with a razor at Broadway and Vesey street as thousands of office workers were on their way to business.

Miss Goodwin, a telephone clerk who is 19 years of age, received a twelve-inch razor slash across the back requiring fifteen stitches. Her condition was stated at the hospital to be favorable.

The attacker had scarcely inflicted the wound when he was knocked out by Joseph Gabarino of Brooklyn, who leaped from his truck and held him until the arrival of the police.

The slasher said he is 23 years of age, and has no home.

FUTURE BUDGET WILL BE LARGER

Government at Minimum of Expenditure

Gen. Lord Compares Old and New Estimates

Further Cut Will Put End to Some Activities

[This is the third of a series of personal reminiscences by Gen. Herbert M. Lord, who retired recently as director of the United States Budget after seven years' service, during which he supervised the expenditure of more than $25,000,000,000 in government funds.]

BY GEN. HERBERT M. LORD,
Former Director of the United States Budget

As Told to William P. Helm, Jr.
[Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

WASHINGTON, July 8. (Exclusive)—We are quite near the minimum expenditure at which the government of the United States can conduct its business on the scale to which it is now attuned.

In my judgment there will be a few more large economies. If the cost of carrying on the business of the Federal government is to be cut still further, and by that I mean cut appreciably, it will have to be done by lopping off some of the present activities.

In harmony with the progress of the country industrially, socially, financially and otherwise the government must keep step with the times. And the times advance swiftly in presenting inventions and developments and with them new problems.

COSTS WILL INCREASE

The government must provide its proper and fitting accompaniment to these things as they appear on the world stage. Inevitably this means an increase as time goes on in the cost of conducting government affairs, but it need not be a wasteful or extravagant increase. Rather it should be an increase essential to our continuing progress.

Yesterday the magic of the radio lay at the bottom of the government's half-opened Pandora's box. Nowhere in the list of Federal spendings of even ten years ago was there an item remotely connected with the government's supervision of air waves. Where would radio and its millions of devotees be today had the government not taken on this new policing? A new item, an increase in the cost of government; a vast benefit. The three things go hand-in-hand.

Thirty years or so ago there was no great and growing item of expense incidental to the upbuilding of public highways with Federal aid. But thirty years ago there were no vast motor caravans; the automobile was an uncertain plaything. And thirty years hence it may well be that today's public spendings for highways and their maintenance will appear puny and inconsequential beside the current outlays then.

MORE EXPENSE AHEAD

The lid of Pandora's box of Federal financial problems is still but ajar. One can visualize a vast air fleet darkening the skies in coming days so near as to be within the life span of those now in middle age. Does anyone believe this new development of human progress will not present its own bill to the taxpayers of the United States?

The tendency is altogether away from further great reductions in governmental costs. The trend is toward a rising scale. It is only a natural development. The problem of the government in days to come, it seems to me, will be, as it is today, to see that the moneys spent in its activities are spent well.

But I am straying from my comparison of the old way and the new, which I began in the preceding chapter.

No longer does the Treasury collect the estimates of annual expenditures, tie them up and send them to Congress. No longer do department and bureau heads scurry around to bring influence to bear on this, that or the other member of Congress to favor their pet appropriations. No longer is government money appropriated without thought of government revenues. No longer is each little part of the government a self-sufficient unit, going its own financial way in solitary and expensive grandeur.

BUDGET NOW PATTERN

The first thing to do under the new way was to ascertain as carefully and accurately as possible the prospective government revenues for the coming fiscal year. We wanted to know first how much money would be available for spending. This seems so elemental that I never cease to marvel at its prior oversight. We of the Budget Bureau, in a way, were so many tailors; the first thing we had to know was how much cloth would be available for our garments.

And the next thing was to cut the garments according to the cloth, always with the thought that we would leave some cloth for the next time. Invariably we found during those first few years that the various branches of the government demanded more money than the Treasury expected to take in. Even had we wanted to give them all they asked the thing would have been impossible.

Instead of an annual surplus the Treasury would have incurred an annual deficit. Instead of enjoying four reductions in Federal income taxes we would be worrying along today on the tax scale of 1918.

The Budget Bureau first estimated the available revenues and then turned to the estimated spendings. And always it was necessary to cut the proposed spendings, sometimes to cut them deeply and extensively, to fit them within the compass of Federal revenues. So with the two sets of figures in hand, estimated income and outgo, we went to the White House and placed them before the President.

EXPENSES KEPT DOWN

Of course, the inevitable happened. The President approved our recommendations that expenditures be held within the total of estimated revenues. Indeed, that policy was of Presidential making—Harding's, Coolidge's and Hoover's successively—and the Budget Bureau's function was to submit to the President proposals regarding the details of the cutting.

Hence there went out each year, always with the President's approval, word to the spending branches of the executive establishment that their estimates would not be submitted in full to Congress because the Treasury would be unable to supply all the money they asked. Each department, board and commission was notified that a certain sum would be available for its spending, and was requested to revise its preliminary estimate to conform to the figures.

There were many heartburnings in government offices during the early days of this practice. But in the end the departments, boards, commissions and bureaus came to the allotments. Where in their opinion the allocations were insufficient to permit them to carry on their work they had the privilege of submitting supplemental estimates. Hearings were held on these and sometimes additional funds were granted.

The first great step had been taken. Government expenses were held within government revenues. The President recommended to Congress the appropriation of no funds the Treasury couldn't provide. Congress took kindly to these recommendations, pruned each successive budget a bit on its own account, and passed appropriation bills based in the budget findings.

There were other important steps to be taken, however, before the budget system should become fully effective, and to these I shall refer presently.

PRINCE AND MRS. COREY NEIGHBORS

King of Spain's Cousin and ex-Actress Said to Be Preparing to Wed

GENOA (Italy) July 8. (AP)—The prematrimonial vicissitudes of Prince Luis De Bourbon, cousin of the King of Spain, and Mrs. Mabelle Gilman Corey, divorced wife of the Pittsburgh steel operator, have taken another turn by the presence of both parties at San Remo.

Following statements from both sides that the projected marriage is "all off," the Prince bought the villa Bellevue, located on the Corso Victor Hugo. Mrs. Corey arrived yesterday and is staying at the Miramare Palace Hotel in the neighborhood.

Most of the current rumor in San Remo social circles is that the couple has been reconciled and that their marriage soon will take place.

On June 26, last, Mrs. Corey issued a statement declaring that her engagement to Prince Luis was "absolutely finished." The Prince's dissatisfaction over the details of the marriage settlement which the former Broadway actress was willing to make with him was understood to be behind the break in their romance. On June 12 it was learned that Mrs. Corey had agreed to provide the Prince with $1000 a month for pocket money, but that he had decided he would have to have a better allowance.

Omaha Merchant Beaten in Fight With Dry Agents

OMAHA, July 8. (AP)—Harry B. Zimman, former City Commissioner and now secretary-treasurer of the city's largest department store company, J. L. Brandeis & Sons, was arrested by Federal prohibition agents last night and charged with illegal possession of intoxicating liquors.

A number of persons witnessed Zimman's arrest a few doors from his home, attracted by a fight between Zimman and the officers. Zimman today bore as evidence of the struggle a closed and blackened right eye. Lawrence Thompson, one of the agents, admitted striking the merchant, after, he declared, Zimman had struck at Stanley Riegel, another dry agent. According to the agents, Zimman struck at Riegel after both had shown their badges.

"They absolutely did not show their badges," declared Zimman.

FARMERS' RADIO HOUR LAUNCHED

Secretary Hyde Inaugurates Daily Feature

Urban Interest Besought as Well as Rural

Facts to Aid Agriculturists Will Be Offered

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) July 8. (AP) Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture inaugurated the daily "national farm and home" period of the National Broadcasting Company at 12:35 p.m., central standard time, today, with an appeal for urban as well as rural interest in the operations of the new Federal Farm Board.

Describing the act creating the board as a venture unprecedented in history, the Secretary, who is an ex-officio member of the new farm relief agency, declared "there has been no program and no legislation in aid of any industry comparable with it."

FACTS TO BE GIVEN

"The American people are now embarking upon a new enterprise, the organization of agriculture for self-help," he said. "For its success, every individual, whether farmer or not, must know why the action of the new farm board is taken. Therefore, the department will try to keep the public, both urban and rural, informed. A clear understanding of the problems of farming is vital in showing the national necessity for solving them."

This department, he observed, is a "great research laboratory seeking economic facts, biological facts," and its chief problem is to get these facts to the 6,000,000 farmers of the country as quickly as possible.

"Theirs is a different situation from the business man," he said. "In the business world, a dozen men can act, and act quickly, for the interests of an entire industry. There is no board of directors to act for agriculture, although organization of farmers is progressing rapidly, and must continue to do so if agriculture interests are to thrive."

PLANS OUTLINED

In the new daily broadcasts over a National Broadcasting Company network of thirty-one stations, the department proposes to give the day-to-day agricultural facts, with only such interpretation as will make them of the most practical value, the Secretary said. He named taxation, land policy, farm credits, freight rates, roads, waterways development, co-operative marketing and agricultural surpluses as among the subjects to be discussed.

"Our general answer to farm problems is organization. Organization to control marketing, to standardize output, to eliminate the waste and duplication of a marketing and distributing system which, generally speaking, absorb $2 for every $1 it returns to the farmer," he declared, inviting any farmer wishing facts not broadcast to write to the department setting forth his needs.

If Everyone Past 40 knew what his Doctor knows

THE verdict of doctors is: Over half of men and women past 40 have a kidney ailment of some form; many without knowledge of it.

The reason, they say, is through overwork of these vital organs. To eliminate 75% of poisons from the system is their daily task. Constant wear and tear begins to tell at 40. Kidney cells wear out. Then comes improper functioning, gradually undermining health.

Eminent medical authority now prescribes six glasses of Puritas, a pure mineral-free water, each day. It acts to dissolve poisonous waste, absorbes and carries it off, without leaving mineral deposits. Thus it eases the burden of kidneys and protects their normal functioning.

Puritas is scientifically distilled and aerated. All minerals and impurities are removed. Thus it is impurity-free—the purest water obtainable. Though its taste you'll find different at first, each drink you will increasingly enjoy. Telephone TRinity 1861 for immediate Puritas delivery.

JAPAN ENGLISH READS QUEERLY

Sea "Unextraordinarily Rich in Fish," Says Year Book

Official "Big Man of Small Stature," Another Phrase

"J. P. Morgan, Having Died, Retired Years Ago"

[Fred Hogue, member of The Times staff, is one of a group of American journalists touring the Near West for a study of conditions under the auspices of the Carnegie Foundation. This article is one of a series he is sending back by mail.]

BY FRED HOGUE

MUKDEN, July 14. (Exclusive)—"The seas around Chosen are unextraordinarily rich in many kinds of fish." So the new Japanese Year Book informs me. I leave it for the readers of The Times to determine for themselves what "unextraordinarily" means. When these Japanese translators tell me that a certain prominent official is "a big man of small stature," I close the book.

My curiosity gets the better of me. I take another look; and read, "The honorable J. Pierpont Morgan is the richest banker in the United States; but, having died, he retired from active business several years ago."

Asking the Japanese to express an opinion is about as successful as asking a man from Aberdeen for the loan of a shilling. According to the very unreliable bits of information that I have been able to accumulate, the Japanese official departments trusted American residents twenty years ago to revise some of their English translations. The revisers were false to the trust reposed in them. They used words of "double entendre;" and Japanese "face" was badly transfigured.

STUDENTS TRANSLATE

Now the translations are made by young graduates of English or American educational institutions. They know a little more about English than the average college graduate, but not much.

The Japanese tongue abounds in "honorific" terms; and these must all be contained in the English text. Here is another example, from a recent government publication. It refers to the colliery at Fushun.

"It seems that these various technical industries of those days were pursued by more civilized Korean eminents who buy coal at this mine to feed their furnaces."

I am not writing this in a scoffing mood; for I fully appreciate the effort and expenditure the government makes to render its publications understandable to those who are so illiterate as not to understand Japanese. Imagine the result if our government translated the Congressional Record into Japanese!

I am simply offering an alibi in advance for using fiction for fact, and fact for fiction, in my scrupulously prepared articles on the "Honorable Country and Eminents" of Manchuria.

CHINESE LAZY

The eminent farmer that I have observed from the car window is generally a brunette, almond-eyed lady who stands with her dainty feet planted far apart; her dress covering in the back a part of her hips; stirring the soil with her fingers without bending her knees.

Honorable husband is generally squatting on his heels in the shade of a telegraph pole, puffing away on the pipe with a three-foot stem and a bowl about the size of a cherry.

The Chosen and Manchurian farm hands stay in the fields sixteen hours; and, allowing for elapsed time, work about forty-five minutes.

At that, the Manchurian farm hand is worthy his hire; for he gets in the busy season 15 cents a day, and must board and lodge himself.

They all prefer service in the fields adjoining the railroad; and their gratitude is boundless to the Japanese Government Railways for erecting those telegraph poles. Elsewhere in the fields there is no shade.

HOES ALWAYS QUIET

These Chinese military governor would stoutly resist a reduction in the hours they must spend in the fields. It keeps them from gathering in the villages and plotting revolutions.

I have seen hundreds of them leaning on the handles of their hoes among the rows of growing corn in my morning ride north from Mukden; and I have not seen a single hoe in action. When the smoke of the train rises over one horizon all action ceases; and they remain in somnolent repose until the last trace of smoke fades on the other.

I contrast this with the Japanese farmer on the Island of Honshu. I cannot recall seeing a single one cease from his labor to watch the train pass.

What I have been recounting is not trivial; it is fundamental. The contrast between the loitering Chinaman and the hustling Japanese, is symbolic of what is taking place in the Orient. Japan is tugging on the collar; China is balking like a Missouri mule.

Young men in China, educated in the Occident, are striving to awaken their countrymen from their lethargy. They struggle up the mountain of progress; then comes another revolution, and hurls them back.

JAPANESE MISSING

I sit by the window of a Pullman car, imported from my own country, and watch the passing show. We are 200 miles north from Mukden, in the direction of the Siberian border.

There is more action in the fields. I see hoes flashing in the sunlight. I am passing through rolling prairies, like those of the Middle West. I see horses drawing cultivators and fewer women in the corn; but no Japanese farmers.

I shall discuss this in another article—why the Japanese farmer does not migrate to Manchuria. Low as it appears to us from the West, the Japanese standard of living is so superior to that of China that the Japanese can only compete in mercantile pursuits; and a Chinese who patronizes a Japanese merchant is ostracized.

What can governments do to change these fundamental conditions? Japanese ambition flattens against this immobility, like a bullet striking a rock.

In the suburbs of Heijo I saw an instance of Koreans using American implements. They were doing some road work, and had been provided with an American shovel. Three of them were operating it. They had drilled two holes in the blade, and attached ropes there. One Korean drove the shovel into the gravel. Then he pushed on the handle and the others pulled on the ropes. They cannot conceive that there exists a race powerful enough to manipulate that implement alone.

INSECT-LIFE CONQUEST OF MANKIND PICTURED

BERKELEY, July 8.—There seems to be some consolation for the poor white man after all. Some scientists are convinced that the blacks and yellows are going to rule the universe. Prof. E. O. Essig of the University of California entomology department says insects are going to rule the whole works unless we get busy and find some means of combatting them.

In an article prepared for a scientific magazine, Prof. Essig says: "The dominance of man in this age of the world is evident in many respects. That he now effectually rules the land, air and water cannot be denied. That he at least partly subjugated other living forms may be admitted. But the story is not yet concluded.

"In the world of minute organisms what has been done to subjugate the millions of pestiferous bacteria and protozoans, some of which at times cause man to appear helpless? And the fungous diseases which continue to cut down his food supply? At best he can stay their advance only temporarily.

"The insects so far have maintained themselves on this earth much longer than any other living type of higher animals, and very much longer than man. For this reason it may be assumed that insects are capable of withstanding a much greater variety of conditions than the human race.

"The greatest task now ahead of man is to do away with the destructive smaller forms of life. To me this task does not seem at all hopeless. Ours is not the menial chore so often alluded to as 'chasing bugs,' but rather the gigantic task of saving the human race."

SKELETON GIVES CLEW IN MYSTERY

Bones Found in Nebraska Thought Those of Missing Partner of "Chain Man"

OMAHA, July 8. (AP)—A skeleton found yesterday may be the answer to the question: "What happened to Gus Grimes, partner of Fred Brown, the 'chain man?'" The skeleton was found buried fifteen feet from the shack in which Brown lived and where he chained two women and a man who went to their rescue. Brown himself was killed in an attempted prison break in 1925. During the time he kept the women and man prisoner, he dug graves which he told his victims were for them. The man's escape and his story of the women being held in chains at the shack led to their rescue.

Grimes, whose skeleton police believe they have found, disappeared shortly after having been introduced to several persons by Brown.

The skeleton had been wrapped in an army blanket and buried in front of the shack not far from the excavations which Brown intended as graves for the two women.

Discovery of the bones was made by a motorist digging the wheels of his car out of the mire.

Quezon Pledges Support to Governor-General as He Assumes Duties

MANILA, July 8. (AP)—Support of the Filipino people to Dwright F. Davis, who became Governor-General of the Philippines today, was pledged by Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate. Quezon, long an ardent worker for Philippine independence, said:

"I take pleasure in giving assurance that Gov.-Gen. Davis will have the decided support of our people."

The reaction to Davis's inaugural speech was that he held himself in check, outlining the policies he proposes to follow only in the most general way. The speech, however, was received favorably by political and business circles. The Governor's remarks about honesty in government especially appealed to business interests.

SELECTED
SUNFREZE
Quality-protected Ice Cream
DEALER

THIS SIGN is "YOUR SEAL OF QUALITY"

Here's why you should patronize the shop displaying this "SEAL OF QUALITY"

WHY?...It is the "quality store" in your neighborhood. It is operated by a man who has made a name for himself by the consistent high quality of the merchandise he sells. He is catering to people who appreciate—and expect—the best, and is thereby raising the merchandising standards in his community.

SUNFREZE dealers are "quality dealers"—selected because of their superior business methods, their better merchandise, and the high type of stores they operate. The SUNFREZE Emblem then becomes the dealers' pledge of quality of anything he sells.

SUNFREZE dealers pay more for their principal commodity, ice cream, because they prefer to sell you the best. They know SUNFREZE is prepared from a scientifically balanced formula, containing such an abundance of the vital food elements that it really is a food vital as sunshine. This scientific care and preparation makes it cost more to manufacture and because the dealer knows it is a better ice cream, he is willing to pay more for it. Thus, he is a "Quality Dealer", because everything in his store conforms to this same ideal. That's why you should patronize the shop displaying the "Seal of Quality".

TRY SUNFREZE TODAY!—in bulk (all flavors) or in packages. Have you tried it this new way?—in dainty Sunfreze Cups "with the Fruit on Top", four cream flavors, four fresh fruit toppings. Handy to serve anywhere—at home, at picnics, beach parties, or in the automobile."

WHITE TRACES RISE OF PRESS

Kansan Speaks at Chicago "News" Dedication

Editors Called Agents of Indomitable Change

Newspapers Searchers for Path of Progress

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—A product of creative evolution under folk instinct, the modern newspaper is a mechanism that steadfastly searches out the path of progress, William Allen White, author and editor of Emporia, Kan., said in an address today at the dedication of the Chicago Daily News Building.

Newspapers are industrializing,

BOOK-TAUGHT 'FLYER' HAS FROLIC ON SOLO JOY RIDE

LONDON, July 8. (Exclusive)—Everybody is gasping today at the amazing adventure of a 20-year-old aircraftsman of the Royal Air Force who, without any knowledge of how to fly a machine except what he read in books, as the result of a bet with a comrade, took off in a two-seated bomber capable of carrying ten persons, and took a four-hour joy ride in South England.

The aircraftsman was on duty ready to fly with the machine's mechanic, when one of his pals bet him he could not fly the machine. To the amazement of everybody he climbed into the cockpit and took off to the south.

Airplanes and automobiles were sent out to try and locate him, but they failed. At 10 o'clock he returned to the airdrome, while ambulances and the fire brigade stood by ready to pick up the pieces.

Watchers held their breath when he attempted to land, which he did beautifully, but too fast, the machine running into a hedge and slightly damaging the under-carriage. Coolly he jumped out, lit a cigarette and strolled toward his quarters. He was arrested and will be court-martialed.

he said, but he found this "no proof of a crass materialism."

CREATED BY PEOPLE

"The people themselves have created this thing we know as the newspaper. Editors and owners are helpless evolutionary agents of indomitable change. The people have created the modern newspaper by trial and error, by instinctive rejection of the false and insatiable hungry for the truth.

"The people have wrought this engine that slowly, often sadly, sometimes sordidly and miserably, but in the end surely, steadily is nosing out the path of progress. As

The temples and monumental shrines, the cathedrals of old grew out of man's deep needs, so have our hands through the centuries fashioned this new mechanism made with steel and lead and fiber and soot and gold and blood and brains, the newspaper—the work of our hands.

VOICE OF DAVID

"And now before this beautiful Chicago Daily News Building, consecrated to the pursuit of truth, we may well lift up our voices with David who cried: 'Establish thou, O, Lord, the work of our hands; the work of our hands establish Thou it!' "

The newspaper business office, "once deemed the greasy engine of locomotion," Mr. White said, "now guides automatically the Archimedian lever that moves the world."

AD MAN PRAISED

"Who," he asked, "distributed 22,000,000 automobiles in America? Who put a bathroom in every house, tooth brushes in every bathroom and tooth paste tubes there as the sands of the sea? Who girdled our great cities and towns with bungalows? Who abolished petticoats and snipped skirts to knee length to reveal to the world silk-cased legs that had gathered dust in darkness for 10,000 years? Who brought the talking picture to us after news editors had been five years marveling and editorial writers had been futilely prophesying?

"It was the advertising man. He tears the chrysalis from the cocoon of aspiring vision and produces the butterfly of dazzling reality."

HOOVER STARTS PRESSES

President Hoover pressed a button at the White House in Washington, starting the paper's great new presses as part of the ceremony. He also sent greetings.

Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, spoke by radio from Washington. The roar of the presses as the first few hundred papers were printed as well as the speeches on the plaza, were picked up by radio and a public address system so they could be heard by guests at the building and listeners of the Columbia Broadcasting chain over the nation.

Rufus C. Dawes, head of the Chicago World's Fair committee, lauded the late Melville E. Stone and Victor F. Lawson, founders of the Daily News.

HIGHER RAYON TARIFF URGED

Silk Association Spokesman Cites Danger to Industry

Artificial Product's Inroads in This Field Set Forth

Cuban Envoy at Havana to Discuss Sugar Situation

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Rayon was pictured before a Senate tariff subcommittee today as likely to supplant raw silk as a basic commodity for clothing.

Appearing in behalf of the Silk Association of America to urge additional duty on twisted rayon yarns, Dean Hill of New York said that for the first time since this artificial silk was discovered, rayon cloth made of highly twisted yarn has been developed and now is taking the place of silk.

The rayon throwing or spinning industry, he said, already employs 50,000 persons, has a pay roll of $50,000,000 in the United States and is expanding rapidly. While the greatest competition is coming from European countries, he said, Japan is a serious potential competitor.

ADDED DUTIES ASKED

He asked additional duties of 20 and 50 per cent on twisted yarns, and 20 per cent on dyed yarns, declaring that unless they are provided the spinners will have to close shop.

Other witnesses urged higher rates than those provided in the House bill, while rayon importers made a vigorous plea for reductions, holding up the domestic industry as prosperous and facing no serious competition from abroad.

Henry H. Anning of New York, representing importers of Italian yarns, declared the proposed minimum rate of yarns of 45 cents a pound is "absolutely prohibitive," and the 45 per cent ad valorem carried in the bill is amply protective.

LAST YEAR'S IMPORTS

Imports for 1928, he said, had not even reached the increase of 13,000,000 pounds in domestic production for the first six months of 1929, which he placed at 59,000,000 pounds.

While a second subcommittee heard arguments for and against the bill rates on certain scientific instruments in the metals schedule, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic member of the Finance Committee, said he will urge the immediate publication of a score of notes from foreign governments outlining their views on the American tariff, which the State Department has forwarded to the committee.

Chairman Smoot said the notes have been received, but will not be made public until the full committee has an opportunity to consider them.

FERRARA RETURNS TO REPORT TO MACHADO

HAVANA, July 8. (AP)—Col. Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador to Washington, has returned here to make a complete report to President Machado on the United States sugar tariff increase proposals.

"I can well understand the state of anxiety existing in Cuba with respect to the proposed tariff increases by the United States," said the Ambassador today. "And I know that the economic life or death of our island republic rests in the hands of American legislators. We cannot interfere with legislation of another nation, but can only clearly present our problems and trust to the vision of American legislators and President Hoover. I personally believe that in no case will our northern neighbors permit our complete economic downfall or the destruction of our great national industry."

JUVENILE JUDGE TO TRY CASES

Young "Policemen" Also Will Lend Their Assistance by Arresting "Felons"

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Brooklyn children who commit offenses too petty for the regular children's courts are to be haled into court by juvenile "policemen" and tried before juvenile judges.

The young jurists will have the advice and help of community leaders, according to plans announced by Nathan Sweelder, lawyer, and president of the Brooklyn Hebrew Educational Society.

Oakland Beer Scandal Trial Names Police

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (Exclusive)—Delivery of beer with more than a legal alcoholic content to a sergeant of police at the Oakland City Hall was charged by J. A. Jack, a government informer, in the Alameda beer graft scandal trial today.

Jack's testimony is counted upon by Federal prosecutors to be the mainstay of testimony designed to convict twelve persons, including several Oakland policemen, of conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act. Jack assertedly was a bartender for the East Bay liquor ring.

Jack's testimony also hit Clyde Miller, Oakland policeman, who was declared to have made overtures to the witness to open a beer joint and the policeman would "steer suckers" to the place.

TRUCE SOUGHT IN CAR STRIKE

Street Fighting Changed to Board Maneuvers

Civic Groups Back Union's Recognition Demand

Stand on Arbitration of Discipline Changed

NEW ORLEANS, July 8. (AP)—Activities in the street-car strike were transferred today from street fighting to feverish maneuvering around conference boards as efforts were made to bring a truce between the company and the strikers.

With the full pressure of virtually every civic organization in the city behind them, the City Commission Council today dispatched a statement from the Carmen's Union to the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., with the demand that the union's proposal be accepted.

The union agreed to send its men back to work if the company would recognize the union immediately and arrange for negotiations for a new working contract. In its proposal, the union abandoned its demand for the arbitration of all discipline and dismissals of the men and agreed to allow the company full protection of its rights in the operation of street cars.

Public Service officials agreed to submit the proposition to its board of directors.

Pending the outcome of the parleys, the strikers rested today, not one case of violence being reported. The last disorder was the throwing of a bomb into the Poland-street barn last night, but the explosion did little damage.

Acting on orders of the Commission Council, the Public Service has not attempted to operate any street cars since Friday, when two strikers were shot to death and hundreds injured in street rioting.

TRAGEDY MARS DAY'S OUTING

Fillmore Man Drowns at Point Mugu

Swept Off Rock by Big Breaker

Woman Bather Rescued at Hollywood Beach

VENTURA, July 8.—Earl Chaney, Fillmore, was drowned in the pounding surf off Point Mugu yesterday afternoon, the second victim of treacherous waves in the district in the short time that the Oxnard-Santa Monica highway has been open. His body had not been found late today.

Chaney, with his wife and brothers, was fishing from a rock near the water's edge. Suddenly a big wave caught him and swept him into the sea. For several minutes he swam for his life, paddling about thirty feet from the rocks.

Persons near him made futile attempts to save him by throwing fishing lines to him. One man tried to answer Chaney's calls for help by stripping off his outer garments to dive into the water, but was restrained by his wife. After a few minutes' struggle Chaney sank beneath the surface and was lost.

Tragedy threatened the gaiety of a family picnic at Hollywood Beach yesterday afternoon when a strong rip-tide caught Mrs. Florence Poulsen of Ventura and carried her out to sea. She was rescued by her son, Harry Greenwald of Oxnard, and by her brother, George Myers of Fresno.

Mrs. Poulsen had gone into the water with the men and others who were with her on a family reunion at the beach. The swimmers were playing with beach balls when Mrs. Poulsen, holding to one of them, found herself carried beyond the breakers and unable to get back. She had been swimming long enough to be tired and was clinging to the ball, trying to make the shore, when her son realized her danger and swam to the rescue.

Fisherman is Painfully Hurt by Fishhook

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—Ioti Murato, Japanese fisherman, has hooked many fine barracuda and yellowtail by the mouth from his boat in Santa Monica Bay. Not for sport, but to make a living does Ioti Murato fish. He is skilled at his trade, knows all about bait and when the moon, tide and weather are best for the best catches.

Until yesterday Ioti Murato thought he knew all about fishhooks. He had had good luck with so many kinds.

Yesterday he had bad luck, and he learned just how a fish feels when it is hooked. Like many of his brethren of the fishing banks Ioti had always kept a spare fishhook in his mouth, much as a lather keeps his nails. And yesterday that habit played a boomerang trick on Ioti.

He was rushed ashore with a fishhook buried in his cheek. In some manner—he may have had to sneeze unexpectedly—the fisherman was hoisted with his own petard. A sympathetic friend attempted to help by cutting the hook with nippers, but this rude surgery, instead of releasing the barbed point, only made it necessary for Dr. D. G. Golding, police surgeon, to use his knife. Ioti was sewed up again after the successful operation.

"Hereafter," a wiser Japanese fisherman told the doctor, "I will refuse to bite on my own hooks!"

RETIRED OIL MAN DIES AT GLENDALE

GLENDALE, July 8.—Stephen A. D. Shilling, 1317 North Brand Boulevard, retired oil operator and a resident of Southern California for the past fifteen years, died this morning at a hospital in Burbank, after an illness of almost two months.

Shilling, who was 63 years of age, was a native of Ohio, but spent part of his early life in business in Lincoln, Neb., later becoming a civil engineer. He engaged in the oil business in Oklahoma and retired twenty years ago, coming to Southern California in 1914, for eight years he lived at Long Beach before moving to Glendale.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Nellie Shilling, he is survived by his son, Douglas Graham Shilling, a noted aviator; a sister, Mary C. Shilling of La Crescenta, and a brother in Redlands. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park at 1 p.m.

JAIL RECORDS AS EVIDENCE

Thousands of Exhibits Admitted in Trial of Sheriff at El Centro

EL CENTRO, July 8.—With attorneys arguing over the admission of thousands of jail records which Dist.-Atty. Elmer Heald is attempting to introduce to prove that Charles L. Gillett is guilty of the theft of approximately $20,000 of public funds as charged by two grand juries, the trial of Imperial county's Sheriff dragged along into its third week today.

Practically all of the evidence so far introduced has consisted of records designed to show that Gillett diverted to his own use large sums of money received from the government for the feeding of Federal prisoners. Defense Counsel Ernest Utley and Harry Horton agreed early in the hearing to stipulate that Gillett had received the money and had kept it. Heald, however, refused to accept the stipulation and has offered over 20,000 canceled checks and other documents in evidence. The presentation of each new record has met with objection from Gillett's attorneys and the greater part of each day's session has been devoted to arguments between the attorneys.

United States Immigration Officers John R. Garrity, Frank E. Ellis and Fred D. Jack of Los Angeles and Herbert Hadley of Calexico were on the stand this morning to testify regarding the agreement made by their department with the Sheriff for the feeding of the prisoners. They stated that the agreement was verbal, but cited the records of their office to show that Gillett had received sums ranging from $80 to several hundred dollars monthly.

Attorneys for Gillett have indicated that their defense will be based on the fact that the County Supervisors were aware of the plan by which Gillett operated the jail kitchen as a private enterprise and had approved the arrangement.

Fourth of July Injuries Fatal

GARDEN GROVE, July 8.—Twenty-month-old Harriet Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Davis, today paid with her life for somebody's zeal in celebrating the nation's birth.

The child was injured late Saturday when a Roman candle found by some children at play was set off, igniting the child's clothing. The babe was so badly burned that doctors immediately despaired of saving its life.

STATE TO RELOCATE MUCH-USED HIGHWAYS

VENTURA, July 8.—The State highway over the Conejo grade is to be relocated by the State Highway Commission from funds furnished by the next biennial budget, according to County Engineer Petit, who has just returned from a conference in Sacramento.

"The State feels that at least two miles of the grade can be changed to advantage and is laying plans to that end," Petit said today.

The Ridge Route is also to be relocated, with a benefit of seven miles on the distance, Petit said. Beginning at Castaic and running to Gorman Station, at least one-third of the present curves are to be eliminated. The road is to be leveled also to cut out the up-and-down grades.

Surveys and plans are now under way and the cost is to be budgeted in the next biennial reserve, he said.

REDONDO BEACH TO ENTERTAIN ELKS

REDONDO BEACH, July 8.—Preparations have been completed for the entertainment of delegates and visitors to the national Elks convention who are to be here tomorrow as a part of the seashore day program of the organization. A deep-sea fishing contest has been scheduled for 10 a.m. and entertainment of ladies accompanying the members has been arranged at the Elks' clubhouse, 215 Esplanade. Dancing at the Mandarin Ballroom and the program at the Fox-Redondo Theater will be free to Elks and their ladies.

JUDGE POSTPONES CAUSEWAY CASE

SAN DIEGO, July 8.—Once more the combined efforts of counsel in behalf of Mission Bay causeway project to have Judge Lloyd E. Griffin approve his own findings and sign judgment of Superior Court in effect ordering the contractor to begin work on the $700,000 trans-bay structure, failed today when Judge Griffin continued the case until Friday morning. Judge Griffin stated he was leaving for Los Angeles on another link of his much interrupted vacation, but would be back on Friday and would positively this time sign the findings.

Solomon Gives Annual Party to Children

SANTA MONICA, July 8. — Preliminary preparations were started today for Topanga Canyon's big event of the year, the annual birthday all-day party staged for the kiddies of the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum by Fred H. Solomon, Los Angeles dance magnate, on his expansive rancho. The affair is scheduled for early next month.

Neighbors of Solomon in the canyon annually all enlist as volunteers to assist "Uncle Fred" in providing an all-day frolic of proportions for the youngsters. Work was started today clearing the huge athletic field which every year is the scene of an elaborate sports program for the kiddies.

Additional equipment is being installed in Solomon's open-air natatorium for the children's party. The apparatus includes new springboards, slides, floating alligators, fish, turtles and other beasts, on miniature boats and rafts.

Wu Chung, Solomon's Chinese chef, who for several years has got his biggest thrill out of providing delicacies for the little orphans, already is planning his menu for the noonday banquet.

Solomon annually stages the birthday party for the parentless kiddies of the orphan asylum rather than provide a celebration of his anniversary for his well-to-do friends.

New Name for Main Highway

VENTURA, July 8. — Ventura Boulevard is the new name adopted today by the Board of Supervisors for the old Conejo Road, extending from the county line near Triunfo to the city limits of Ventura. This move, which was adopted today by resolution of the board, continues the name Ventura Boulevard from the city limits of Los Angeles to Ventura.

It is up to the city of Ventura, through its City Council, to change the name of Main street to Ventura Boulevard, Chairman Thomas Gabbert said today. The board has no jurisdiction over the road within the city limits and it will require a city ordinance to change it.

The board also adopted the name of Oxnard Boulevard for the new scenic State highway from Santa Monica to Oxnard, continuing the name by which the main thoroughfare in Oxnard is known.

SIX MORE WEEKS OF LITTERED LAWNS

ONTARIO, July 8.—Only six more weeks of this is the refrain of Ontario housewives' song as they pick up and sweep from their lawns bills, dodgers, "shopping news" and other advertising literature, now permitted to be broadcast. City Council has an ordinance now on the way toward being a law, that will prevent the promiscuous distribution of dodgers and posters on lawns and porches and in automobiles. It will be passed by Council at the July 15 meeting, and thirty days later will become a law.

The ordinance was drafted at insistence of housewives who declared the practice of littering their lawns with the advertising matter has become a nuisance.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

ANAHEIM, July 8. — Mrs. S. Hernandes of 808 East Broadway, lies at the point of death in the Anaheim Sanitorium suffering injuries sustained yesterday when the car in which she was riding collided with one driven by Juan Naveno of Fullerton. Mrs. Hernandez sustained a double fracture of the skull and other serious injuries.

H. W. Sutton, driver of the machine in which Mrs. Hernandez was riding, and Mrs. Sutton o. Van Nuys were slightly injured. Naveno is asserted to have failed to observe a boulevard stop. The mishap occurred between Anaheim and Fullerton on South Harvard street.

YUCAIPA, July 8.—Extension of rural free delivery in the Yucaipa district is being started.

HOSPITAL HEAD NAMED

Superintendent of Long Beach Institution Appointed to Place in Pasadena

PASADENA, July 8.—Miss Alice Henninger, superintendent of the Seaside Hospital at Long Beach, has been appointed superintendent of the Pasadena Hospital and will assume her duties here on August 1, it was learned today.

Miss Henninger will assume, in part, duties formerly faced by Wallace F. Vail, former Pasadena Hospital manager, who resigned recently when directors of the Pasadena Hospital Association expressed their intention of placing in force the rigid economy program recommended in a survey compiled by the California 'Taxpayers' Association.

Miss Henninger has for eleven years been superintendent of the Seaside Hospital and is credited with having contributed greatly to the success of that institution. Prior to her Long Beach connection, she had served in executive capacity at the Asbury Hospital in Minneapolis and at the Grace Hospital in Detroit. Her training in nursing and hospital supervision was obtained at Chicago and Detroit.

Asked whether she contemplated making changes in the policy of the Pasadena Hospital, Miss Henninger today stated decision would be delayed until she had familiarized herself with the Pasadena field.

Pasadena Hospital Association directors announced at the time of Vail's resignation that the office of manager had been abolished. Informed persons now predict that the directing officer of the hospital will henceforth be known as the superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Burnett of San Fernando recently celebrated their golden wedding and on the same day their daughter Audrey was married to Charles H. Trowbridge. The occasion was graced by a large assemblage of friends and relatives, who joined in the unique ceremony. Mr. Burnett came west in a "covered wagon" when a youth of 19 years.

PHYSICIAN TRANSFERRED

Dr. Miller of Glendale Sent to Belvedere Gardens by County Department

GLENDALE, July 8.—Dr. E. M. Miller, head district health officer for Glendale under the terms of the agreement between this city and the county health department, has been transferred from Glendale to the district office at Belvedere Gardens, it became known today.

Dr. Miller was appointed City Health Officer four years ago, and when the city and county effected a consolidation of health services he was retained as district officer.

The successor to Dr. Miller has not yet been selected, but the name of Dr. Fox, former City Health Officer at Pasadena and now in the county service, has been mentioned as that of the possible appointee. The appointment will not be made until the city authorities and Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, County Health Officer, have agreed upon the new occupant for the post.

Under the agreement between the city and the county Glendale paid $150 of Dr. Miller's salary and the county $250, but the salary was eliminated in the budget adopted at the start of the present fiscal year, although it is reported that the county has increased its allotment to $350 per month.

CRUSADE AGAINST GAMES OF CHANCE

SANTA MONICA, July 8. — The old sucker game of tango, disguised under the deceptive alias of bingo, is assertedly running wild and loose and reckless again at the beaches, according to members of a group which conducted a crusade so successfully last year, when games of chance were closed at Ocean Park, Santa Monica and Venice. "Bingo," W. M. Campbell, Santa Monica taxpayer, told the City Commissioners today, "is just another trick of the gamblers to substitute illegal games of chance for legal games of skill."

A concerted move to obtain action by the State's Attorney-General was threatened unless the Commissioners canceled licenses of operators of games run contrary—or even slantwise—to the law. A similar move is on foot at Venice, sponsored by Rev. B. L. Jennings, Methodist minister, and a large group of citizens.

The Commissioners agreed to investigate through Police Chief Webb.

INJURED WORKMAN CARRIED TO HOSPITAL

NAROD, July 8.—Jens Jensen, a resident of this community and West Ontario for the past two years, was reported making satisfactory recovery at San Antonio Community Hospital, where he was carried by Mercer Fredendahl after he had broken his leg in a fall.

Jensen, carrying a heavy sack of cement while working on the San Antonio water pipe line near Upland, fell in such a manner that his leg was broken just below the hip.

Fredendahl was unable to procure a conveyance with which to carry the injured man to the hospital. Although a mile from San Antonio Hospital Fredendahl threw the injured man over his shoulder and carried him there, where he is confined.

PLAYGROUND OPENED AT ONTARIO SCHOOL

ONTARIO, July 8.—Ontario's municipal recreational program for children of the community was launched on Chaffey Union High School campus and athletic field today under direction of Fred H. Clapp.

Basketball, tumbling and gymnastics made up the indoor program while on the field the youngsters were directed in tennis, handball, croquet, volley ball and horseshoe piching.

Volunteers are assisting Clapp in supervising the games.

OFFICE OPEN AT NIGHTS

PASADENA, July 8. — Angeles Forest rangers' headquarters in the Pasadena Federal Building will remain open twenty-four hours a day in the future as additional protection against fire hazards. J. A. Esser, University of Minnesota forestry school junior, has been added to the staff as assistant dispatcher, Chief Dispatcher M. H. Davis announced today.

Supervisors Order Survey of New Highway

SAN DIEGO, July 8. — In the face of the impending city water-bond election of the 16th inst., which will, among other measures, determine whether waters of Lake Hodges are to be raised to a new level, the County Board of Supervisors today voted to make a survey for a $100,000 paved highway along the "low line" route between Escondido and San Pasqual.

The low line route would be flooded by the lake if the reservoir level should be raised by the city as planned by Hydraulic Engineer H. N. Savage. Savage, some months ago appeared before the Board of Supervisors and pleaded for county co-operation in regard to two "necessary" water developments. The Mission Gorge dam site was one and the Lake Hodges water level the other. The city hydraulic engineer asked the board to curtail development at Edgemoor County Farm, Santee, inasmuch as that property would be submerged if the city impounded water in El Cajon and Mission valleys behind Mission Gorge dam site. Despite this probability, which would create a vast reservoir providing the city and suburbs with all required water, the supervisors consistently have adhered to development of Edgemoor. Many contracts for Edgemoor have been let since Savage appeared before the board.

Now, on the eve of the city election the Supervisors appear determined to build the Escondido-San Pasqual ten-mile highway link, on the low line Savage protested against.

OWENSMOUTH IS SOON TO HAVE DIAL PHONES

OWENSMOUTH, July 8.—Final surveys have been made here by Pacific Telephone officials in preparation of the installation of a dial telephone exchange here, it is announced by C. C. Campbell, district manager.

It is expected the new exchange will be in operation some time toward the end of the present year. The dial equipment will be installed at a cost of about $25,000, while the replacement cost will be about $5700.

New additions and other expenditures necessary in making the change will cost $10,000, it is estimated, while a new building to house all equipment will cost about $8000. It is estimated that a total of $50,000 will be expended in making the change.

MANY HEAR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

County Official Makes Spirited Address in Glendale Church

GLENDALE, July 8.—Dist.-Atty. Fitts, speaking last night before an audience that filled the First Methodist Church to capacity, flayed the "so-called substantial citizens who perjured themselves out of jury duty and played golf on election days instead of going to the polls."

Fitts placed on the shoulders of such citizens responsibility for much of the present lawlessness and disregard for law.

The speaker also challenged the claims made by some criminologists that crime is a disease, declaring that it is a well-organized business that will continue to operate as long as the present laws are full of loopholes that permit violators to escape punishment.

In a brief reference to the Milton Pike bribery charge in connection with the trial of Harold L. (Buddy) Davis, Fitts asserted that "the Pike frame-up was a move on the part of the Davis defense to strike a blow at the District Attorney's office and at the administration of Mayor John C. Porter, who was on the clean-up jury that brought about the conviction of Asa Keyes," adding that, if it could have been proved that Pike had solicited a bribe from Davis the entire law enforcement machinery of Los Angeles county would have been undermined.

Woman's Death Laid to Heart

PORTERVILLE, July 8.—Mrs. Helen Clark Stray, 26 years of age, whose husband, George R. Stray, found her dead at their home in Vestal, south of here, Saturday night, came to her death from heart trouble, according to finding at the inquest conducted here last night by Coroner Hadley. The body then was taken to the Van Nuys funeral parlors.

OFFICIALS LOOK OVER NAVY BASE

Assistant Secretary and Rear-Admiral Guests at San Diego

SAN DIEGO, July 8.—San Diego naval establishments and forces afloat here are to be inspected this week, not only by Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant Secretary of the Navy, who arrived at North Island by plane from San Francisco this evening, but also by Rear-Admiral L. E. Gregory of Washington, D. C., chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks. Announcement was made at Eleventh Naval District headquarters today that Admiral Gregory will arrive from the East by train at noon tomorrow and that he may be here for a week or longer.

Jahncke is scheduled to remain here until Thursday noon when he departs by plane for Washington, D. C., via San Francisco, Seattle and Chicago. During the three days that he will be here, accompanied by Admiral Gregory, he will inspect all local shore establishments and the destroyers and submarines anchored in San Diego Harbor.

It is stated after a survey that all the reservoirs in the valley are well filled for this period of the summer season and that there is not likely to be a shortage before the fall rains set in. In previous years it has been found necessary to limit the water supply at this time of the year, but such will not be the case this year, so far, at least, it is stated.

WORLD TRADE PARLEY OPENS

Chamber Congress Draws 1400 Delegates

Peace and Tariff Among Major Topics

Special Attention Given to American Rates

AMSTERDAM (Holland) July 8. (AP)—The fifth Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, with 1400 delegates representing almost every country in the world in attendance, opened here today.

Alberto Pirelli, president of the international chamber, discussed the body's activities during the past two years and told of the progress made in various fields.

Dealing with the question of tariffs, he said:

"During the last two years, no important tariff increases have been applied. On the other hand, the new reductions have been insignificant. But proposals for tariff increases exist in America, Egypt, Finland, Mexico, Portugal, Spain.

TARIFF MENTIONED

"Although we cannot deal here with the tariff policies of particular states, as that is a matter of national sovereignty, we cannot ignore the fact that the effect of measures taken will be proportionate to the importance of the countries that take them, and for this reason the attitude of the great industrial countries, and, therefore, of the United States of America, deserves our special attention.

"The United States and Europe are customers of each other, rather than rivals, and that, our American friends will certainly not deny. They will admit that the United States have more to gain from the development of Europe as a customer taking nearly half the export of the United States, than to fear from an increase of European competition on the markets of the world.

"The world is consuming more and more every day. There is room for all activities, so long as commercial policy is sound and constructive."

BUSINESS NEEDS PEACE

Citing the Dawes committee and the Young committee as conspicuous examples of the work done by business leaders in helping to solve difficult international problems on sound economic and financial principles, Mr. Pirelli said that the chamber believed in ever higher standards of business ethics and declared that business men might well be proud of the fact that through the ages faith in the pledged word has been the basis of their transactions.

"We believe in arbitration," he said. "Litigation is always costly and annoying, sometimes disastrous. This is especially true of the disputes arising from international transactions.

"We want peace! Certain interests may prosper by war, business as a whole prospers only by peace. Business interests can help to maintain peace by contributing to the removal of causes of friction before they develop into causes of war."

Mr. Pirelli emphasized the advantages of private ownership over State ownership, saying that private management is the most efficacious instrument for insuring progress in industry.

The committee on transportation, of which Col. Alvin B. Barber, Washington, D. C., is the American member, passed a resolution urging the importance of nondiscriminatory treatment of vessels of all nations engaged in international trade. Peru and Portugal came in for severe criticism for their alleged discrimination in favor of their own vessels carrying on world trade.

The special committee appointed to consider the economic and financial rehabilitation of China decided today to present no resolution on the subject to the plenary meeting of the Congress on Wednesday.

The consensus of the committee, of which Silas Strawn of Chicago is the American member, was that the International Chamber of Commerce could take no action in the matter as long as the Chinese delegates insisted on abolition of extra-territorial rights.

The Chinese delegation therefore will return to Shanghai without having accomplished the main object of its mission, which was to persude the powers through the International Chamber of Commerce to consider China as a commercial equal.

Mrs. Fogarty's Lawyer Quits

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) July 8. (Exclusive)—Col. Lewis R. Fields of New Haven, counsel for Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty in her $500,000 breach-of-promise action against Gene Tunney, today announced he had withdrawn from the case.

He declared he had accepted a post as general counsel for the F. E. Kingstone Company, a brokerage house of New Haven, and that his new duties will require all his time.

Fields remarked that at no time during his activity in the case did he doubt that his client had a good case and that twelve men should hear her story.

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive) E. D. Merrill, dean of the college of agriculture, University of California, and a botanist of international repute, today was appointed director of the New York Botanical Garden to succeed Dr. N. L. Britton, who resigned the 6th inst.

Broadway Show Stars Are Wed

NEW MILFORD (Ct.) July 8. (AP) Mary Ellis and Basil Sidney, stars of the Broadway production "Meet the Prince," were married here yesterday, Richard Boleslavsky, director of the American Laboratory Theater, New York, announced tonight at his Bridgewater township summer home.

MRS. WHITNEY IN RENO

Sequel of $1,000,000 Balm Suit by Dancer Said to be Contemplated Action for Divorce

RENO (Nev.) July 8.—Mrs. Marie Norton Whitney, wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, is here for the purpose, it is believed, of taking the "marriage cure."

"Sonny" Whitney, who won the $1,000,000 breach of promise and paternity suit brought against him by the dancer, Evan Burrows Fontaine, last May, appears to have lost his wife in the winning of that action. In the various stages of the dancer's suit—extending over a number of years—Miss Fontaine produced many verbal pictures of Sonny in intimate and revealing poses, but she failed to convince courts here and in San Francisco that the son born to her in 1920 was Sonny's, and that the Vanderbilt scion had made promises of marriage.

Having finally procured a Supreme Court verdist in New York City last month which prevents any further suits along this line by Miss Fontaine, Whitney appeared to be faced tonight by the prospect of a divorce battle. At least, Mrs. Whitney has taken a cottage on the shores of Lake Tahoe in Reno's elite divorce colony.

Her action in joining the colony of liberty seekers is seen as the first open step toward dissolution of her marriage, although she and young Whitney in 1924 forsook their swanky cottage in the Burlingame Hills near San Francisco and have since been reported estranged.

Throughout the dancer's suits Mrs. Whitney held her peace and refused to talk for publication about the charges.

GERMANS IN YOUNG PLAN DISCUSSION

Meeting Climaxes Series of Protestations Against Reparations Scheme

DUSSELDORF (Germany) July 8. (AP)—Dr. Albert Voegeler, Ludwig Kastle, and Dr. Carl Melchior, German financial experts, today attended a conference on the Young plan of 1200 leaders of German industry called by the Central Committee of the Association for the Protection of Mutual Economic Interests in the Rhineland and Westphalia.

The meeting marked a climax of a series of pronouncements protesting against the Young plan payment scheme, which is being studied by various individual industrial, business and agricultural organizations in different parts of Germany.

A number of prominent German businessmen attended today's session and the presence of the German reparations experts for the purpose of joining in the debate after the formal addresses lent added importance to the meeting.

In the opening address, Paul Reusch, president of the Rhineland-Westphalian Association, declared that the carrying out of the Young plan would mean that the German people would cease to be a nation.

"The result of the Young plan coming in force," he said, "would be the immediate beginning of a frightful sale of German business, and control of a great part of German industry would come into the hands of foreigners. The proposed annuity figures are unbearable by German industries and no intelligent man believes they can be paid from the export surplus."

Byrd Names Camp Beacon After Edison

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Commander Richard A. Byrd's station beacon at Little America, the South Polar expedition's base, has been named in honor of Thomas A. Edison, James I. Bush, chairman of Byrd aviation associates announced today.

"We have just learned that the fiftieth anniversary of the perfection of the incandescent lamp is approaching," Commander Byrd radioed. "In honor of its inventor—Thomas A. Edison—whom we hold in the highest regard, we yesterday named our beacon at Little America, Antarctica, after him."

Western Pacific ex-Chief's Will Profits Widow

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—The will of Charles M. Levey, former president of the Western Pacific Railroad Company, disposing of an estate "in excess of $10,000" was filed for probate in Superior Court here today.

With the exception of a monthly payment from a trust fund of $150 a month to his sister, Mrs. Loretta Casseli of St. Louis, during her life, the income from the estate was given to his widow, Mrs. Kate Levey.

Levey died June 24, having been taken ill while on a tour around the world.

Dry Entrapment Victim Freed

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) July 8. (AP) Denouncing entrapment methods of prohibition enforcement officers, Federal Judge T. W. Slice today fined a violator $1 without costs and ordered a confiscated automobile returned to him.

The violator, Walter Schulz, 30 years of age, of Fort Wayne, Ind., pleaded guilty. Judge Slice lectured the prohibition agents who arrested him and condemned the tactics of agents and informers "paid or otherwise" who solicit persons to violate the liquor laws.

LOVE BALM WINNER MAY CASH FAME

Oklahoma Litigant Gets Offers from Vaudeville and Film Promoters

CHICAGO, July 8. (Exclusive)—If Ann Livingston, in point of time, at least, still was a long ways from the $25,000 she won in her love suit against Franklin Hardinge last Saturday, she was yet close to fame of the limelight variety and riches, Benjamin Erlich, her attorney, declared.

The lawyer said Ann has all kinds of offers through which she can go into vaudeville and into the films at handsome remuneration, and it has just become a question which the tall Tulsa divorcee will consider the most dignified and fitting for her to accept.

"She has been offered many weeks at $5000 a week," Erlich said, "Ann won't have to worry. First thing you know she'll be worth more than Mr. Hardinge."

It was Hardinge, oil-burner manufacturer, who had flatly stated Ann was still a long way from the $25,000 the jury awarded her in the breach-of-promise suit. The 62-year-old swain of the romantic litigation said he intends to appeal if Judge Miller, who heard the case, refuses his plea for a new trial.

SERVANTS GET SHARE OF ESTATE

Lord Revelstoke's Will Leaves Cash to All His Employees

[Copyright, 1929, by New York Times.]

LONDON, July 8. (Exclusive)—By the will of the late Lord Revelstoke, published today, his $12,000,000 fortune will be shared by almost every servant in his employ at the time of his death, as well as by hospitals—which receive nearly $1,000,000—schools, his business employees and previously announced relatives. A former housekeeper receives $5000, while life annuities of $650 each were left to his chauffeur, groom and housemaid. Two years' wages go to other servants if in his employ five years.

Employees of Baring Brothers, Ltd., down to the last office boy of three years' service, each receive a legacy equal to one year's pension.

Oakland Man's Body Found in Blazing Tent

PLACERVILLE, July 8. (AP)—The body of Milton B. Moraghan, Oakland salesman, was found today on a cot in a blazing tent near Diamond Springs. Charles Le Roy, Moraghan's companion on a motor trip whcih ended at Diamond Springs last night, was arrested, but was unable to give officers a lucid account of the night's events. Police said he was dazed from excessive drinking.

Authorities were searching for Harry Pippin, said to be the third man who participated in a drinking party with Le Roy and the salesman in the tent where the three spent the night after their machine developed motor trouble.

Moraghan's head had been crushed in and his body was partly burned.

The dead man was the son of the late Milton Moraghan, mamous San Francisco cafe owner. The younger Moraghan was divorced several years ago. His former wife and a child are said to be living in Reno.

Ratification of Debt Pact Up in Paris Today

PARIS, July 8. (AP)—Ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt accord with the United States probably will come up in the Chamber of Deputies about 3 p.m. tomorrow, although the official reporters for both the Finance and Foreign Affairs committees told the government this evening that they would be unable to conclude their reports to Parliament before Wednesday.

Deputies Franklin Bouillon and Leon Blum, the latter leader of the Socialist party, announced that they would raise a question of procedure and demand opportunity for a full debate on the general policy of the Cabinet.

Great Western Asks Rehearing

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (Exclusive)—Attacking the $11,815,000 set by the railroad commission as a fair price for the city to pay for the local system of the Great Western Power Company to be used for the distribution of Hetch Hetchy power, the company today filed a petition for a rehearing based on virtually the same grounds set forth by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in its appeal Saturday.

The company wants $30,000,000 for its property and if it is forced to sell at the figure named by the commission it will be deprived of its holdings without due process of law in violation of the State and Federal Constitution, the petition states.

BRITONS WOULD RECALL TROOPS

Labor Ministry Quizzed on Rhineland Status

Changes in American Tariff Subject of Comment

Government Evades Definite Statement of Policy

LONDON, July 8. (AP) — Queries about evacuation of the Rhineland by British troops and the future of the great English naval base at Singapore brought forth cautious statements of government policy in the House of Commons today.

Foreign Secretary Henderson, replying to a question whether British troops would leave the Rhineland before the end of September, reiterated his statement in a recent speech that the government was anxious for evacuation at the earliest possible moment.

He added that the government's aim was to co-operate with France and Belgium in effecting simultaneous and complete evacuation, pointing out that it would be one of the tasks of the coming international conference of foreign ministers to determine the exact date.

AS TO SINGAPORE

Premier MacDonald revealed in his answers to questions that the Dominions would be consulted with regard to the future of the great Singapore naval base, the construction of which has been ardently attacked and defended in political circles.

Changes in the American tariffs were mentioned by several members, who suggested that the government take steps to co-operate with other governments in a united protest against them. Mr. Henderson refused to go further than saying that no protest had been made yet and that the government was carefully watching the situation.

He announced that the government proposed to communicate with other governments which had not yet signed the arms traffic convention of Geneva in the hope of making further progress with ratification.

The whole of the evening session was devoted to debate over the Conservative amendment to the address in reply to the King's speech on the safeguarding policy, as the British tariff system is called.

TARIFF TALKED

Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, former Conservative president of the Board of Trade, emphasized the bad effects of uncertainty on trade and industry and argued that if changes in the American tariff were prejudicial to Canada it was all the more important to encourage trade between England and the Dominions by the continuance of the imperial preference policy.

William Graham, Labor president of the Board of Trade, declined even to undertake to give notice of the removal of the duties on the grounds that the Labor policy had been well known for a long time. He said that Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will deal with the subject tomorrow.

Most prominently mentioned for the posts in capital cricles are Superior Judge Strother of Fresno, Superior Judge Warmer of San Bernardino and Superior Judge Marsh of San Diego.

DEATH BLAME FIXED

Inquest Jury Holds Espee at Fault in Arizona Crash Tragedy

PHOENIX, July 8.—A jury conducting an inquest here into the death of L. H. List of Los Angeles, today placed the blame for his death on the Southern Pacific Railway Company.

List was killed Saturday when he drove a large truck of the California-Arizona Fast Freight Lines into a two-car train at Litchfield crossing, one and one-half miles west of Coldwater.

The jury report states that List's death "came as a result of negligence on the part of the Southern Pacific Railway in backing over a State highway along a spur line with only the ordinary warning."

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP)—Ed Ferguson of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Tress Yates, sought for several weeks in connection with the shooting of Dr. George C. Haughey, Odessa (Mo.) physician, were arrested here last night.

The arrests followed the questioning of two Denver youths who had in their possession property belonging to Ferguson. The youths, Louis Yavornick and Robert Prince, were said by officers to have admitted robbing Ferguson.

Dr. Haughey, who is recovering from his injury, asserted Mrs. Yates had been discharged after being found short $2100 in her accounts

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP) Four automotive magnates, or their official representatives, are to appear Thursday before a Senate finance subcommittee to testify on the tariff schedules on automobiles.

Alvin Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, today notified Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the subcommittee, that the four will be present or will send official representatives.

CONDITIONS OF RED MEN DESCRIBED

Senate Committee Hears Suggestions for Benefit of Nation's Wards

MADISON (Wis.) July 8. (AP)—A general counsel in the Federal Indian Bureau at Washington would alleviate many of the legal tangles that arise in the problems of the race, Ray A. Brown, University of Wisconsin professor of law, told members of the Senate subcommittee on Indian affairs which opened its investigation here today.

Prof. Brown pointed out that the present system at Washington leads to the "sidetracking of many problems."

Nine witnesses were heard by the subcommittee, composed of Senators Frazier, North Dakota; La Follette, Wisconsin, and Wheeler, Montana.

Deplorable conditions among Wisconsin Indians, especially the Winnebagos, were described by the witness. Unsanitary conditions among the Indians result in a death rate of twice that of their white brothers, Dr. C. A. Harper, State Health Officer, said. He directed attention to undesirable conditions near the reservations.

EX-DANCER FILES SUIT IN DIVORCE

Ruth Repplier, Riverside, Charges Husband Footed Other Woman's Bills

RIVERSIDE, July 8. (Exclusive) Charging her husband, John George Repplier, with maintaining and supporting an unmarried woman, Ruth Repplier, who, prior to her marriage here three years ago, as a member of the famous Morgan troupe of dancers, yesterday filed suit for divorce in Superior Court here.

In her complaint Mrs. Repplier also charges her husband with having ejected her last October from their palatial home near Banning and with having threatened to cut off her credit.

That she had attended an art school in Hollywood this spring on his insistence and that later he had summoned her home, stating that he "couldn't get along without her" are also charged. On her return to Banning, however, she was coldly informed that he "didn't want her around," the complaint alleges.

Mrs. Repplier asks for a deed to the valuable homestead in addition to substantial alimony and attorney fees.

Papers Served in Ouster Suit on Gov. Kohler

KOHLER (Wis.) July 8. (AP)—Papers in the civil action seeking to oust Gov. Kohler from office for asserted violation of the Corrupt Practices Act were served on the chief executive here today by Sheriff Harold Smedal of Dane county.

The Governor smilingly accepted the papers in the proceedings from the Sheriff and gave him a cigar.

The proceedings were brought by Harold M. Wilkie, Madison, and Walter D. Corrigan, special counsel, appointed January 25 by John W. Reynolds, Attorney-General. Reynolds made the appointments on petition of four prominent Progressives, who charge Kohler with having spent more than $100,000 to obtain the Republican nomination and election.

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP)—Approximately 300 Christian Endeavorers consecrated their lives to the ministry and allied Christian work here tonight in a formal service at the closing session of the thirty-second annual international convention of Christian Endeavor.

The majority of the 12,000 delegates who attended the five-day convention left tonight for their homes.

Today's program consisted mainly of denominational rallies and conferences, delegates meeting at churches of their respective membership.

The 1930 convention will be held in San Francisco.

ITALY RECEIVES ENVOY OF POPE

Diplomatic Relations Sealed by Victor Emmanuel

Fascist Censor Already Has Work for Ambassador

Catholic Journal Suppressed as Partisan to Pontiff

ROME, July 8. (AP)—Diplomatic relations between Italy and the Holy See, made possible by the recent Lateran treaties, were fully established today with the visit of Mgr. Borgongini Duca, first nuncio to modern Italy to King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal Palace, where he presented his credentials.

The day also was marked by the appearance in Osservatore Romano of a front page editorial protest against the sequestration of the Catholic publication Youthful Life on the asserted grounds that it "tended to draw Italian Catholic youth away from the legitimate authority of the Italian state and Italian institutions."

Osservatore, frequently used by Vatican for official pronouncements, says that the local censor in the Vicenza diocese must have seen in an address of homage to the Pope which Youthful Life contained an incitement to rebellion against the state's authority.

"It is really difficult in all the bitter history of censorship in all times to find such an enormity," says the paper.

The censor's logic, carried out, would have seen in the address of loyalty to the pontiff "A negation of parents' authority, of the very principle of discipline and social order," adds the paper, "just as if the invocation in the Lord's Prayer, Give us this day our daily bread; might signify organized sabotage against the national economic structure."

Osservatore declares that the censor of Vicenza interpreted the loyal address in a worldly instead of the spiritual sense in which it was intended.

HORSE SEVERS BOY'S FINGER WITH KNIFE

COLUMBUS (Ind.) July 8. (Exclusive)—A cut from a knife held in the mouth of a horse severed a finger from the hand of David Butler, 12 years of age. The horse, a pet, has a habit of taking things from pockets of persons who come near it, and had taken an open knife from the pocket of the boy. The blade was projecting outward from the horse's mouth and as the boy reached to regain it, the animal jerked its head and the blade slashed the finger.

Luther League Urged to Help Sunday Dating

OMAHA, July 8. (AP)—Miss Rosa Sox, vice-president of the Luther League of Hickory, N. C., told the biennial conference of the international organization today that "Sunday night dates" should be promoted, not suppressed, by the league.

A personal element in devotion was urged by her. Luther League meetings, she said, should foster and direct contact between young men and women.

"Another objective of the organization," she continued "is to supply youth that refuses to be blindfolded any longer the information that he seeks and then help him to evaluate that information."

Pilgrimage to Cross Started

MINTURN (Colo.) July 8. (AP)—The second annual pilgrimage to the Mount of the Holy Cross began today, with indications that a larger number than last year will participate. The main body of pilgrims was due today, following an advance guard which yesterday climbed to Camp Tigiwon, which is established on a 10,000-foot high plateau.

Pilgrims will be led to the Bowl of Tears, directly at the foot of the cross, tomorrow to be baptized.

The "cross" is outlined in snow, packed in the hollowed face of a mountain.

JUDGE GIVES MONEY BACK TO MEXICAN

Portion of Sum Ordered Returned to Paymaster of Revolutionary Army

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Federal Judge Thacher today ordered returned to Salvadore Ateca, paymaster of the Mexican rebel army, $591,000 of more than $750,000 seized from him when he was arrested here last May.

The sum of $180,000, the remainder of the contents of Ateca's "little black bag," still is being held pending hearing on attachment proceedings brought by a Torreon (Mex.) bank which claims the money as its property.

Ateca and his secretary, Antonio Maquero, were arrested on complaint of Mexican Federal authorities that there was a conspiracy to assist Ateca in fleeing the country. Ateca and Maquero had been arrested in Kansas City three days previously on a charge of running war supplies into Mexico, but jumped their bail.

Last week United States Commissioner O'Neill refused extradition of Ateca to Mexico. Ateca and Maquero now face only indictments charging conspiracy to evade the United States immigration laws.

Mount Rainier Tragedy Closes Trails to Top

TACOMA (Wash.) July 8. (AP)—No more trips to the summit of Mt. Rainier will be permitted until a complete survey of the customary trails has been made, it was announced today by Maj. O. A. Tomlinson, superintendent of Rainier National Park. The edict comes as a result of last week's climbing tragedy when two men were killed as a party of six descending from the summit plunged into a crevasse in the ice.

Maj. Tomlinson said there have been so many physical changes in the mountain recently it may be necessary to make a new trail up the slopes of the giant peak.

DENTISTS OF COAST OPEN CONVENTION

Super Tooth Doctor or Stomatologist Being Bred, Conference Hears

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (Exclusive)—Dr. John E. Curley, president of the Pacific Coast dental conference which opened sessions here today, predicted the time is coming when the man with a toothache will not speak of going "to the dentist," but will say he is going to his "stomatologist."

Dentistry as it is known today, Dr. Curley explained, is soon to be relegated to the operations of the technician and the general workman, while a race of superdentists now arising, which will be known under the name of stomatologists, will treat diseases of the mouth to which many bodily ills are traced.

Three California educators spoke at the opening session of the conference today. Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president-elect of the University of California, addressed the 3500 professional men in attendance upon "Changing Standards in Dental Education." "Scientific Attitude in Professional Health Service" was the topic of Robert E. Swain, acting president of Stanford University. Dr. Frank C. Touton, vice-president of the University of Southern California, spoke on "Man as a Social Being."

Dr. Swain declared "A sympathetic understanding between dentist and patient should be the first consideration of the profession. There is a scientific method of handling patients."

Own Bullets Wound Bandit, Police Told

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 8. (Exclusive)—A would-be robber had his face slapped, his gun taken away from him and was shot twice with his own gun when he attempted to hold up Charles Jensen at a filling station at Saturn street and Pacific Boulevard here last night. The wounded man is George Sacre, 35 years of age, of Picture City.

He told the police, who took him to the Huntington Park Hospital, that he had been out of work several months and decided to go into the hold-up business. He walked into Jensen's service station and pushed his pistol into Jensen's side. Jensen looked at the gun and then slapped the robber, at the same time grabbing the gun.

When Jensen twisted it out of Sacre's hand the latter started to run. Jensen fired twice. Both bullets struck Sacre. Sacre told the police it was his first attempt at a hold-up. Jensen told the police that it was the second time he had disarmed a robber and shot him during the last ten years.

Party Council of Communists Denounces Trio

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The secretariat of the central committee of the Workers' (Communist) Party of America today issued a statement charging that Jay Lovestone, who recently was expelled from the party for disobeying orders of the Communist Internationale by returning from Moscow to the United States, is engaged in a campaign to wreck the party in America.

Lovestone, Ben Gitlow, former New York Socialist Alderman, and Bertram D. Wolfe, party leader, had been summoned before the comintern in Moscow to explain their opposition to its policies. The three men, however, were said to have disregarded the order and returned to New York.

Lovestone was expelled from the party because, it was said, he is an advocate of the doctrine of "exceptionalism," the theory that America was not ready for Bolshevism.

Allies at Odds on Parley Site

PARIS, July 8. (AP)—Great Britain and France are still at odds as to the place where the forthcoming conference to put the Young reparations plan into effect shall meet.

In reply to the latest note from the MacDonald government insisting that London is the most convenient point, Foreign Minister Briand, after approval by the Cabinet tomorrow, will send another note in which he will stick to his belief that a neutral country would be better.

Justice Freed in Drunk Charge

MARTINEZ, July 8. (AP)—Charges of driving while intoxicated against Justice of the Peace A. H. MacKinnon, were dismissed in Superior Court here today.

Justice MacKinnon met the charge with the defense that "two cups of black coffee had made him ill." He was arrested March 28.

TWO PAROLES GRANTED

Fifty-four Applications Refused by State Prison Board

SAN RAFAEL, July 8. (AP)—Fifty-six applications for parole were heard by the State Prison Board here today and two were granted.

Raymond Prindle, convicted in San Francisco for second-degree robbery, was paroled to a hospital, and H. Dellabaugh, sentenced from Sacramento on a statutory charge, was paroled to his daughter in Sacramento.

Among the convicts denied parole were eight serving terms for first-degree murder. They included Anna Hammond, sentenced from Fresno; Richard N. Paaske, sentenced from Santa Barbara; Leon Steele, sentenced from San Diego, and Roy Carver, sentenced from Sacramento.

Seventeen indeterminate sentences on the April calendar were fixed by the board.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

Los Doctores Suspenden el Viaje del Rey Jorge

LONDRES, Julio 8.—Apenas acababa el público inglés de dar gracias al cielo por el restablecimiento del Rey Jorge, cuando fue presa hoy de nueva ansiedad, pues no menos de cinco médicos han ordenado la suspensión del proyectado viaje del monarca al palacio veraniego de Sandringham. Fue anunciado el aplazamiento no más de tres horas antes de que la comitiva real saliera de Londres.

La ansiedad pública disminuyó, aunque bien ligeramente, al saberse que le habían hecho al Rey un examen con rayos X esta tarde, y que se sentía tan bien el monarca que había podido dar su paseo de costumbre con la Reina María por los jardines del palacio. Resolvióse practicar el examen luego que el médico de cabecera del Rey hubo encontrado que la cavidad del lado derecho no mejoraba de manera satisfactoria.

El resultado de la inspección se anunciará mañana, según se cree. Entretanto, transcurrirá quizá otra semana antes de que se le permita al Rey marcharse a Sandringham. Sus criados, que se habían ido allá de antemano, han sido llamados hoy.

Jorge V había estado pensando con gusto en el viaje al sitio mencionado, y se dice que hasta había adquirido algunas escopetas nuevas para ver si le era posible distraerse en cazar algunos patos por allá.

Cuarentena Contra los Viajeros Procedentes de Oriente

WASHINGTON, Julio 8.—Hoy ha publicado el ministerio de Estado una orden ejecutiva por la que se restringe la entrada en los Estados Unidos de personas procedentes de China o las Islas Filipinas, salvo de aquellas que llenen ciertas condiciones prescritas por el ministro de Hacienda. Esta disposición obedece a que ha seguido en aquellos países la epidemia de meningitis cerebroespinal.

El Sudpacífico Responsable de la Muerte de List

PHOENIX, Julio 8.—El jurado que practicó aquí la encuesta relativa a la muerte de L. H. List, de Los Angeles, ha declarado hoy a la compañía del Sudpacífico responsable de la muerte del citado ciudadano.

Este iba conduciendo el sábado último un gran camión de la compañía de Fletes Rápidos entre California y Arizona, y chocó en el cruce de Litchfield, a milla y media al oeste de Coldwater, con un tren de dos vagones del citado ferrocarril.

El dictamen del jurado establece que la muerte de List se debió a negligencia por parte del Sudpacífico, pues los referidos vagones fueron hechos retroceder sobre un desvío o escape que corta el camino real del Estado, sin hacer más que señales ordinarias.

Prisión sin Llaves para Evitar Fugas de Presos

OSSINING (Nueva York) Julio 8.—El señor Kleb, delegado de Corrección, ha revelado que se tienen ya completos los planos de la nueva prisión del Estado, en Atiika (Nueva York), que no tendrá ni llaves ni ojos de las mismas. Se ha proyectado a prueba de fugas, y va a costar más de $1,000,000.

Se abrirán y cerrarán las puertas por medio de aire comprimido, y en el momento del cierre, cada prisionero tendrá la obligación de anunciar que está presente en su celda, oprimiendo un botón eléctrico, que ha de mover un indicador colocado en un cuarto central de mando.

NOTAS LOCALES

Sentenciado por Habérsele Hallado un Alambique

Por haber querido Leslie K. McGregor, de 38 años de edad, fabricar un poco de licor para su propio uso, encontróse ayer bajo el peso de una sentencia de uno a cinco años en San Quintín y una multa de $1000.

McGregor se confesó culpable del cargo que se le hizo de poseer un alambique, y le fue denegado por el juez superior Wilson el recurso de "probation" que interpuso. Dijo McGregor a los agentes prohibicionistas que el alambique le había sido regalado por un amigo, y que no era su intención fabricar con él licor para fines comerciales. El informe de los agentes revelaba que McGregor no había sido nunca procesado, y que no existían pruebas de que hubiera alguna vez vendido licor. El alambique que se le decomisó es de veinticinco galones de capacidad.

Charlas Infantiles para Chiquillos de Escuela

Cuando llegó Key a los buques británicos, éstos se hacían a la vela para Baltimore (When Key got to the British ships, they were sailing to Baltimore). Iban a tratar de tomar a Baltimore (They were going to try to take Baltimore). El jefe inglés no permitió que regresara Key, pues temía que dijera a los norteamericanos adónde iban los buques (The British commander would not let Key go back. He was afraid that he would let the Americans know where the ships were going).

Tuvieron a Key como especie de prisionero mientras los barcos atacaban a Baltimore (Key was kept a kind of prisoner while the ships attacked Baltimore). Los buques trataron de apoderarse de la ciudad haciéndole fuego desde el mar, y el ejército británico probó a tomarla por el lado de tierra (The ships tried to take the city by firing at it from the water. The British army tried to take the city on the land side).

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The feature in the cotton market today was the government report estimating the acreage under cultivation as of the 1st inst. at 48,457,000 acres, or an increase of 3.2 per cent. These figures were evidently below average expectations and early declines were followed by rallies which carried the price of October up from 18.13 to 18.50, or 37 points from the low level of the morning and 23 points net higher. The advance was checked by realizing at this level, but there was some trade and commission-house buying on the declines, with the active months showing net gains of about 15 to 18 points.

AVERAGE STOCK YIELD LOW

Economic Service Issues Survey Showing Return Practically Unchanged from Year Ago

BY DOUGLAS A. McKAY

In spite of the phenomenal rise in stock prices from about a year ago to date, a weighted mode average of yields on common stocks compiled by Moody's Investors' Service remains virtually the same, which they say means that the advance in stock prices was entirely justified by higher dividends, other factors being equal.

Moody's service traces the average of all the dividend-paying stocks currently quoted on the New York Stock Exchange over a number of years and in presenting its deductions take care to state that it does not wish to imply that the present low yields are here to stay or that present stock prices are impregnable.

The compilation follows:

	No. of stocks	Weighted mode average
June 1, 1929	421	4.74%
May 6, 1929	404	4.28
*Sept. 18, 1928	318	4.71
June 2, 1927	279	5.31
Jan. 4, 1926	265	5.81
March 7, 1923	162	5.53
Nov. 5, 1919	141	5.73

*—The reason for the selection of September 18 was merely the fact that a computation as of that date was available as a result of previous studies.

Significant in this compilation is the fact that no account has been taken of stock dividends. At the same time they point out that in spite of the high disbursements the cash dividend policy remains conservative.

In 1928 the percentage of cash dividends to earnings on common stock of 418 corporations amounted to 57.8 per cent as compared with 62 per cent in 1927, according to Ernst & Ernst, accountants.

Among the theories advanced for showing only a slight decline in yield levels, Moody's service mentions thte growing productivity and efficiency employed by corporations, which result in wider markets and greater earning power. In presenting these theories they state that due recognition has been taken on the fact that stock prices respond not only to earning power of corporations the stocks represented but also to the total amount of funds available for investment.

On this latter subject, Prof. Irving Fisher, writing in the July issue of the Financial Diary, published by the New York Stock Exchange house of Benjamin Hill & Co., reasons that the stock market will rightfully continue to absorb credits in volumes comparable with the last few years.

In an attempt to present a solution for the need of fresh volumes of credit, he suggests that an answer may be found in the "still excessive reserves of the Federal Reserve System and in the so-called 'hidden reserves of our gold currency and bullion' used to back the gold certificates in circulation." He puts this total reserve at more than $2,500,000,000 and adds that additional credit issues might be based on this.

GAIN SHOWN IN ACREAGE OF COTTON

Bureau of Agriculture Estimates Total Area at 48,457,000 Acres

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The acreage of cotton under cultivation in the United States July 1 was 3.2 per cent more than a year ago. The Department of Agriculture today estimated the area at 48,457,000 acres, compared with 46,946,000 acres on July 1 last year.

The condition of the crop on July 1 was not announced by the department, which is forbidden by law from estimating that figure at this time, nor was a forecast made of production.

The August 1 production forecast will be based on the acreage in cultivation on July 1, less the ten-year average abandonment in each State after July 1. The board will collect no information on conditions of the 1929 cotton crop until August 1.

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (Exclusive)—A 45 per cent increase in California's cotton acreage this season over last is shown in a report issued today by E. E. Kaufman, chief of the Federal-State crop-reporting service.

The report, presaging a record cotton yield in the State, shows that on July 1 there were 319,000 acres devoted to the crop in the State, as compared with 218,000 acres in 1928.

The acreage by counties follows:

Merced	17,200	23,500
San Joaquin and Stanislaus	1,600	5,400
Madera	13,300	24,000
Fresno	27,100	59,000
Kings	15,100	21,500
Tulare	34,600	74,700
Kern	41,000	51,000
Riverside	24,400	26,200
Imperial	32,200	25,700

Lower California also has a decreased acreage, with 151,000 acres this year, as against 160,000 acres a year ago.

RUMORS OF NEW UNION IN OIL OUT

Continental-Tide Water Associated Combination Believed Brewing

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive) A $500,000,000 oil merger linking the newly organized Continental Oil Company of Delaware and the Tide Water Associated Oil Company was being discussed today in quarters close to both companies as the next major consolidation to be arranged in Wall street. Preliminary conversations already have taken place between them, it was reported, but it may take some months to complete the transaction.

Such a merger would bring together oil properties in all important producing fields and a distributing system extending from coast to coast. It would create one of the largest units in the industry, combining large production, extensive refining facilities and a complete marketing system. The merger, if carried out, will be negotiated by Wall-street banking interests that were largely responsible for the recent consolidation of the Continental Oil Company of Maine and the Marland Oil Company, resulting in the formation of the present Continental Oil of Delaware.

The way is being paved for such a transaction, it is believed, by the Tide Water Associated's offer to exchange 1 3-4 shares of its stock for each share of Tide Water Oil Company common stock. The offer expires Wednesday.

Interests identified with the First National Bank are large holders of Tide Water Associated stock and Tide Water Oil stock. It is understood that these interests recently purchased a large block of Tide Water Associated stock from Blair & Co., Inc.

For the entire industry the estimate for June is 536,309 cars, a new peak, and 25 per cent over June, 1928. It is, however, 99,219 under the May production. A seasonal decline is now following the high pace set during the first five months of the year.

FOOD CHAIN SALES MOVE UP SHARPLY

Safeway System Reports 98 Per Cent Gain Over First Half of 1928

Showing an increase of 97.53 per cent over the first half of 1928, sales of Safeway Stores, Inc., chain grocery and meat-market system, for the first six months of this year yesterday were reported by the company at $94,022,452 as compared with $47,598,794 for the corresponding period of 1928.

June sales totaled $18,097,822 as against $9,192,248 for the same month a year ago, an increase of $8,905,574 or 96.88 per cent. The June sales total was the largest for any month this year and sets a new high monthly record, although the gain over June, 1928, was not so large as the increases scored in April and May of this year over the corresponding months of last year.

January sales totaled $12,889,399, up 85 per cent; Ferbruary, $14,088,996, up 96 per cent; March, $16,425,959, up 90 per cent; April, $15,324,431, up 106 per cent, and May, $17,195,842, up 107.55 per cent.

The system, which has added approximately 300 new store units since January 1, last, is experiencing the most active and prosperous period of its history, according to Edward Dale, vice-president of the company and managing head of the Southern California division. The expansion policy has affected all the territory west of the Mississippi, including Southern California, with considerable activity in British Columbia.

As an indication of highly organized and widespread distributing organization of the system with a resulting economic benefit to California farmers and fruit growers Mr. Dale said that 200 carloads of watermelons comprising part of the first crop were shipped from Imperial Valley during the first fifteen days of the season to Safeway stores.

Net income for the second quarter ended June 30, last, totaled $581,713, equal to 83 cents a share on the combined preferred and common shares, against $576,853, or 82 cents a share in the preceding quarter, and against $350,031 in the comparative 1928 quarter.

Net profits for June amounted to $204,473 after all charges and Federal tax as compared with $132,689 in the same month of the previous year.

Cadiz Chemical Issue on Mart

New financing to be placed on the market today includes an industrial issue and a block of utility bonds. Cadiz Chemical Company will offer 400,000 shares of its capital stock at $1 per share. The company, which holds 3700 acres near Cadiz in San Bernardino county, containing one of the largest deposits of rock salt and calcium chloride in the United States, points out that it can effect a large saving in freight costs in supplying salt to the California and western markets, as at present a considerable portion of the commodity used on the Pacific Coast is obtained from eastern sources of supply.

Harris Trust and Savings Bank will tender $20,000,000 Cities Service Power and Light Company 5½ per cent gold debentures. Public offering of a new issue of $25,000,000 of Canadian International Paper Company, first mortgage gold bonds, 6 per cent series due 1949, is expected to be made shortly by Chase Securities Corporation, it was reported yesterday.

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive) Including estimated June earnings, net income of Great Northern Railway Company for the first six months of 1929 aggregated $7,300,000 after all charges, equivalent to $2.93 a share on the 2,495,466 shares of $100 par preferred stock outstanding, according to a report issued today by the company. This compares with $4,024,822 or $1.62 a share on 2,489,349 preferred shares issued in the corresponding period a year ago.

Operating revenue for the first half of this year, with the amount for June estimated, total $56,300,000, against $49,967,483 for the comparative period of 1928.

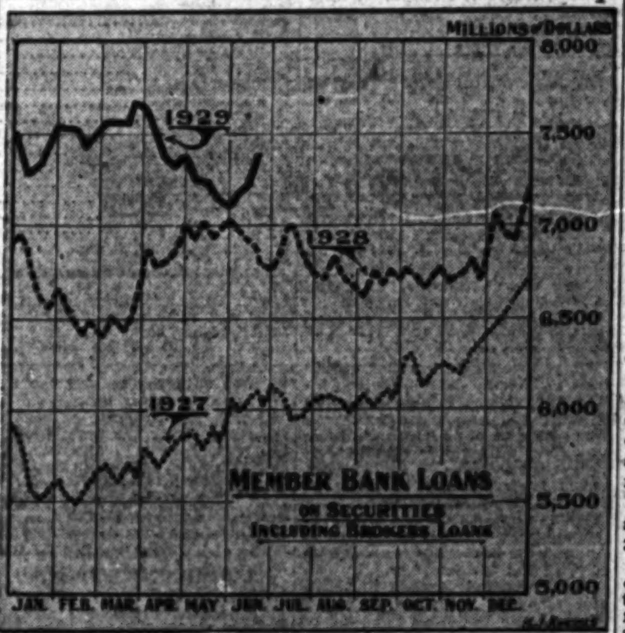
Member Bank Loan Index Points Up



Upturn Follows Drop

Following the long downswing in member bank loans on securities in connection with the late spring liquidation in the stock market, member bank loans recently have resumed their advance. Whereas at the beginning of June such loans were almost down to the level of a year ago, they now stand substantially above that position. From the above chart it will be seen that the volume of loans on securities has held consistently above that in 1928, just as the volume for 1928 in turn had held consistently above 1927.

DRIFT OF STOCK PRICES UPWARD

Rail and Industrial Groups Feature Advance

Rumors of Extra Put Steel on New High Level

Boost in Call Rate Curtails Turnover Volume

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Bullish operations were resumed with enthusiasm at the beginning of the new week on the stock market today but the profit-taking which cropped out late last week persisted as call money again turned upward, reaching 9 per cent, and little public following was attracted, total sales for the session falling off to 3,522,160.

The Associated Press price indices of fifty leading industrials and twenty leading rails were again sent further into record high territory, as a wide assortment of issues, including such favorites as United States Steel, Allied Chemical and New York Central were bid up to new peak prices.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent and rose to 9 as banks called about $40,000,000, presumably to pay off some of last week's heavy borrowing at the Federal Reserve Bank and to meet straggling midyear payment checks returning for collection. Bankers indicated that the situation was entirely temporary and predicted that definite improvement may be expected within a few days. This forecast appeared to be borne out by a good demand for bankers' acceptances, despite last week's reduction in rates and by the

CONSIDER INCOME

ESTABLISHED income is the first need of the average investor today, as much as it ever was.

Recent market tendencies, therefore, raise some questions as to speculative holdings: —do they show a satisfactory return on the purchase price? —are they permanently desirable from the standpoint of income? —are they subject to greater possible market reaction than securities of more conservative character?

We advise taking advantage of favorable opportunities for conversion into securities held primarily for income, wherever such conversion will better serve the individual investor's needs.

COPPER EXPORT DEMAND BETTER

Foreign Buying Reported as Slightly Heavier

Zinc Strong With Conditions Favoring Advance

Lead Situation Also Points to Moderate Upturn

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS
Editor The Mining Journal, Phoenix

The expected copper market activity has started with somewhat larger foreign buying. The price is now firmly fixed at 17.87 f.o.b. refinery. There has been no change in the lead or zinc situation except a tendency upwards in price although no larger quotations. Lead stands at 7.00 f.o.b. New York and zinc at 6.70-6.80 f.o.b. St. Louis.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to buy zinc at 6.70 and an increasing volume is selling at 6.80, which is the price that a large number of the smelters have been holding for. During this deadlock between the buyers and the smelters, when the smelters were either off the market or holding out for the higher price, there has been but small buying but it is now loosening up and the buyers are generally accepting the smelter price.

Lead sentiment is generally cheerful with the producers confident that the present price will hold up and probably advance a little. The lead market gets disturbed periodically by London weakness and if it were not for this influence, the price would probably go up. There has been some shading of price in competing for available business but not enough to weaken the market.

World output of pig lead in May set a new high total of 164,605 tons, representing an increase of 2060 tons over the April production. The countries chiefly responsible for the increase were the United States, Spain, Tunis and Australia.

On a per diem basis, however, the May output was lower than in April, the daily production rate in May being 5310 tons as against 5418 tons in April. Of the total May production, the United States contributed 39 per cent and the rest of the world 61 per cent.

During the first five months of the current year the world production amounted to approximately 785,650 tons as against an output of 751,245 tons in the same period in 1928. Thus far this year, production has averaged 157,130 tons per month whereas the average for the entire of last year was 151,757 tons.

COPPER ORDERS PLACED

There has not been a great deal of copper buying among domestic fabricators although it is stated that the ultimate consumers are placing large orders. Brass founders have been doing an excellent job of using up their scrap which has accumulated during the rush period of the past few months when no time was taken out to think about scrap. Thus the fabricators are rather bare of metal.

Foreign demand is good but has not come up to expectations and predictions are constantly being made that it will expand to considerable proportions soon. However, it would appear that the European users are taking the same attitude as domestic consumers, many of whom are buying only small tonnages on a hand-to-mouth basis and seeking immediate shipment. The indications are that buyers feel convinced that an advance is highly improbable and therefore feel no necessity for committing themselves beyond immediate necessity.

It is believed that the June figures will furnish at least a hint as to the extent of the curtailment undertaken, although it will not be fully registered in the refined statistics until September. Production, however, assuming that it has been curtailed from a peak rate by not over 10 per cent, is still running well ahead of a year ago and with consumption down in the building lines and restricted in some directions by the abnormally high prices, there is little danger of any shortage of metal developing unless more drastic steps are taken to restrict output.

JUNE EXPORTS IMPROVE

The larger volume of export sales have been for English consumers and they seem to be convinced that the present export price, 18.30, is now here to stay. It is unofficially reported that June export sales will total 30,000 tons as compared with 14,000 tons in May. Domestic sales are reported at 20,000 tons as against 17,000 tons in May.

Both of these months are far below normal and enormously different than the busy month of September last year when 158,000 tons were sold fo rdemestic use and 95,000 tons for export. The low month for domestic sales was May, and April for foreign sales, when only 9000 tons were disposed of. The June figures indicate that the buyers are coming back into the market, particularly during the latter part of the month. July rates are far larger than in June.

The larger producers have continued to remain out of the market and are determined to stay out until there is a bigger demand. Practically all of the current business is taken care of by the custom smelters and only passed on to the producer when it is some shape or size that the custom smelter cannot supply.

Following is a typical situation in the copper market. A single order for 900 tons of copper wire for July delivery was recently placed but the mill that took the order has not yet bought the metal necessary. The feeling in the trade is that there are many consumers who are pursuing a similar policy, that is, booking orders for semifinished or finished products without making the necessary copper purchases.

The knowledge that there is no danger of any tight squeeze in copper supplies or of any immediate price advance appears to have encouraged some consumers to go short of the metal. The demand, however, is there, and it is only a question of waiting until buyers are compelled to make their purchases.

EARNINGS GAIN FOR UNION OIL

sand is believed to underlie practically all of its acreage in that field, Mr. Stewart stated.

At present the company is producing and purchasing 140,000 barrels of crude oil daily, the shut-in production being about 15,000 barrels a day.

Current assets, consisting of cash, United States government and other bonds, accounts and bills receivable, oil inventories and materials and supplies, at June 30, 1929, approximated $65,800,000, an increase of about $9,000,000 over December 31, 1928. The sale of capital stock under the offering to stockholders of December 20, 1928, added approximately $13,300,000 to the company's resources. Current assets were over six and one-half to one of current liabilities on June 30, 1929. The total quantity of oil in storage at June 30, 1929, was about 31,200,000 barrels, an increase of 5,500,000 barrels during the six months.

Current liabilities at June 30 were about $10,200,000, a decrease of $1,266,000 from December 31, 1928. During the six months bonded indebtedness decreased $2,246,000, the total indebtedness decreasing $3,512,000.

Near-by Resorts Attract Crowds of Angelenos

The several resorts in the San Antonio Canyon, all approximately fifty miles from Los Angeles, are regularly drawing thousands of folks from this city and vicinity.

A paved highway extends to the point just this side of Upland where the turn is made into San Antonio Canyon, and where the climb for the resorts in the canyon is started. The road up the canyon also is paved, and brings those resorts in very short driving distance from the city.

Accomodations of all kinds, including housekeeping cabins and American and European plan rooms in hotel resorts, are to be had there.

Swimming, hiking, tennis, horseback riding, dancing and all outdoor sports are available to the vacationist.

Starting with the resort of the highest altitude there is Kelly's Kamp, at 8500 feet, reached by trail from Ice House Canyon Resort, just above Camp Baldy. Then Snow Crest Camp, located at an elevation of 6300 feet, is to be found in upper San Antonio Canyon, with Ice House Canyon Resort in the Canyon of that name.

Camp Baldy is next, with Bear Canyon Resort and Eleven Oaks Resort just below, all at an approximate elevation of a mile.

Resort Booklet Compiled to Aid Vacation Plans

In an effort to aid persons in planning their vacations and selecting the resorts and camps to suit their desires and pocketbooks and to tell how the various places are best reached, the Motor Transit Stages have just issued a very instructive and beautiful booklet in four colors, according to Max H. Green, traffic manager at the Los Angeles Union Stage Depot.

Questionnaires were sent out to all the resorts of Southern California and the data received were compiled into a booklet, titled "Where to Enjoy Your Vacation."

"We have catalogued some 150 resorts, hotels and camps, giving a description of the resorts together with the fares, how to get there, the elevation of each, and other information that is desirable in selecting a place to spend the most enjoyable vacation," says Mr. Green.

"Our vacation booklet also contains a two-page map of the various highways of Southern California and the routes to the different resorts together with the one-way and round-trip fares to each place. A limited number will be distributed to the public at the Union Stage Depot."

Group Ownership of Seasoned Common Stocks
—plus expert management

Exceptional diversification, together with management by an outstanding group of experts, is offered the common stock investor, by three carefully selected investment trusts, specializing in three highly attractive fields; i. e., New York Banks, insurance companies, and the Standard Oil stocks.

Bank Stocks—Bank Stock Trust Shares, Series C-3, represent ownership in the capital shares of 20 leading New York banks, ranging in age from 28 to 140 years. Combined average annual income and appreciation for the past 6 years has amounted to 39.6%. The tendency toward consolidation of New York banks emphasizes the attractive possibilities of this investment trust.

Insurance Stocks—Insurance Stock Trust Shares, Series F, present a strong investment in the capital shares of 16 leading American insurance companies. Since 1922, average annual income, including appreciation, was approximately 45.57%, an indication of the possibilities of this group.

Oil Stocks—Key Industry Trust Shares, Series H, represent ownership in 9 important Standard Oil companies. The average annual income and appreciation of this group during the last 7 years, has been in excess of 41.60%. The recent temporary depression in the oil industry has opened unusual opportunities for far-sighted investors.

We recommend all of these trusts for long-term investment and will be pleased to furnish detailed circulars on request. Send name and address in the margin of this advertisement.

JULY ~ A TIME FOR TAKING INVENTORY of your holdings

THE growing complexity of modern life—coupled with the many rapid changes in industry and commerce—new fashions, new alignments, consolidations, inventions and improvements, has made it advisable to check over your investment list carefully at least once a year, preferably every six months. The month of July is an ideal time for taking such an inventory.

Certain of your bonds, for example, may be selling at or near their call price, offering little opportunity for future appreciation. Perhaps your investments are concentrated too largely in one type of industry or one geographical location, an error often made by California investors. Conversion and stock purchase privileges or profitable rights may be expiring, thus resulting in loss.

To help you in taking this inventory, we invite you to make use of the exceptional facilities of our Statistical Department—a service that is rendered without charge or obligation.

If you will send us a list of your holdings or better still bring it to us in person, we shall be glad to make a complete analysis of your present position and future prospects. Consult us today.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—High-priced specialties furnished the fireworks in today's advance on the curb exchange. Gains ranged up to 45 points and a dozen issues in various sections of the list broke through to record high prices. The advance of call money from the 7 per cent renewal rate to 9 per cent brought out some profit-taking and prices at the close were slightly under the best levels of the day.

Although good gains were registered in the utility group, attention was centered in the specialties. Aluminum Company, controlled by the Mellons, opened at 395 and climbed to 400½, a record high for all time, and an advance of more than 100 points in three trading sessions. Saturday this stock closed at 355. The low price for this year is 148. This company being the sole producer of aluminum in the United States is sharing in the aviation industry expansion. Aluminium, Ltd., Canadian subsidiary, ran up 26 points to a new top at 190.

Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea advanced 33 to 415 in sympathy with increased sales reported by chain stores. Cassin Company rose 5 and Proctor & Gamble on a rise of 4½ touched a new high at 96½. Superheated ran up 16 to a new high at 166.

The Mellon stocks had a good day, as Gulf Oil, controlled by them, got up to 184½ and closed at 184½ for a net advance of 6½. The high price for Gulf is 190 and the low price is 142½. Reports have long been current in Wall Street of this company forming the nucleus of a major grouping of oil companies. The rest of the oils were strong, in the face of increased production in Oklahoma, as well as California, with the prospects of a revision of crude prices downward unless a curtailment agreement is reached.

Electric Bond and Share was the leader of the utilities, moving up to 130½ and closing at 129½ for a net gain of 2½. The peak price is 138¼. Electric Investors got up to 217½ and wound up at 215½ for a net advance of 8. Central States Electric again scaled a new peak at 155½ and closed at 151½ for a net gain of 1½. Commonwealth Edison rose 10 and American and Foreign Power warrants 4.

Grigsby Grunow, which is also traded on the Chicago Stock Exchange and often subjected to arbitrage operations, shot up 20 points to close at 170, within 13 points of its best price for the year.

National Investors was the feature of the investment trusts, jumping 12½ points to 99½. Last month stock sold at [illegible].

Transcontinental Air Transport, coincident with establishment of its air-rail services across the country, moved up to a new high at 33½ and closed at 32½ for a net gain of 1½. Fokker dropped 1½ on announcement of New York Central, in conjunction with Western Air Express, was to start a transcontinental service with Fokker planes.

United States Finishing moved up to a new high at 149½ and closed at that figure for a net tally of 2½.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

5½% Gold Debentures
Due June 1, 1949

Price 93 and Interest, to Yield over 6.10%

The Company will agree in the indenture to make available semi-annually beginning December 1, 1930, funds sufficient to retire 1% of these Debentures at the time outstanding if obtainable during specified periods by purchase at or below 100 and accrued interest

The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax up to 2% and to refund the California 5 mills tax upon application as provided in the indenture

The following information is taken from official sources:

Cities Service Power & Light Company, a subsidiary of Cities Service Company, controls through stock ownership companies rendering electric light and power, gas and/or transportation service in seventeen States, serving territories having a population estimated to be in excess of 2,200,000. Its operating subsidiaries render public utility service to over 425,000 customers in more than 600 communities, including such important cities as Toledo, Lorain, Mansfield, Warren and Sandusky, Ohio; Denver and Boulder, Colorado; St. Joseph and Joplin, Missouri; Knoxville, Tennessee; and Durham, North Carolina.

For the twelve months ended December 31, 1928 as officially reported, gross earnings were $47,051,988 and consolidated net earnings of the Company and subsidiaries, irrespective of the dates of acquisition, before renewal and replacement reserves, amortization and dividends, were $21,982,513, or over 1.8 times the combined total of the annual interest on the $65,000,000 Debentures of the Company and the annual interest and dividends on $141,801,040 of funded debt and preferred stocks of subsidiaries (preferred stocks stated at par or, if without par value, at involuntary liquidation value), to be outstanding upon completion of this financing; and after such reserves this ratio was over 1.6. The balance of such consolidated net earnings after deducting such annual interest and dividend charges of subsidiaries but before reserves for renewals and replacements was about 3.8 times the annual interest on $65,000,000 of 5½% Debentures.

Over 93% of the consolidated gross operating revenue of the subsidiaries for the twelve months ended December 31, 1928, was derived from electric and gas service.

Junior to these Debentures will be 185,000 shares of preferred stocks without par value and $65,000,000 par value of common stock of the Company. Dividends have been regularly paid on both the preferred and common stocks since the organization of the Company in 1924, the present dividend rate on the common stock being 8% per annum.

The Indenture will provide that the Company shall not pledge any of its assets without equally and ratably securing these Debentures except in the case of purchase money liens and the pledge of certain assets in the ordinary course of business as security for temporary loans.

Cities Service Company owns directly, or through a wholly owned subsidiary, all of the common stock (except Directors' qualifying shares) of Cities Service Power & Light Company. The outstanding debentures, preferred and common stocks of Cities Service Company, which also owns subsidiaries operating oil and natural gas and other properties, had, based on July 1, 1929 quotations, an aggregate market value of over $900,000,000.

We recommend these Debentures for investment and shall be pleased to send a circular describing the issue in detail

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Prices Hold Steady as Local Market Activity Remains at Quiet Levels

Prices turned irregular as the week's trading was resumed yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and under the influence of a light turnover and the lack of any special developments the market failed to receive any stimulation in any direction. The result was that at the close the day's changes were narrowed to fractions with losses about equaling gains.

Pacific Finance featured the session by advancing to a new peak at 120½ after having advanced 10 points over the two preceding sessions. The stock ended firm at 120. Byron Jackson headed the activity and gained ½ to 38. Douglas Aircraft yielded 3-4 to 36. Goodyear Textile was a strong spot, up 1 7-8 at 100. Hydraulic Brake advanced ½ to 55½.

Excepting Pacific Lighting, which dropped off a full point to 93½, utilities held firm. Oil showed little change with Union of California off 1-4 to 47 3-4 and Union Associates up 3-4 to 48. Rio Grande eased 3-8 to 29 7-8 while Richfield firmed up a like amount to 42 3-8.

Sales totaled 34,994 shares valued at $639,565; previous day (Saturday) 12,862 shares valued at $444,150.

SECURITY HOLDERS
IN AMERICA TODAY

Fifteen years ago security holders in the United States numbered approximately 500,000. Today they are estimated at 15,000,000. These figures tell a powerfully significant story of how the American public is becoming security-minded. That the average person is beginning to recognize the wisdom of building an income that will endure after his productive years are over is strikingly indicated in this tremendous increase in the number of security holders.

Wheat Futures Rally Sharply After Setback

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—Quick right-about-face action of many traders turned the wheat market upward today, with substantial gains all around taking the place of early declines. Contrary to first indications, rains which had been received by the drought region Northwest were later looked upon as doubtful benefit, some experts contending that a large part of the spring wheat crop both in Canada and the United States had been damaged beyond help.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ⅞@1⅝c above Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@⅞c up, oats ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Gravity of Canadian wheat crop conditions in particular were emphasized by sharp rallies in price today at Winnipeg and by late reports from railroad sources telling of grain fields having been burnt out and suggesting practical ruin, although rains should be of more or less assistance where deterioration had not been so pronounced. Some late advices regarding domestic spring wheat were of like tenor, asserting that reports of rains were misleading and that in South Dakota for example the moisture was mostly too late, the crop in numerous sections being so far gone as not to be susceptible of help. Considerable notice was taken of late advices that heavy rains in parts of Kansas might seriously interfere with harvest work.

Highest prices of the day in the wheat market came during the last hour. Previous sellers attempting to buy wheat back which they had earlier disposed of found that the grain had gone into strong hands and that offerings were scarce. Under such circumstances little heed was given to 3,489,000 bushels' increase shown in the United States visible supply total or to big receipts of newly harvested wheat at Kansas City and elsewhere Southwest. Complaints of car scarcity in the domestic harvest region, together with predictions of railroad embargoes there, were also virtually ignored in the late dealings here, and so too was apparent scantiness of export call today for wheat from North America.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to upturns both in hog values and in grain.

Sound Financing Is Essential to Successful Operation

No realty project can be genuinely successful unless financed in accordance with sound business practice.

If the financial plan is faulty, or if the carrying charges are burdensome, refinancing will become necessary sooner of later.

It is highly important, therefore, to have the right plan before going ahead.

It may mean the difference between success and failure.

Our advisory service is available to builders and buyers of homes and all classes of income property. The object of this service is not only to determine the correct method of financing, but also to check the practicability of the deal from every other standpoint.

The first consideration of many realty owners is to enlist the co-operation of this institution which, over a long period of years, has never failed to provide ample funds for the requirements of its clients—either for new loans or renewals.

MARKET AVERAGES

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive) Today's stock averages, as compiled by the New York Times:

[illegible]

BAY CITY MINES

BAY CITY CURB

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—The sensationalism, which has characterized the curb market for the past few days, was missing during the morning, but in some of the issues an accumulation of buying orders over the week-end caused a slightly higher opening.

The industrial issues were the most active. Columbia Steel with a turnover of 3300 shares opened with a fractional gain at 14, but after rising fractionally higher was forced to a low of 13½, closing at the previous closing price of 13¾. The preferred stock opened at its 1929 low at 92 and rose to a high and close of 93. CADIZ CHEMICAL COMPANY

CAPITALIZATION	Authorized	To be presently Outstanding

Common Stock, $1.00 par value	1,000,000 shares	800,000 shares

Full Paid—Non-Assessable

PROPERTIES: The properties of the Cadiz Chemical Company consist of approximately 3,700 acres, located near Cadiz, in the County of San Bernardino, California. This acreage contains one of the largest and purest deposits of Rock Salt and Calcium Chloride in the United States.

PRODUCTS: The principal products of the Cadiz Chemical Company will be natural Rock Salt and Calcium Chloride. From these major products, more than 200 by-products, which have an ever-growing demand, may be manufactured and sold at substantial profits.

RECOVERABLE VALUES: Estimates made by engineers of national repute indicate net recoverable values of $32,000 per acre, to a depth of only twelve (12) feet. Approximately 200 years would be required to exhaust this deposit under the present development program.

ASSURED MARKETS: Salt is essential to life. A considerable portion of the supply of salt used on the Pacific Coast is obtained from as far east as Michigan and New York. The Cadiz Chemical Company can produce salt of high quality, for less than the freight rate per ton from these eastern sources of supply.

While a considerable supply of table salt is manufactured at various places in California, the bulk of this supply is secured by expensive methods of evaporation. The cost of production therefore, is so high as compared with that of the Cadiz Chemical Company that competition from this source is a negligible factor.

The principal supply of "flake" Calcium Chloride now used on the Pacific Coast is secured from Michigan. This product, similar in quality to the deposit of the Cadiz Chemical Company, costs from $3[illegible].00 to [illegible] per ton, f.o.b Los Angeles and San Francisco, based on quantity purchased.

The engineers of the Cadiz Chemical Company estimate that they can manufacture "flake" Calcium Chloride and deliver it to any point in California, at a cost of less than $20.00 per ton. Based on this low cost of production and delivery, the entire Calcium Chloride output of this Company can be sold, at a profit, at any point on the Pacific Coast, for less per ton than the freight rate from Michigan.

Low production costs, favorable freight rates, constantly increasing demand, and high quality products virtually assure the Cadiz Chemical Company supremacy in the Pacific Coast market at prices which it will be in a position to control against competition.

PURPOSE OF THIS ISSUE: The purpose of this issue of 400,000 shares is to provide the capital necessary to completely equip the property, and to place it on a sound and efficient operating basis.

ESTIMATE OF EARNINGS: Based solely on the manufacture and sale of its two major products, Col. J. W. E. Taylor, a nationally recognized authority, estimates that as a result of the operations contemplated by this financing the Cadiz Chemical Company will be earning, at the end of the second operating year, a profit of about $600,000 a year, net. Should this estimate be attained, it would represent a return of 75% per annum on the 800,000 shares of Capital Stock to be presently issued.

The earnings, as above estimated, should be materially increased by enlarging the Company's operating capacity, and by the manufacture of the many valuable by-products obtainable as derivatives of the two major products.

SPECULATIVE POSSIBILITIES: The shares of well-managed chemical companies have made, and are still making, enormous profits for those who have been fortunate enough to realize that this is the chemical age.

"Poor's Manual," in an analysis of industrial stocks, reveals that out of a group of 400 stocks analyzed, 88.1 per cent were selling at a price equivalent to more than 10 times their 1928 earnings per share; 79.7 per cent were selling at over 12 times their earnings and 60.9 per cent at over 20 times their earnings.

Earnings of $600,000 a year, as estimated by Col. Taylor would be equivalent to 75 cents per share on the 800,000 shares to be presently issued. Based on a conservative market value of only 10 times the earnings per share, a price of $7.50 per share may be confidently predicted for Cadiz Chemical Company.

Legal proceedings approved by Messrs. Patterson, Bailey & Montgomery, Los Angeles

It is the intention of the Board of Directors to make application in due course to list this stock on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange.

Investment Counselors for over a Quarter Century

Are You "Out of the Market"?

Why........?

Ask any brokerage firm and you will hear that many of their customers are "out of the market". Various reasons are given. Stocks are too high; the "market never does anything" in the summer, and so on.

The real investor, however, the man who successfully keeps his capital working for him, is never out of the market in the sense that he has sold all his securities.

Don't let your capital remain idle

Possibly this is a bad time for trading profits. We are not concerned about that. But it most certainly is a good time to secure sound, unbiased investment counsel. Simply because this may be a period when all—or the majority—of stocks will not move rapidly ahead is no reason for allowing your capital to remain idle. Money should be used to make money. And, it is Brookmire's business to aid the investor in accomplishing this.

OIL NEWS

BY PORTER FLINT

Scarcity of gas for lifting power may compel the Lincoln Drilling Company, owners of the Williams No. 1 well, at the extreme western edge of the old Summerland field, to install pumps for successful operation.

Yesterday this project was flowing by heads. Although the hole is reported to be filled with 20 deg. gravity oil, the gas is insufficient to keep up a steady flow and plans are going ahead to place pumps at once.

As a result of the new discovery at a lower depth, Lincoln Drilling is preparing location for the Williams No. 2, to be situated about 200 feet due west of the discovery well, and is preparing foundation for the Williams No. 3, to be situated about 200 feet due west of the Williams No. 2. Both of the new projects are along the 1750-foot frontage held by the company, and are about twenty feet from the edge of the surf.

Northeast of the Williams No. 1, the Southern Exploration Company is moving in boilers and equipment for the Twitchell No. 1. Directly east of the discovery well, George F. Getty, Inc., is preparing to construct steel derrick for the Becker No. 2, which is about a half-mile south of the old Becker No. 2.

Into Tough Formation

The Shell Oil Company's Nesa No. 11 well, at Signal Hill, deepest project in the world, has picked up a very hard shell formation which has slowed up progress considerably.

Because of the tough formation encountered only six feet were penetrated during the past two days and unless the formation below the present depth of 8938 feet, changes presently, going will be rather slow for a while, is the belief.

For the last 200 or 300 feet of formation, the Nesa No. 11 has yielded nothing more than a few stringers of oil sand at various depths, and that has been picked up in a sandy formation which made going easier than the kind only recently found.

Since spudding in of this project, Shell has had little or no difficulties at all in its operation, and indications are that a depth of 9000 feet will be reached, and reports are that a depth of 10,000 feet may be obtained unless commercial production is picked up.

Situation Unchanged

The General Petroleum Corporation is endeavoring to return the Lomas No. 1 discovery well in the Palisades field, west of Santa Barbara, on production, according to field reports. Tubing is being pulled to give the hole a thorough cleaning before another test is made.

Last week the Lomas No. 1, tested wet at about 2248 feet, and there has been considerable speculation as to whether it can be returned to commercial production. It was originally brought in by the Olympic Oil and Refining Company about two months ago, and after flowing less than 2000 barrels of 19 deg. gravity oil, it was shut in due to lack of storage.

Since discovery of the field, the General Petroleum Corporation has acquired the Lomas No. 1 and other Olympic holdings and is drilling ahead in five projects.

Unless there is a change within the next two weeks in the Palisades field, nothing definite is anticipated in so far as construction of a pipe line is concerned, according to reports. General is said to be planning construction of a pipe line pending future development.

General's Lomas No. 2 is drilling ahead below 1850 feet in hard-brown shale. The Wheeler No. 1, at 2392 feet, is milling ahead in gray sand, and the Palisades No. 1, near by, and the School No. 1, are below 2300 feet in gray sand.

With bottom of the hole at 2246 feet, the Exeter Oil Company yesterday was preparing to drill out the cement at 2227 feet, with intentions of making a production test shortly, according to reports.

The Foster No. 1 well of the Craft Petroleum Company, which went into oil sand several days ago, was preparing to land two and one-half-inch tubing, when a twenty-foot joint became fastened, according to field reports.

Second Recompletion

The Richfield Oil Company recompleted its Hass No. 11 well at Signal Hill yesterday for a yield of approximately 352 barrels of 27.2 deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 6951 feet.

This project was originally completed at a depth of 5280 feet for an initial flow of 1833 barrels of 28 deg. gravity oil per day and, after it died down, it was deepened to 6367 feet for a daily output of 1788 barrels of 19 deg. gravity oil. When the present flow starts to fall off, Richfield intends to deepen it again, according to reports, to determine if it can be completed a fourth time.

At Kern Front, Richfield's Kern No. 21 will be rigging up shortly, and ten and three-quarter-inch casing has been set to 2256 feet in the Kern No. 26.

At Huntington Beach the nine-inch casing has been set to 4680 feet in the Bardeen No. 1, with bottom of the hole at 4975 feet.

Slight Delay

After having picked up the oil sand, the Standard Oil Company's No. 81 well, situated on Sec. 11 at Kettleman Hills, is said to have developed a fishing job with bottom of the hole at 6617 feet.

This project is an offset to the Milham Exploration Company's Elliott No. 1 discovery well in that district, and indications are that it will be one of the first to be completed, providing there are no additional delays.

Standard is bailing for a casing test in its No. 8 well, situated on Sec. 1. Bottom of the hole is at 6205 feet. The No. 78, on Sec. 7, is drilling ahead below 6125 feet, and nine-inch casing is being set in the No. 41, with bottom at 6083 feet.

Completes One

The Standard Oil Company has just brought in its No. 14 well in the Midway field, for a daily yield of about 160 barrels of oil from a depth of 3280 feet.

Northwest of Bakersfield, the K.C.L. No. 5-2, which was putting out about 300 barrels of oil per day, has sanded up, according to reports, and efforts are being made to clean it out for further production.

At Wheeler Ridge, Standard's K.C. No. 36, on Lease No. 2, is drilling ahead in sandy, brown shale below 5292 feet. In that area, heavy oil has been produced from a depth of around 3000 feet.

Getting Stronger

Gas pressure in the Kittie C. Ballard No. 1 well of the Continental Oil Company at Carpinteria, is said to be bothering operators there, as the drill is going through formation quite similar to that picked up some weeks ago in the Franklin No. 1 wildcat, situated just across the road.

For the past month, considerable gas has been in evidence and drilling has been slow, according to field reports. Bottom of the hole is said to be below 4000 feet.

New Completion

The Union Oil Company yesterday completed its Bell No. 34 well at Santa Fe Springs, for an initial flow of 4000 barrels of 35 deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 6850 feet. Indications are that this project will show up better shortly, as it picked up nearly 100 feet more oil sand than the Bell No. 43, which more than doubled its initial output several days ago from a depth of 6800 feet.

Union's Alexander No. 17, with bottom at 6855 feet, and Bell No. 41, at 6866 feet, are nearing completion.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, July 8.—(Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says: Cold-rolled strip steel mills in the Chicago district are feeling the decline in requirements for automotive steel, but back logs assure active operations for five to six weeks. Third-quarter contracting is virtually completed.

Plate demand all through the East continues at a heavy rate and certain mills in the district have been forced to extend deliveries further, being unable to promise shipments much under three to four weeks. Demand shows comparatively little reduction and is most unusual for this time of the year.

London was steady and 3-16d higher at 11 9-16d, while Singapore rose ⅛d to 10 15-16d. Outside spot was 1c higher at 22¾c.

DRIFT OF STOCK PRICES UPWARD

fact that time money held at 7½ per cent.

The most interesting item in the day's business news did not appear until after the close of the market—the American Iron and Steel Institute estimate of June ingot production. This was placed at 4,881,370 tons, a moderate decline from the record for May of 5,273,167 tons, considering that there were two less working days in June. The sustained vitality of this industry was indicated by operations estimated by the institute as averaging at 99.36 per cent of rated capacity during June, a negligible decline from the 99.59 per cent of May.

Continued strength of grain prices prompted further bullish demonstrations in farm-implement and mail-order shares, Case Threshing soaring 24¾ points to another record price and Oliver Farm Implement, Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward making fair gains.

Rails enjoyed especial favor, Wheeling and Lake Erie, common, which occupies a strategic position in the eastern merger plans, rising 29 points to 99 in a few sales, the highest price since 1927, when it was sent up to 130 by a contest for control. The issue has been comparatively inactive of late. Pere Marquette jumped 15 points to a new peak at 200 and Allegheny Corporation, preferred, Nickel Plate, New York Central, Norfolk and Western and Union Pacific were sent to new tops.

United States Steel, stimulated by talk of the possibility of an extra cash or stock dividend when the directors meet this month, rose more than 5 points to a record price at 200 3-4, and several independent steels, including Youngstown, Michigan and Otis, were heavily bought. Office equipments were again strong, International Business Machines rising nearly 14 points to a record price. Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Locomotive, American Bank Note, Penick & Ford and Snider Packing preferred were among other issues reaching new high ground. American Sugar rose 5 points in response to an increase of one-quarter of a cent in refined sugar prices.

General Electric, which has had a rise of more than 100 points in recent weeks, ran into rather heavy realizing, advancing a few points in the early transactions, but then falling back 10 points from the top and closing off about 3 points net. Auburn Auto, which also had a spectacular rise, slid back about 14 points, rallying a little at the close. Eastman Kodak, Radio, International Telephone, Calumet and Arizona, Columbia Carbon and National Tea were among issues losing from 2 to 4 points.

After an early decline wheat rebounded to close more than a cent a bushel higher on bullish weather and crop reports. Corn was firm on smaller - than - expected Argentine crop estimates. Cotton rallied about $1 a bale in short covering on the government acreage report, which showed a smaller area under cultivation than had been expected.

Foreign exchanges were firm, influenced by a rise of one-quarter of a cent in sterling cables, carrying the rate to $4.85 1-8 and probably precluding further movement of gold from London to New York for the time being, at least. The abrupt rise was interpreted as indicating that the rate was being pegged to prevent further losses of the yellow metal by the Bank of England.

GIANT TREES PROVIDE LURE IN NATIONAL PARKS TRIP

Journey to Sequoia and Gen. Grant Resorts Made Over Paved Roads With Ideal Accommodations

A trip to Sequoia and Gen. Grant Parks is both a delightful experience and a wonderful adventure. Within the confines of these two great playgrounds are the giant trees, the oldest and largest things on earth; Mt. Whitney, the highest mountain peak in America, and innumerable panoramas and vistas of productive valleys and glorious hills.

Added to what nature has accomplished are man-made automobile roads, hotels, cottages, camp grounds and every convenience desired by the vacationist. Mountain streams, placid lakes, tumbling waterfalls, bubbling springs and delightful meadows complete a picture which as a whole is the ideal spot to rest and win back that something taken away by daily contact with the maddening crowd in the centers of population that seem to be a necessary thing in our scheme of modern civilization.

BY PAVED ROADS

The two parks are located in Tulare and Fresno counties, not far from the heart of the San Joaquin Valley and are reached from Los Angeles over paved highways in an easy eight-hour drive by automobile. While the trip is devoid of danger or hardship of any kind, it includes miles of driving around graceful curves, on a perfect road, over the towering tops of a rugged mountain range and into a forest of great trees, older than the Pyramids, providing a home for herds of bear, deer and other big game.

The route from Los Angeles leads over the Ridge into Bakersfield and through Kern and Tulare county cities to the thriving town of Exeter, a few miles south and west of Tulare. From this point the "trip of a lifetime" really begins, for it is from here that nature unfolds her choicest wonderland. Forty-eight miles from Exeter, through Lemon Cove and Three Rivers, is the entrance to Sequoia Park and the beginning of the General's Highway, which makes its twisting way up the middle fork of the Kaweah River to Giant Forest Lodge, presenting en route such vistas of distant valleys, rushing rivers and shady meadows as seldom are unfolded to human view.

BEST ACCOMMODATIONS

The lodge is a mountain tavern offering the tourist the best there is in accommodation. Cabins and tents are provided, auto camps maintained and a large assembly and dining-room caters to those who prefer to camp de luxe and devote all their time to exploring the scenic wonders that the park provides.

From the lodge the visitor is lured by well-kept roads and winding trails to Hospital Rock, back near the park entrance, where the pictographs and other relics of departed tribesmen bring to mind the fact that the Yokut Indians once lingered there. Above Moro Rock towers more than 4000 feet, while far below is spread the beautiful gorge of the Kaweah River, full of pools, cataracts and waterfalls. It is but a short hike from here to the Giants' Rock Pile, Big Pool, Buckeye Flat, Red Rock Gorge and other interesting points. Deer are plentiful at every turn and are very tame. Moro Creek is two miles away and is the setting for an auto camp and starting point for excursions into the high Sierras, which can be seen to good advantage from the camp.

HUGE TREE THERE

The major attraction of Sequoia Park is the Gen. Sherman tree, beyond the lodge at an elevation of 6000 feet. This old giant has weathered the storms of sixty centuries, is 273 feet tall and thirty-seven feet in diameter. Scores of other great sequoias abound in all parts of the park.

To the more adventurous campers great sport is offered in the shape of "pack" trips to the high Sierra region surrounding Giant Forest and Kings River Canyon where are found myriads of lakes and streams abounding in brook and rainbow trout.

For many years Switzerland has been the mecca for mountaineers. The main crest of the Sierra Nevada reached from Kings River Canyon offers similar delights to the mountain climber as the Alps of Switzerland only on a larger and grander scale. In addition the hiker is able to taste the joys of the explorer, for there are still untrodden ways to discover and mountain peaks yet unscaled. Two hundred of these peaks are more than 12,000 feet high; fourteen are more than 14,000 feet, including Mts. Whitney, Sill and Tyndal, and Split Mountain and Middle Palisade. These trips display many living glaciers and thousands of beautiful lakes.

MAGNIFICENT GROVE

A short distance from Sequoia is Gen. Grant Park, the smallest of our national preserves, but four miles square, yet including within its boundaries a magnificent grove of big trees, including the world-famous Gen. Grant tree, dedicated several years ago as the nation's Christmas tree.

Here as at Sequoia an inviting lodge awaits the traveler and camping facilities are available. Tents and cabins scattered under the shade of the giant trees await the vacationist at a reasonable charge. Meals in the lodge dining-room are unexcelled and a fully equipped store caters to the needs of the camper. The park is reached easily from any point in the San Joaquin Valley over improved roads which carry the tourist to the 6000-foot elevation in high gear. The drive is such a gradual ascent that it is hard to realize that the lodge at Gen. Grant is more than a mile above the floor of the valley. Scattered remnants of snowdrifts testified to the highness of the altitude as late as the first of June this year.

WHITE IN CHARGE

As both of these parks are government projects the tourist may be assured his comfort and well-being are carefully guarded. They are under the management of Col. John R. White, Superintendent of National Parks, whose broad shoulders seem to assume the troubles of the multitude. Chief Ranger Milo S. Decker is in immediate charge at Gen. Grant, and like Col. White is ever ready and anxious to be of service.

The government has not only provided roads and trails to all points of interest but maintains ranger stations at advantageous points where the steps of the traveler are directed in such a manner as to provide the maximum of pleasure with the expenditure of the least possible amount of time and money. All of the roads are marked plainly with government signs and distances given are authentic. The government has direct supervision over all business in the park, thus assuring fair prices for everything sold. All prices are established by the government who says how much you must pay for everything from a haircut to a month's board and lodging.

UNCLE SAM HOST

Uncle Sam has proven himself a wonderful host and with the able assistance of Col. White has provided a recreation ground which is really a play place for the masses, large enough and open enough to prevent crowding in the least degree. The grandeur of the forest, the beauty of the scenery and the comfort afforded at the lodges and camps, combine to make a vacation in the Sequoia and Gen. Grant parks a bit of Dreamland brought to earth, where Uncle Sam is the host and the whole of the great outdoors is at the command of the tourist.

TROUT FISHING EXCELLENT

Virginia Lakes Resort, in the High Sierras, at an elevation of 9000 feet and between Mono Lake and Bridgeport, has ten excellent trout fishing lakes within one mile radius of the resort. American plan and housekeeping log cabins and a store comprise the resort, which is under the management of Walter Foster.

STEAMSHIP AGENCY AIDS VACATIONIST

Coast or World Tours Mapped for Clients by Lehman Concern

Vacation time is here again and where to go to get the most out of a vacation often is a problem.

Established in 1888, the Lehman Steamship Agency of this city is enjoying an enviable business each year as planner of tours and in helping vacationists decide where to go.

Among alluring trips of note are those of an ocean voyage to the Hawaiian Islands, to Alaska, to Northern Canada, and to New York via the Panama Canal. If you are planning a world tour, a Mediterranean or South American cruise, or a trip to any part of the world this agency offers every assistance in making it a memorable vacation.

A most enjoyable ocean voyage is that offered by the North Pacific Coast line (joint service of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and Holland-America line) to England and the continent via the Panama Canal, for which Lehman's Steamship Agency is agent. There are frequent sailings direct from Los Angeles Harbor, making this an ideal trip for the summer months.

RESORT SET IN MIDST OF ORCHARDS

Glenn Ranch Beauty Spot; Attractions of Particular Appeal to Younger Set

Located in a beautiful valley, nineteen miles north of San Bernardino, surrounded by lofty mountains on all sides, Glenn Ranch resort lies amidst vast apple, pear, peach and cherry orchards. It is essentially a resort for young people, with trails to test the endurance of adventurous hikers to be found extending in every direction from the ranch. Burros and horses are available for those who prefer to ride.

A large swimming pool, a cement tennis court, several trout streams and free nightly dances contribute to the entertainment. Housekeeping and hotel accommodations are available and the ranch dining-room is noted for its good food.

Founded more than seventy-five years ago by the Mormons, the first building erected on the property still stands, it having been converted into a unique dance hall. Its walls are bullet-scarred, the result of a gun battle between the Glenn and Applewhite families many years ago over ownership of the ranch.

A new thirty-foot high-gear highway, just finished by San Bernardino county, follows shady Lytle Creek Canyon to Glenn Ranch, making an easy two-hour trip from Los Angeles.

OREGON RIVERS ENTICE ANGLERS

Streams Alive With Trout in Douglas County

Angler's Paradise Reached by Splendid Roads

Government Trails Lead to Heart of Mountains

"Douglas county, Oregon," God's gift to the nature lover and the vacationist, extends from the crest of the Cascade Mountains westward 150 miles to the Pacific Ocean. It embraces the complete watershed of two rivers both of which rise in the crest of the Cascades. It is the North Umpqua in which we are most interested as a sportsmen's paradise. It plunges, roaring and foaming, through a virgin mountain wilderness.

Below Roseburg, the county seat of Douglas county, the two Umpquas join forces in their course to the ocean. The Chinook are said to be the finest of the Pacific Coast. The steelhead, a game fish that takes second place to none, roams the waters from the ocean way back to the mountains, and trout! Rainbow that give you a fight for your life—how would you like to hook a twenty-pounder on a four and a half-ounce rod?

The country lying easterly from Roseburg on the proposed "Diamond Lake to the Sea Highway," is rapidly acquiring fame for its recreational, hunting and fishing facilities. For approximately sixty miles from its source near Diamond Lake the North Umpqua is an ideal fishing stream, flowing through deep canyons, foam-lashed in the rapids, perfectly clear in its quiet stretches, dark, deep, green mirroring the tall green pines which border its banks.

A road from Roseburg winds along the river to a point known as "Steamboat" within the Umpqua National Forest Reserve. This road passes by Circle H Lodge, where any type of accommodation may be obtained.

The lodge is extremely well situated as headquarters for hunting and fishing parties. Pack and saddle horses and splendid guides may be obtained or one may rest and absorb the wonders nature has painted with so lavish a brush.

Government trails lead to all parts of the forest and mountains. Wonderful deer, cougar and bear may be had. Those who love nature in her wild and untouched state will find it to their hearts' content and can be soothed by delicious food served daintily, wonderful beds, pure mountain waters, and the wonderful hospitality of Oregon's hotels and resorts.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The convertible 4½ per cent debentures of the American and International Telephone companies got into new high ground in the bond market today. Selling of the International issue in the afternoon, however, brought a sharp decline of 5 points from the peak of 166 and the closing price of 161 was 2½ below the previous close. The American Bond, strong all day, touched a top of 153, and finished at 152, ½ point above its previous record price, for a net advance of 4 points. This obligation, selling above its conversion level, reacted a week ago when the stockholders' rights expired, but more recently has been strongly supported.

Bonds in the general list maintained a steady trend until the last hour when a tendency to easiness developed, especially in the rails. Liquidation was of moderate proportions, however, and most of the turnovers ruled small. Convertibles, with the exception of the telephone issues and the Allegheny Corporation 5s, which moved narrowly, were inactive.

Fractional losses were recorded by a number of the carriers, including Rock Island refunding 4s, New York Central general 3½s, St. Louis and San Francisco 4½s, Central of Georgia 5s and Canadian Pacific 4½s, the latter making a new low of 95½. Missouri Pacific 5s, Pennsylvania general 4½s and Wabash 5½s received better support and advanced.

Industrials were mixed. International Cement 5½s closed at the new 1929 low of 99½ on a 1-point recession; Hoe & Co. 6½s yielded nearly 2 points, and North American Cement 6½s dropped ¾. The strongest issues in this group were the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s and 5s, which mounted 4 and 2 points, respectively, the former moving forward under the impetus of substantial buying. Pressed Steel Car 5s pushed up nearly 3½ points on a late rally.

In the generally soft utility section, Columbia Gas and Electric 5s closed in new low ground at 97⅝, for a net loss of ½. The softness of this division was further emphasized by small fractional losses in such issues as Laclede Gas Light 5½s, Montana Power 5s, Rochester Gas and Electric 5½s, New York Telephone 6s and Tennessee Electric Power 6s.

Foreign sugars scored advances of 2 to 3½ points on the posting of higher prices for the staple. Foreign government obligations were steady to slightly stronger, while the Liberties and United States Treasury issues worked narrowly upward on nominal buying.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

FLYING GRAPE DUSTER KILLED

Aviator Dies in Crash on Delano Vineyard

Cargo of Sulphur Becomes Ignited in Air

Unstrapped Pilot Hurled Out as Ship Noses Over

DELANO, July 8.—George Van De Water, 23-year-old La Mesa aviator, working for the Western Duster Company of Los Angeles, who had been working in Tulare county dusting groves and vineyards with sulphur from an airplane for the last two months, was killed at 7 a.m. today when his machine burst into flames and nosedived over the Sierra Vista vineyard, near here.

Van De Water, according to eyewitnesses, was dusting the vineyard at a distance of about four feet above the vines, when the accident occurred. It is believed friction in the sulphur caused the flames which quickly enveloped the Ryan plane and that Van De Water, who was flying alone, was overcome by the sulphur fumes, thus losing control of his plane.

TRIED TO LAND

When the sulphur burst into flames, the young flyer headed back for the ranch landing field, witnesses reported, but overshot and crashed into the grapevines at the opposite side of the field. As he neared the ground and saw a crash was inevitable, he apparently unfastened his safety belt. An instant later his ship, an open Ryan monoplane, struck the heavy vines and nosed over. The pilot's body was hurled through the air, landing a considerable distance from the wrecked plane.

STRATEGY FUTILE

His forethought in unfastening his safety belt saved him from death in the burning plane but his body was badly broken and he lived only a few minutes. He was slightly burned, evidently when the sulphur ignited in the air, but the burns were not severe enough to have caused death, hospital attendants said. The plane was destroyed.

C. O. White, Elmer Little and Vernon Crabbe of the Western Duster Company rushed Van De Water to the local hospital, but all efforts to revive him at the hospital failed and the body was removed to the Basil undertaking parlors here.

Van De Water, according to Little, had been flying for about five years. He had been with the duster company about two months. Prior to that time he had been flying in Mexico. His family lives in San Diego and his father is now en route here from that city. Coroner Hadley of Tulare county will conduct the inquest here tomorrow morning.

Barlett Rites Climax Plums Get High Price

TERRA BELLA, July 8.—More than 2½ cents each were received for some of the plums making up a carload shipment of the Climax variety sold in New York last week. They were grown and packed by the Deer Creek Orchards near here. The carload sold for $2215.

Some of the packages, containing ninety-five plums, brought $2.50 per package, or more than 2½ cents each. These plums would retail for 60 cents per dozen. Other packages in the shipment brought $1.90 and $2.35. These prices are high for Climax plums, according to Manager Frank Carpenter.

Officers Win Liquor Chase

KETTLEMAN CITY, July 8.—It took a footrace through the rough Kettleman Hills to capture Pete Anthony of Mendota, but the officers were equal to the chase and with Anthony they took about fifty gallons of moonshine liquor.

The race was staged about midnight last night when the dry squad from the Sheriff's office halted Anthony in his automobile. He abandoned his car and took to his heels through the sage brush and rough hills with three officers closely following. The quarry was eventually run down and brought to the County Jail.

Today Anthony pleaded guilty to possessing liquor in Justice H. H. Warnock's court and was fined $400. He promised the court that he would settle tomorrow. In the meantime he is a prisoner at the jail and if the fine is not forthcoming tomorrow a commitment for 400 days will be issued.

Gould Given Justice Post

LINDSAY, July 8.—E. B. Gould, well-known resident of this district and until recently deputy County Assessor here, has been named justice of the peace, succeeding the late Allan McGregor, by the County Board of Supervisors. Gould's term will expire January 1, 1931. The justice's office will be included in the general election next year and it is believed Gould will be a candidate at that time. Gould has also been named deputy City Clerk here, thus assuming the same positions as held by McGregor.

Gould attended the University of California, and after passing the bar examination took up the practice of law in San Francisco, where he was at the time of the earthquake and fire. He returned to Tulare county and devoted considerable time to farming, being appointed deputy County Assessor for the Lindsay district last year.

BANKERS PROMOTED

BAKERSFIELD, July 8.—Promotion of R. E. Ruple to the position of assistant trust officer in the local branch of the Bank of Italy and C. N. Hislop to the position of assistant cashier, was announced today by A. C. Dimon, vice-president and district supervisor.

CANAL SYSTEM PROJECTED

Buena Vista District Secretary Reveals Plans for Irrigation of Large Area

BAKERSFIELD, July 8.—To convey water to every 160-acre tract in the Buena Vista Water Storage District, converting a great area of land into an agricultural region, $173,000 of the $943,731 bond issue of the district will be expended in canal construction work in the near future, P. A. Dunford, secretary and treasurer of the district, announced today.

The major feature will be an inlet canal from Kern River to the canal system of the district making it unnecessary to use the old system of drawing the water out of the Buena Vista Lake basin with great loss of water through seepage and evaporation. The new inlet canal will divert the water from Kern River into the major supply canals of the district. In the past the water has first flowed into the lake basin.

Dunford said that it has been estimated the new canal will prevent a 50 per cent loss of water. Laterals and gates putting water on every acre of usable land in the district will be constructed. The Buena Vista district extends northwest of the lake basin.

The secretary said that no definite date has been set for the sale of the bonds, amounting to $943,731.11, but that the issue will be dated and bear interest from the 1st inst. The bonds will be for $100 and $500. Notice of sale will be published by the directors after they frame their resolution, probably at the meeting scheduled for Wednesday. Directors of the district are J. Leroy Nichel, Jr., J. E. Woolley, C. E. Houchin, A. E. Hoagland and W. T. Wells.

HOME AND STORE AT LATON BURN

Telephone Exchange and Branch County Library Also Suffer Damage

LATON, July 8.—Fire of unknown origin, starting in the home of Joe Nestor at 2 a.m. today destroyed the dwelling, the general merchandise store of R. H. Phillips, damaged the telephone exchange and branch county library building and endangered the First National Bank Building.

The store building, a two-story frame structure, contained a lodge room above, but most of the lodge records were saved, it is reported.

The loss is estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000, including the stock of merchandise and contents of the Nestor home. It is understood that the loss is partly covered by insurance.

Women Cannot Even Smoke in Kings Bastile

HANFORD, July 8.—Women prisoners at the Kings County Jail who have acquired the habit of smoking are decidedly peeved at the enforcement of an edict drafted today by Jailer Jack Romine, after an argument with the jail matron. The embargo on the "weed" went into effect this afternoon and at least a few of the fair prisoners are reported to have shed tears.

Sandino's Fate Told by Hamas

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive) Lieut. John Hamas, N.G.N., U.S.M.C., arriving here on the liner Santa Teresa today, brought the news that Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader who recently skipped to Mexico, is incapacitated by severe wounds which keep him inactive.

Hamas is an officer of the Nicaraguan Guarda Nacional, organized by the United States marines stationed in that country, and is on leave to visit his home in Hamas Valley, California, near San Diego.

Cator Line Falls in Peking Club

PEKING, July 8. (Exclusive)—The international foreign exclusiveness of the Peking Club was shattered by the acceptance of a visiting membership for Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, son of the late Manchurian war lord. The color line has ruled since the formation of the club in pre-rebellion days. This action, it is believed, opens an unreserved entrance for resident Chinese. Placing the question squarely before the membership is expected to provoke a controversy duet to the equal eligibility of Peking high-caste Chinese, who hitherto have been barred.

Nebraska Flood Waters Recede

FALLS CITY (Neb.) July 8. (AP)—With the waters of Big Muddy Creek and the Nemaha River receding today, motor travel out of the Southeastern Nebraska flood area became possible for the first time since Friday. Roads to both the north and south were reported open.

All streams which were out of their banks had returned to their channels, leaving pools of water standing in the fields. It is estimated that 50,000 acres of land were inundated and that crop losses will exceed 50 per cent.

FOUNDER OF EUGENE BIBLE SCHOOL QUITS

EUGENE (Or.) July 8. (AP)—Dr. E. G. Sanderson, who thirty-four years ago founded the Eugene Bible University, and has been its president for many years, tonight tendered his resignation to the executive board. It was accepted and Dr. Walter Myers, vice-president, was named to fill the vacancy. Dr. Sanderson gave no reason for his action but said he would issue a statement later. The school has been supported by the Christian, or Disciples denomination.

GASOLINE TRUCK HIT BY TRAIN

Driver Leaps to Safety as Blazing Liquid Runs Over Large Area

KINGSBURG, July 8.—H. H. Brandon, Fresno truck driver, narrowly escaped death, his truck and trailer were wrecked and several thousand gallons of gasoline were destroyed here today when the vehicles were wrecked by a Southern Pacific freight train.

Brandon attempted to avert the crash and leaped to safety a few seconds before the locomotive crashed into the vehicle, carrying it along the track for a considerable distance and strewing burning gasoline over a large area.

Efforts to save the truck and its cargo from the flames were frustrated by the fear of an explosion, but the tanks were so badly damaged by the collision that sufficient gas vapor could not accumulate to cause a blast. Efforts of the fire department and a large number of volunteers were confined to preventing the spread of the burning fluid to nearby property.

The truck was the property of the Service Transfer Company, a Fresno trucking concern.

Canadian Rum Runners Plan to Use Lakes

WINDSOR (Ont.) July 8. (Canadian Press)—Further evidence that Canadian liquor exporters are contemplating removal of their operations to the wide open spaces of Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair was seen today in an announcement that United States prohibition under cover agents had learned that rum runners were seeking fresh alliances in Chicago, Cleveland and Toledo.

The new blockade has been fairly efficient in the Detroit River, resulting in shutting off Detroit customers of the rum runners, but the lakes are largely unprotected.

American authorities admit lack of sufficient coast guard cutters adequately to patrol the lakes, but it was learned that the situation is to be remedied by the importation of more craft from the east.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—Trading interest on the San Francisco Stock Exchange today centered on such selected industrials leaders as Caterpillar Tractor, California Packing, Atlas Diesel and Byron Jackson, which spurted early in the session but eased off later under profit-taking.

The entire list was mixed. The majority of the oils showed fractional losses and the utilities, except for Pacific Public Service "A," which found a new high at 27, were inclined downward.

In the industrial group, California Packing climbed steadily to 78⅝, but softened to close at 77⅜, up 1¼. Caterpillar sold at one time during the day at 88⅜, closing at 88⅛, with a net gain of ½ point. Atlas Diesel moved up ½ to 58 and Byron Jackson after selling at 38½, settled to 37⅞, Saturday's closing price. Paraffine at 83¼, Foster and Kleiser at 11 and Oliver Filters "B" at 30⅛ were in slightly higher territory.

Union Sugar dropped 3 points to 19. Trans-Continental Air to 32 and Aviation Corporation of California 1⅛ to 27. Golden States Milk was down 1 at 53½. Minor declines were chalked against Jantzen Knitting at 46 and Rainier Pulp and Paper at 30⅛.

Union Oil gained ⅛ at 48 and Richfield preferred ⅛ at 24⅝. Standard at 73⅝, Union Associated at 47⅝, Petroleum at 46⅝, Tidewater at 19⅛ and Richfield at 42⅛ were down fractionally.

At its new mark of 27, Pacific Public Service "A" was up ⅝. Pacific Telephone and Telegraph preferred gained ⅛ at 123½ and the common held steadily at 190. Pacific Lighting common after touching 94½, closed at 93⅝, off ⅝. Pacific Gas and Electric common dipped 1 to 67⅞. Great Western Power 7 per cent preferred closed with ½-point gain at 106. Kolster Radio dropped ½ to 37⅞ and Kolster rights at 58 were off 12 cents. Magnavox closed steady at 4.40.

The American Company was down 1⅞ at 136. Anglo London and Paris lost a fraction at 289⅝ and Transamerica was steady at 137.

FISHING BOAT TO GO PROSPECTING

Search for New Grounds in Mid-Pacific Planned

California Packing Company Financing Expedition

Diesel Craft With Crew of Nine Departs Soon

BY WALDO DRAKE

Hawaiian waters will be the summer rendezvous for future operations of the Southern California fishing fleet, if the mid-Pacific prospecting cruise on which the 142-foot, twin-screw Diesel bait boat Glenn Mayne is to depart Los Angeles Harbor on the 19th inst., is successful. A. D. Lee, marine superintendent of the California Packing Corporation, which is financing the pioneering enterprise, said the concern has a fleet of ten offshore tuna boats it would send to mid-Pacific waters if the expected rich tuna banks are discovered by the Glenn Mayne.

The Glenn Mayne, largest bait boat on the Pacific, is commanded by Capt. C. W. Nickerson, and, in addition to a crew of eight, will sail for Hawaiian waters with ten veteran deep-water fisherman, specially picked for the exploration trip. Both en route and on the return voyage from Hawaii, the Glenn Mayne will survey Erben Bank, 750 miles west of Los Angeles Harbor and which lies in only 311 fathoms.

Mr. Lee said his company is of the opinion that Hawaiian waters contain numerous undiscovered banks abounding in albacore, yellowfin and skipjack, where the local offshore fleet could profitably operate from May to September, when weather conditions are bad in Mexican West Coast waters. Twenty-five tons of live sardines as bait, caught here, will be taken on the mid-Pacific quest by the Glenn Mayne.

The Glenn Mayne now has a cruising radius in excess of 10,000 miles, two 350-horse-power Atlas Imperial Diesel engines having been installed, which give her a loaded speed in excess of twelve knots. She has a cargo capacity of 300 tons of iced fish, and in addition to crushed ice she is equipped with a five-ton Lippman ice machine to maintain low temperatures.

Harry Fisher will also sail from the port this month on a similar cruise of exploration into southern Pacific waters in his new 110-foot bait boat "F. F. F.," converted from the former Coast Guard cutter Vaughan.

NEW IMMIGRATION RULING IN FORCE

All aliens entering American ports from Canada and all passengers, including American citizens, on vessels which have called at Canadian ports, will hereafter be subject to immigration inspection at the port of entry before leaving their respective ships, it was announced yesterday by C. G. Gatley, inspector in charge of the United State immigration station at the port. The new procedure follows issuance of a new departmental ruling, General Order 133, which became effective on the 1st inst.

Heretofore, passengers coming from Victoria and Vancouver, B. C., including Canadians, were passed by the immigration officers at the port of embarkation and entered American Pacific Coast ports without further examination. Mr. Gatley explained that these examinations at Canadian ports will be continued; with the distinction that aliens bound from those ports to Los Angeles Harbor will be required to deposit head tax only if the immigration inspectors are doubtful of the applicant's intention to leave the United States within six months. This head tax, however, will be collected from passengers by the steamship companies, it being paid in turn by the steamship company to the Collector of Customs at the passenger's port of debarkation.

The steamers Emma Alexander and Ruth Alexander, which maintain weekly service out of Seattle and Victoria to San Francisco, Los Angeles Harbor and San Diego to Ensenada for the Pacific Steamship Company, will be the only vessels affected by the new ruling for the present. The ruling, however, applies to the two above ships on their return trips here from Ensenada, the order being effective also for all passengers from Mexican ports.

San Francisco marine underwriters yesterday announced themselves as optimistic over chances of salvaging the engines and lumber cargo of the J. R. Hanify Company's steamer Anne Hanify, which went aground in Honda Bay on the 2nd inst. The vessel was abandoned by the Red Stack tug Sea Rover and the United States Coast Guard cutter Algonquin after four days' efforts to refloat her.

David C. Young, Bay City marine surveyor, is now in charge of salvage operations and has a derrick barge and two tugs at work. He reported last night that he expects to refloat the Anne Hanify, or at least salvage her machinery and cargo, unless heavy weather develops.

O. Lincoln Skolfield, vice-president and general manager of the Merritt, Chapman & Scott Corporation of California, left yesterday for Boston, accompanied by Mrs. Skolfield, for the beside of his mother, who is reported seriously ill.

Louis Dreyfus's French tramp steamer Emily L. D. is due from Antwerp Friday morning with a full cargo of 8530 tons of cement clinkers for local discharge. The cargo will be handled at the bunkers of the Outer Harbor Dock and Warehouse Company.

The local-built tanker Mary Luckenbach is en route back to her home port from Mobile, it was announced yesterday by H. C. Ewing, Luckenbach district chief, to enter time charter service for the Shell Company of California. She has been laid up at the Gulf port for several months.

Ships of the Wrigley channel fleet handled 22,000 Catalina-bound travelers over the Fourth of July weekend, it was announced yesterday by Fay Griffin, chief dispatcher of the Wilmington Transportation Company. This approximates a 20 per cent increase over last year's record mark, while the Catalina excursion total for the season is more than 20,000 passengers ahead of last year's mark to date, according to Mr. Griffin.

OFFICIAL GREETING GIVEN INVADING ELK HORDES

Gov. Young and Mayor Porter Say "Hello Bill" as Crowd Cheers; Business Session Today

While an audience of 3000 enthusiastically applauding persons filled the Philharmonic Auditorium last night, Gov. Young and Mayor Porter officially extended the welcome of the State and city to the thousands of delegates to the sixty-fifth convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

In answer Grand Exalted Ruler Murray Hulbert of the fraternal body thanked the Governor and Mayor, as representatives of the people of California, for the kindness, consideration and hospitality that he said has been extended to every delegate that has arrived in the city.

The occasion for the exchange of greetings was the only official public session for the Elks' convention, all other meetings to be held at the Biltmore, the public excluded. To make the occasion a memorable one an elaborate program was interwoven among the speeches of dignitaries. The Elks' band and chanters, and musicians of wide reputation kept the large audience entertained.

PRAISE VOICED

Opening his speech Mayor Porter not only welcomed the delegates to the city but praised the Elks for their "practical charity and good citizenship." The Mayor made it plain charity and citizenship are considered by him as two of the most outstanding virtues.

Gov. Young in his speech had appointed himself a leader of the greeters and in this role he urged all the visitors to leave their homes and settle in California. Mayor Porter made the invitation more specific, inviting all the visitors to come to California but to settle in Los Angeles.

Other speakers who participated in the program of welcome were John G. Mott, Past Exalted Ruler of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, and Exalted Ruler Edward Gibbs.

LEADER LAUDED

In introducing Grand Exalted Ruler Hulbert Gibbs said, in part: "At no time since I have been an Elk has there been a greater feeling of security and confidence in the integrity, wisdom and strength of the Grand Exalted Ruler than there has been under the leadership of Murray Hulbert. His record of achievement as Acting Mayor of the City of New York; his world war record as Governor of the port of New York, at a time when the demands of those terrible days taxed the best of America's brains and courage, promised well for the Order of Elks during his term of command. That promise has been fulfilled."

After expressing his appreciation of the hospitality of the city, Grand Exalted Ruler Hulbert sketched the history and the accomplishments of the order. He stressed, as did all the speakers, the charitable purposes of the Elks rather than the fraternal aspects of the organization.

ELKS' FOUNDATION

The greatest recent accomplishment, he said, is the establishment of the Elks' Foundation within the past year. The funds of this foundation are provided by contribution from the local lodges and State associations. He said that the foundation will be unique among all charitable organizations in that not one cent contributed to it will be used for any other purpose than that intended by the donors. Not only will the expenses of administration of the foundation be reduced to the absolute minimum but all of them will be paid out of the funds of the Grand Lodge.

Before he closed Mr. Hulbert said that, as the retiring chief executive, he will have a number of suggestions to present, which are designed to bring the subordinate lodges and associations into a closer spirit of co-operation with the Grand Lodge but he reserved the presentation of his suggestions for the business session of the lodge.

The session at the Philharmonic last night opened with a prayer of Dr. John Dysart, Grand Chaplain of the Elks, who came to the convention from his home in Flint, Mich.

RECEPTION HELD

After the auditorium events had been concluded, a reception of Grand Lodge officers was held at the Biltmore and the visiting Elk ladies were presented to civic leaders of Los Angeles and California.

Election of Grand Lodge officers and the reports of various committees handling national movements of the order will be the outstanding features of the first executive session of the Grand Lodge today at the Biltmore.

Years No Bar to Air Convert

Watkin Davies, 78-year-old Stockton optician, is decidedly air-minded. When the Western Air Express passenger air liner, which left the company's new air terminal on Valley Boulevard, at 8:50 a.m. yesterday arrived at Oakland, Mr. Davies completed a 2200-mile journey, which had carried him through eight Western States.

Ten days ago, Mr. Davies hopped off from Oakland in a Boeing mail plane for Cheyenne, where he transfered to a Western Air Express ship for Denver. Then he went by train to Kansas City and, after visiting friends there, boarded a Western Air Express passenger plane for Los Angeles. The trip brought Mr. Davies's total of miles in the air to 8000, he said.

Angeleno Flyers Beat Fuel Shortage Hazard and Expect to Set Record at 2 p.m. Today

After a narrow escape from a forced landing due to shortage of fuel earlier in the day, L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart last night were within less than a day of becoming America's new air endurance kings as they piloted their Airsedan, the Angeleno, past its 161st hour aloft at 12:30 this morning.

A hasty refueling contact at 7 a.m. averted a tragic climax to the heroic battle which the Culver City flyers have waged in their record attempt, begun a week ago today.

The near-disaster was the result of an underestimate of fuel needed when the last contact with the "nurse" ship was made Sunday night. A similar mishap loomed during the early stage of the flight when heavy fogs hindered refueling operations.

Last night, however, with adequate fuel aboard and favorable weather predicted, the intrepid airmen had ceased to consider failure as an element.

UNTIL MOTOR QUITS

"When"—not if, "we pass the record tomorrow we intend to go on until the motor quits" the flyers asserted in a note dropped at the airport last night.

Earlier in the day they had dropped messages stating that "from the way things look we'll set a record of 200 or more hours" and later, "We don't know when we'll come down."

Confidence in the Angeleno pilots which W. G. McAdoo, Jr., and others at the Culver City Airport have manifested since their successful battle with adverse weather during the first three days of the flight had reached the point last night where last-minute touches were being added to the great reception planned when they come to earth.

WIFE EN ROUTE

Word that Mrs. R. B. Reinhart is on her way here from Salem, Or., was received late yesterday and relayed to her husband, aloft.

Meanwhile, the land-field at the Culver City Airport is being roped off and police protection for the flyers and their ship arranged.

In addition to a force of fifty policemen from the Culver City and

FIRE PERIL CAUSES BAN IN CANYONS

Many Mt. Baldy Areas Affected by Stringent New Order of Forester Show

Due to extreme fire hazards, District Forester Show of San Francisco has closed certain areas in the Mount Baldy district of the Angeles National Forest, it was announced yesterday by Forest Ranger A. M. Longacre of Glendora.

The areas affected are:

All of Roberts Canyon north of Azusa; Little Dalton Canyon above the site of the old detention camp area; Big Dalton Canyon above the dam; the west fork of San Dimas Canyon above the special-use cabin tract; Stoddard Canyon, and every canyon in the San Antonio Canyon area.

The regulation, according to the ranger, does not prohibit any resident of the area from going to and from his property but requires all others to obtain a written permit from a forestry officer.

PORTER INVITED TO VISIT OWENS VALLEY

A long telegram from the Owens Valley Reparations Association, asking Mayor Porter to visit the valley and help determine the "unsettled question of twenty years' standing," was received yesterday. It was signed by G. H. Dusenberry, president, and T. G. Watterson, secretary. The association offered the use of an airplane, but Mayor Porter, who said he will visit the valley and inspect the Aqueduct in the near future, declared that Mrs. Porter barred the use of an airplane.

SLIGHT TEMBLOR IS FELT

Earth Tremor Damages East Whittier School and Shakes Down Chimney Tops

A temblor, apparently caused by a slip in one of the minor faults in the Puente Hills district, shook parts of Southern California yesterday at 8:46 a.m., causing some damage at East Whittier and a few other points. It was felt variously in the area within a ring bounded by Santa Ana, Riverside, Pomona, Pasadena, Burbank, Santa Monica, San Pedro and Long Beach. The shake, a swaying motion that lasted fifteen or twenty seconds, plainly was felt in Los Angeles but no damage was reported here. The center of the disturbance appeared to be in the vicinity of Santa Fe Springs.

The principal damage was that done to the East Whittier school on Whittier Boulevard. It is a concrete structure built about fifteen years ago and enlarged about seven years ago. The north and east wings were damaged at the tops and cracks appeared elsewhere in the structure. The latter wing cost $100,000 and at the time of its completion won a $1500 prize as the best-looking suburban grade school in Southern California.

Elsewhere in the same general neighborhood a number of brick chimneys lost their tops and the roof of the East Whittier Women's clubhouse was damaged by the falling bricks. Some pictures were jarred from residence walls, dishes broken and plate-glass store windows cracked.

At Santa Fe Springs M. E. Johnson and another man whose name was not reported were injured slightly by tools falling from an oil derrick. Both are oil-field workers.

STORY OF DAVIS TOLD IN COURT

Former Keyes Helper Traces Julian Fraud Cases

Fate Should be in Hands of Jury Tomorrow

Many Witnesses Go on Stand to Aid Defense

Harold L. Davis, former chief deputy District Attorney but now on trial before Superior Judge Wilson charged with having accepted a bribe from Ben Getzoff, Spring-street "fixer" and bribery broker to "let up" on the prosecution of Ed Rosenberg, one of the Julian stock-fraud defendants took the witness stand in his own defense late yesterday afternoon.

Under the direction of Chief Defense Counsel Paul D'Orr the former county official plunged at once into his version of the Julian crash, the investigation instituted by his office under his direction, the grand jury inquiry, and the trial which lasted for almost five months.

When court adjourned at 4:30 p.m., Davis was well into his story and had began to tell of his relations with Ben Getzoff, whose confession, following his own conviction on bribery charges, brought about the indictment of Davis and the present trial.

TRIAL MAY END TODAY

With Davis's story well under way both prosecution attorneys and the defense last night expected the case to close today and to be in the hands of the jury by some time tomorrow. Chief Deputy District Attorney Stewart and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Simpson, in charge of the prosecution, expect to make short arguments while D'Orr for the defense, refused to indicate the time he intends to use in summing up the case for the jury.

Before Davis took the stand during the last hour of the court session, thirteen defense witnesses had been called during the day. Seven testified at the morning session and six before Davis during the afternoon.

Beginning with H. P. Hubbard and ending with Jack Rosenberg, the afternoon witnesses kept up a steady attack on Ben Getzoff's testimony and also offered testimony relative to Davis's own actions while the Julian investigation and case were being handled under his direction.

OUT OF CITY

Jack Rosenberg, Hibbard, one of Ed Rosenberg's attorneys, and a number of employees of the Southern Pacific Railroad, testified that Rosenberg was not in the city during the time he is asserted to have given the purported bribe to Getzoff, who, in turn, testified that he gave the money to Davis.

Rosenberg left Los Angeles for points East on August 10, 1927, and did not return until the twenty-seventh of the same month, the testimony and railroad records disclosed during the afternoon.

From Getzoff and his son Dave, the prosecution attempted to establish that the bribe was given during the latter part of August after Dave Getzoff had returned from a vacation. Therefore, as pointed out by the defense through its witnesses, the entire scheme and various meetings leading up to the asserted bribe must have been arranged and have taken place in the period of three days.

U. S. Atty. Samuel McNabb and M. G. Phillips and Edwin J. Loeb, attorneys, also testified to various facts surrounding the beginning of the Julian case. Phillips told the jury that he had talked to Getzoff and had been told by him that no bribe had been offered or given to Davis.

CALLED A "PEST"

"Getzoff was hanging around my office and the rest of the District Attorney's offices and making himself a general pest," Davis said from the witness stand when questioned by D'Orr relative to his connection with the Spring-street tailor.

"I first met Getzoff in 1925 when I was introduced to him by Mr. Keyes. I saw him only once or twice in the next eight months," Davis continued.

"During the spring of 1926 I went to lunch with Getzoff and Mr. Keyes and at that time he told us that he wanted to finance a house for me. The next day my wife and I had dinner with Getzoff and Mr. and Mrs. Keyes. The matter of the house was again discussed and the following day we drove out in an automobile to look at some property. The offer was declined."

Getzoff next came into the picture, according to Davis, during the first week of the Julian investigation.

"At the time," declared Davis yesterday, "Getzoff came to my office and wanted me to issue a complaint against Jack Bennett. He told me that Bennett had swindled him out of $25,000. I told him that the entire Julian affair was before the grand jury. Getzoff then asked me if Ed Rosenberg was to be indicted

"LEGION OF CONDEMNED" STILL WAIT PORTER AX

"The Legion of the Condemned," for so the hold-over City Commissioners have been designated, had another day of reprieve yesterday when Mayor Porter failed to initiate his expected "clean-up" by sending to the City Council the names of his new appointees.

It appears to be a foregone conclusion that the Mayor will name new members on each of the seventeen commissions to replace the Cryer appointees whose terms have expired. Many City Hall observers, in view of the Mayor's request to the City Attorney for ways and means to replace commissioners with unexpired terms, as well as civil service employees, expect the "clean-up" to extend to thirty or forty, at least, of the commissioners, provided the Council majority sustains the Mayor in his plans.

Meanwhile members of the "Legion of the Condemned," in default of successors, continue to hold their jobs and gold badges, and some of them, who had meetings yesterday, drew another $5, which is the compensation of all boards except Public Works, where the stipend is $500 per month. While all this is going on, the 17,500 city employees can find little time for routine duties, but gather and whisper as to the latest moves, and rumor runs rampant through the City Hall corridors.

PRODIGY DECREED REGULAR BOY'S LIFE

[P. & A. Photo]

MOTHER OF BRIGHT LAD CONVICTED

Court Holds Her Guilty of Violating School Law by Teaching Him Herself

Jack J. Barry, 9-year-old prodigy, is entitled to the life of a normal boy, a jury in Municipal Judge Thompson's court determined yesterday when it found his mother, Mrs. John Barry of 4620½ Second avenue, guilty of violating the law by failing to send him to school. Mrs. Barry declared her son, taught by her since infancy, is far in advance mentally of other children his age and said she can teach him far better than any school.

MRS. JOHN BARRY

Young Barry told the jury he has "higher standards" than other boys his age and that he does not care to associate with them. Carl Ramsdell, attorney for the attendance division of the city schools, testified he has endeavored since March 1, last, to get Mrs. Barry to send her son to school but that she has refused to do so.

Efforts by Mrs. Barry and by young Barry to exhibit his learning to the jury were unavailing when Judge Thompson sustained the objection of Deputy City Prosecutor Allison that the boy's mentality was irrelevant.

Following the trial Mrs. Barry declared that Jack has given sixty-six lectures on subjects varying from California history to theology and astronomy during the ten months he has resided in Los Angeles. The boy never has been absent from her side for an hour since his birth, she said.

Sentence on Mrs. Barry was postponed until the 11th inst. by Judge Thompson when her attorneys moved for a new trial.

Mines Field Tax Cut to be Asked

Because the lease contract by which the city operates Mines Field as an airport provides that the city pay the taxes, D. M. Kitzmiller of the City Attorney's office will appear before the Board of Supervisors sitting as a board of equalization at 10 a.m. today and ask that the assessment of the airport property be reduced to a nominal sum.

It is now assessed at $705,670. This amount is said to be excessive for property dedicated to public use.

LINDBERGH HOPS ON NEW AIR LINE

Forty-eight-Hour Plane-Rail Service East Begun

Thousands Cheer as Eagle Takes Craft Aloft

He Will Return Today With "City of Washington"

With Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at the controls and ten passengers, including the Eagle's mate, aboard, the City of Los Angeles hopped off on its inaugural air-rail, New York-Los Angeles flight from the Grand Central Air Terminal in Glendale at 8:45 a.m. yesterday.

Amid ceremonies in which Gov. Young, Mayor Porter, and other State, city and county officials participated, as 20,000 odd spectators cheered, the giant trimotored Ford plane that inaugurated the eastbound transcontinental service of the T.A.T. was christened, just prior to its takeoff, by Mary Pickford.

A second plane also with ten passengers aboard took off immediately behind Col. Lindbergh's ship. The destination of both ships was Clovis, N. M., where eastbound passengers transferred to the Santa Fe for an overnight ride by rail.

HE RETURNS TODAY

Col. Lindbergh, however, left the ship at Winslow, Ariz., and will depart from there this morning bound for Los Angeles at the helm of the City of Washington aboard which will be a group of westbound passengers who left New York City late Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Lindbergh, who stopped off at Winslow, Ariz., yesterday, will be picked up on the return flight which is scheduled to terminate here at 5:43 p.m. today.

Aboard the flagship yesterday, in addition to the colonel's wife, were A. M. Rochlen, Terril DeLapp, Jack Scanlon, M. D. Schatzman, T. B. Eastland, R. W. Millar, Maj. C. C. Moseley, Dr. W. J. Purie and Eugene Coughlin. The passenger list of the second plane included Albert Hitchin, Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, A. L. Hart, Velva Darling, Turner Wills and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Rochester.

THOSE TO ARRIVE

Among the passengers arriving from the East today are Amelia Earhart, Betty Brainerd, U. Grant Border, Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, Albert A. Garthwaite, S. W. Higgins, Col. Paul Henderson, Fritz Hinkle, D. M. Sheaffer, Paul Henderson, Jr., Chauncey Lamb, William Chaplain, Mrs. John T. Litch, Miss M. A. Salamon, John Guernsey, E. E. Greiner, James Bryant, Carl Larson and Charles Tice.

A greater reception for today's inbound plane even than attended the arrival here of Col. Lindbergh and the former Anne Morrow, Sunday and the inaugural ceremonies yesterday is anticipatetd by the T.A.T. officials, who formulated plans last night to greet the Easterners.

Miss Earhart christened the first T.A.T. plane out of Columbus yesterday, the City of New York. Gloria Swanson will christen the City of Washington on its arrival here today.

ADDRESSES MADE

Prior to yesterday's christening ceremonies by Miss Pickford, brief addresses were delivered by Gov. Young and J. V. Magee, vice-president and general manager of the T.A.T.

In his talk, which was broadcast to the crowd, Mr. Magee outlined the benefits of the new mode of transcontinental travel which his company started yesterday after more than a year of preparations.

The real epochal feature of the T. A. T.'s new air-rail service, Mr. Magee said, lies in the careful attention that has been devoted to the preparation of its facilities.

"The day of starting any aviation project on a shoestring has passed," he said. "We have eleven landing fields along the coast-to-coast route, our weather service is half the size of the United States Weather Bureau and for the past several weeks daily flights have been made by officials of the company testing the completed facilities."

PLEASURE SHOWN

Col. Lindbergh, as he listened to the T. A. T. official, appeared particularly pleased as the general manager asserted that "the same thoroughness that characterized the Lone Eagle's New York-Paris flight was adopted by the T. A. T. in planning its forty-eight-hour air-rail coast-to-coast service."

Col. Lindbergh arrived at Grand Central Air Terminal at 7 a.m. to

STORM GREETS AIR PARTY

But Lindbergh Sets Plane Down in Winslow Ahead of Schedule Despite Clouds' Antics

BY TERREL DE LAPP
"Times" Staff Representative

WINSLOW (Ariz.) July 8.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his ten Transcontinental Air Transport passengers rode the first rain and electrical storm of six months to a perfect landing here four minutes ahead of schedule at 1:12 p.m., Pacific time.

As the lunch trays in the tri-motored Ford transport were cleared shortly after Flagstaff was left behind, the weather thickened and lightning flashed to the south.

CROWD GETS WET

Col. Lindbergh gave his three motors more throttle and skirted the rain that was pouring from clouds on a level with the plane at 7000 feet, but when the City of Los Angeles touched the ground at the new station here the waiting crowd was pelted with drops and took refuge in the station. The second plane landed a minute later.

As soon as the ship was refueled it took off again and headed into the east for Clovis, N. M., the end of the first air leg of the T.A.T. new forty-eight-hour coast-to-coast service, inaugurated today.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh will remain here tonight and board the City of Washington tomorrow on its way to Los Angeles with the first contingent of west-bound travelers. Col. Lindbergh will be at the controls.

VARIED SCENERY

During the four hours and sixteen minutes which elapsed between Grand Central Air Terminal in Glendale and the local T.A.T. field the ten passengers saw the terrain change from precise squares of fields and streets to mountains, desert and back again to cultivated plots.

MR. LINCOLN COLCORD, the author, is in complete despair over our ethics, morals and hopes of salvation.

The immediate cause of his tragic dejection is that Joan Lowell allowed her imagination to flick a little in writing "The Cradle of the Deep," supposed to be a story of personal experiences of a girl raised at sea. Not only did she say she was where she wasn't, but she named the wrong ropes in backing the main topsail. So far as Mr. Colcord can see, she has just about wrecked modern civilization . . . including all the ethics.

TRADER HORN

I shudder to the point of swooning to think what effect it might have on the mind of Mr. Colcord should he read old "Trader Horn's" account of the blonde Clara Bow whom he said he found in an African cannibal camp.

WANTON KILLING

I don't know if it is irony or tragedy; but this New Orleans street-car strike isn't about anything—despite the fact that it is growing to the uncomfortable proportions of a civil war.

There is no demand for a change of wages; all the killing is because the unions want a closed shop.

All street-car strikes end the same way. One morning an outraged public gets tired of being hit with brickbats and turns out with guns.

BILLBOARDS

The ladies of the Christian Endeavor have declared war against cigarette ads on billboards. But why stop at cigarette ads?

One of the finest things about the Redwood Highway is that, so far, they have been able to keep billboards out of the forests.

THE FAMINE

China is suffering from another famine—as harrowing and heart-breaking as all the other Chinese famines. It stands to reason that these food panics must have been going on in that overcrowded country for centuries. Yet of all peoples there is none that seems to preserve its national vitality so relentlessly as China.

The Chinese are like the trek of the African ant colonies. They are trodden down; they die in countless millions; but the procession goes seething on.

HOT JAZZ

Ken Maynard, the western actor, assures us that jazz is to be supplanted by cowboy ballads. I can't quite be convinced that the flappers are going to warble, "Oh, Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," during the mazes of the dance; but I am willing to compromise on anything that will end the kind of jazz called "hot"—this insane thumping and tooting—without tune, reason or melody.

The real tom-tom—from which jazz was taken—is wonderful. Through its progressive rhythms, it has an almost hypnotic effect. You feel the mountains begin to sway and swing. Our jazz was merely stupid noise.

CANADIANS WILL FROLIC

A midsummer reunion, frolic and dance will be held tomorrow evening at the Hollywood Roof Ballroom, 1549 Vine street, under the auspices of the Canadian Society of Southern California. Canadian Elks here to attend the sixty-fifth annual convention will be guests of honor.

Driver Booked As Tumbling Auto Kills Passenger

CRASH BRINGS INSTANT DEATH

Victim Decapitated When Car Rolls Over

Woman Companion Receives Severe Injury

Witnesses Say Mishap Due to Speed

One man was killed yesterday and a young woman was injured in a collision of two automobiles at Fifth street and Fremont avenue. The dead man is Elmer Lind, 50 years of age, a cattle buyer of Lamar, Colo. Mrs. Alma A. Irwin, 22, of 117 Los Angeles street, Anaheim, was injured. Lind and Mrs. Irwin were riding with Allen Swadley, 44 Whiting avenue, Fullerton, when their car collided with one driven by Burt White, 2030 Griffith Park avenue.

Witnesses told police that the machine in which Lind was riding was traveling south on Fremont avenue at a high rate of speed. At the time of collision Lind's car hit a traffic button, careened and turned over twice, shearing off the top of the man's head above the ears.

DRIVER HELD

Mrs. Irwin received a concussion of the brain and cuts. She was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. The Coroner ordered Swadley and White to appear at an inquest to be conducted at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Later Swadley was arrested by Detective Lieutenant Hickey of central homicide detail on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter.

NURSE INJURED

Berenice Goff, 24, a General Hospital nurse, was injured when an ambulance in which she was riding collided with an automobile at Figueroa and Eighty-fifth streets. She was treated at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for a possibly broken shoulder. Miss Goff was riding with Driver Sidney Buckler and Dr. C. M. Sosbee, answering a call to a maternity case. The ambulance was in collision with a car driven by Ray Wilson, 112 West One Hundred and Nineteenth street.

TEMBLOR FELT IN SOUTHLAND

gas flowing hot water. In a number of instances pipes were wrenched and broken and machinery foundations cracked so that there were some shutdowns. Bill Betts, working on a McKeon Drilling Company derrick, fell about eight feet, bruising his hi, as a result of the swaying of the derrick.

At Long Beach a woman bather fainted as she was entering the surf. Some commotion among the prisoners in the Long Beach jail, on the seventh floor of the City Hall, was caused by the swaying of the building. Dishes and bric-a-brac suffered to some extent.

So far as reported no damage occurred in Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Pedro, Santa Monica or the south beaches. The earth slide at Point Fermin was not accentuated. Santa Ana reported a slight shake but no damage. Riverside, Burbank and Pomona barely felt the shock. It was not perceptible at San Bernardino or San Diego.

At Compton the floor in the Council chamber of the City Hall was cracked slightly. However, no structural damage developed according to City Building Inspector J. C. Park. Plastering in several business houses was knocked loose.

Workers in the high tower of the new Los Angeles City Hall noticed a swaying of the structure, but a careful examination failed to show even a cracked tile. Few persons on the ground or in vehicles felt the shake.

Ralph Arnold, geologist, said the temblor appeared to originate in the Puente Hills northeast of Whittier. From there it spread out fanlike westward and to a less extent north and south. Observers said the tremor appeared to be north and south in direction.

H. O. Wood, director of the Carnegie Institution's Seismological Laboratory on North San Rafael Road, Pasadena, last night estimated the origin of the earthquake at a distance of from 25 to 30 kilometers from the laboratory in the probable general direction of Whittier.

Film Delegates to Be Guests of Breakfast Club

Delegates to the eighth annual sales convention of Columbia Pictures Corporation, now in session at the Roosevelt, will be guests of the Breakfast Club tomorrow morning.

The feature of today's program was an address by Shannon Crandall, president of the Chamber of Commerce. He praised the motion-picture men for their part in helping to build up the city, and congratulated them on the advent of talking pictures, which he believes are destined to aid materially to the growth of the industry.

The managers, many of whom are on a first visit to Hollywood, will be given an opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge of sound-picture making methods.

COUNCIL CONFIRMS IMPROVEMENT LEVIES

At the same time the Council continued the hearing of protests against the improvement of Chandler Boulevard between Tujunga and Pacoima avenues until Thursday, and the improvement of Avenue 43 between Marmion Way and Fontenac avenue until the 18th inst. Hearing of protests against the setback lines in Ocean Front Walk between Fifty-first street and the Esplanade were continued until August 5.

comply with the Department of Commerce regulations requiring ten flights within the past sixty days in the type of plane in which a transport pilot is to transport passengers. In the City of Philadelphia he made his required number of flights within a period of forty-five minutes.

As co-pilot of the City of Los Angeles, Col. Lindbergh had with him yesterday Edward A. Bellande. The pilot and co-pilot, respectively, of the second ship were Stephen R. Shore and Wesley Phillipi. All three will remain on the Los Angeles-Clovis division of the new air-line.

Altogether, the T.A.T. has thirty-four veteran pilots on the transcontinental line, selected personally by Col. Lindbergh, who is chairman of the technical committee of the company. The trimotored Ford planes, eleven of which have been assigned to the run, likewise were selected by the colonel.

Following his return to Los Angeles today, Lindbergh will pilot the City of San Francisco, a Maddux plane, to San Francisco tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by H. W. Beck, western traffic manager of T. A. T.

WESTBOUND PLANES REACH WAYNOKA GOAL

WAYNOKA (Okla.) July 8. (AP)—Running a little behind schedule, the two westbound planes of the Transcontinental Air Transport Company of which Col. Charles A Lindbergh is chairman of the technical committee, completed half of the coast-to-coast journey when they arrived here at 6:12 p.m. central standard time.

The score of passengers that filled the two trimotored planes left the Pennsylvania terminal in New York City by train last night. They took to the air at Columbus, O., this morning, and the 938-mile plane journey from that city took not quite eleven hours, including stops at Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City and Wichita.

STORM GREETS AERIAL PARTY

nology "T" on the slope of Mt. Wilson slipped past so near that it seemed it would have been easy to hit with a rock.

Monrovia, Pomona and other valley cities lay hidden in a thin mist as Col. Lindbergh gained altitude to cross the walls of Cajon Pass. Automobiles like little black bugs crawled alongside a train making its way through the pass. Lake Arrowhead glistened through the clearing skies and the City of Los Angeles struck out for the Colorado River.

One hour after the take-off the City of Los Angeles found the winding Colorado River, where it comes out of the mountains above Needles, Ariz., flew parallel with one of its gigantic turns for a minute and then pointed its nose over the mountain between the river and Kingman, Ariz.

Four of the passengers were asleep when Col. Lindbergh cut the motors for a landing at Kingman, three minutes ahead of schedule. Mrs. Lindbergh laid down the book she had been reading to watch her famous husband set down the plane.

The Devil's Playground, giant masses of desert rock formation, poked its silhouette above the desert floor two hours after the Glendale take-off. Colored cross sections of the formations looked like slices of a birthday cake from 8000 feet when the plane's shadow traced its way across them.

It was so cool in the plane that it was hard to realize that a desert traveler would be sweltering in the heat below.

Lunch, consisting of cold meats, salad, grape fruit, cake and coffee served on individual trays by the ship's courier, came as a welcome repast. Col. Lindbergh and his co-pilot, Eddie Bellande, did not eat, but the passengers ate and conversed for nearly an hour. Trays served as desks following the meal and fountain-pens were kept busy on letters, the City of Los Angeles riding easily and smoothly.

Mrs. Lindbergh showed far less concern than the others on the trip when her husband jockeyed the ship around the lightning and storm of the Winslow approach.

"You are used to these things by now, Mrs. Lindbergh, aren't you?" she was asked.

"Oh, yes."

"How many hours have you had in the air with Col. Lindbergh?"

"I haven't any idea," she replied.

AIR JAUNT THRILLS NOVICE

Passenger on First Transcontinental Train-Plane Journey Enraptured by Experience

BY BETTY BRAINERD

WAYNOKA (Okla.) July 8. (Exclusive)—Six hundred thirty-one miles by Pennsylvania Railroad in 13h., 50m.; 938 by Transcontinental Air Transport in 9h., 12m., since the band played "California Here We Come." When I boarded the City of Columbus plane I suddenly became nervous, rainy and foggy. I experienced every known sensation except a toothache. I managed to reach my seat in the great plane right behind the pilots.

The sensation of the first lift was not unlike the thrill of a child's swing, only accentuated—grander, higher from the earth, steady in one direction except for minor deviations. A swing toward the great trackless lanes our aviators have charted across the continent.

BECOMING AIR-MINDED

Col. Henderson told me to relax. I did. Immediately my nervous tension broke. Noticed Amelia Earhart writing a telegram. The nine prominent business men seemed unconcerned. I truly became air-minded. You have seen nothing until you have looked out of a fine plane like this. Rivers like lovely strings of pearls, gleaming in the sun that filtered through occasionally.

We averaged 1000 feet, ducking low to keep away from fog and high winds. Exquisite patches of vari-colored farm lands like marvelously colored Paisley shawls. Yonder train traveling in what I now consider an old-fashioned way. This is window shopping from the sky. I am sitting on top of the world.

There is a poetic evenness about all things we have passed today as we wing our way along this strange course between heaven and earth. Even the horizon, the earth's rim, straight and dark, where colors and forms and sizes merge into a oneness of aspect, seems clearly cut as I look upon it. The cut is as clean as if it had been ruled or made to meet the faithfulness of the carpenter's square.

What a wonderful impression I get from the noise and throb of this air car. I feel its pulsations. It is alive. It chatters, sings and laughs as it rides the winds. It is the song of man's victory over the forces of nature—the song and laughter of daring progress in the peaceful arts.

There were no stowaways on board except a fly. The closest thing to contraband was my unused bottle of smelling salts. I'm only taking thirty pounds of baggage with me—that's all you can take on a regular passenger ticket. There isn't a woman in the world who can get that much into a vanity case.

MAGNIFICENTLY CONCEIVED

This plane-and-train passenger service has been so magnificently conceived that even pilots and couriers were selected for good looks as well as flying genius, reliability and efficiency. I'm going places and doing things in a great big way.

Read about my trip, you other unluckier women, and weep. Any woman who is afraid to go up in these planes is old fashioned. This is the way to travel. There is almost room enough to dance, but T. A. T. forgot to put an orchestra aboard—and one of the pilots looks so danceable.

ANGELENO AIR MARK SIGHTED

Los Angeles forces, a barbed - wire inclosure has been built to encompass the airmen when they alight.

Shortly after their second refueling contact of the day at which 100 gallons of gasoline were transferred to the Angeleno, Mendell and Reinhart requested some rubbing alcohol and "a dollar watch, correctly set."

At 7:30 a.m. today the endurance flyers will have entered their eighth day in the air and at 2:30 p.m. they will have broken the 174-hour, 59-second record set at Cleveland last Saturday by Roy Mitchell and Byron Newcomb by one hour, as is the official requirement.

A third transfer of fuel and oil at 7:30 p.m. was scheduled to run them through the night, throughout which they planned to circle over a nine-mile course above the Culver City field. The speed of the Angeleno was estimated yesterday at eighty miles per hour and the gasoline consumption of the ship at thirteen gallons.

A daylight refueling today, it was estimated, will be sufficient to carry them past the present record, but sharing the enthusiastic optimism of the pilots, officials of the airport have prepared to continue replenishing operations indefinitely.

ART FANCIER TAKES STAND

Millionaire Testifies to Asserted Swindling

Collection Declared to Have Been Misrepresented

Dealer Will be Called by Defense Today

Testimony of W. J. Hole, millionaire art connoisseur, being sued by Jules Ratzkowsky, art collector, for $89,978 over an asserted deal involving art objects and antiques valued by Ratzkowsky at $200,000, yesterday occupied the major portion of the day in Superior Judge Archbald's court.

Ratzkowsky probably will be placed on the witness stand today for cross-examination by attorneys for Hole.

In his complaint Ratzkowski asserts that he transferred the art collection to Hole and his wife, Mary, for a cash consideration of $50,000 and farming land in Riverside county. The land, he asserts, is not worth what it was represented to be worth.

Following the art collector's suit, Hole and his wife filed a cross-complaint in the action for $150,000, declaring that Ratzkowski failed to provide documentary proof of the genuineness of the art collection, valued by them at not more than $50,000.

According to Hole and his wife, Ratzkowski represented the collection as part of one once reposing in the Chateau de Biarge in France. This and other claims as to the merit of the art objects, now on display in the courtroom of Judge Archbald, are contradicted by Mr. and Mrs. Hole.

Upon conclusion of testimony by Hole, represented by Attorneys Crump and Clayson, and Ratzkowski, represented by Attorney Vallee, the case will be submitted.

Mother Confesses to Burning Her Infant

POLICE SHUDDER AT GRIM STORY

Love of Gayety Blamed for Young Parent's Act

Baby's Carriage Ignited by Match, Girl Says

Neighbor Sees Flames and Attempts Rescue

Josephine Valenti, a 19-year-old mother, was kept from the tinseled pleasures of life she desired above the joys of motherhood by the presence of an 8-months-old son, and yesterday she burned the child to death. Last night she calmly confessed to police.

Sitting in the homicide detail office at central police headquarters without a trace of emotion, the young mother told Detective Lieutenants Condaffer, Montgomery and Harris and strange and cruel a story of infanticide as ever has been recorded in the annals of local police.

DIED IN FLAMES

The child, Dominic, died in a burst of flame and smoke that enveloped his baby carriage in the yard of the Valenti home, 669 Moulton avenue, after his mother had tossed a match onto the soft woolen blankets near his head, assured herself that the fire was caught sufficiently, and walked away to converse with her mother-in-law.

John Giros, a neighbor, of 661 Moulton avenue, saw the flame and smoke leaping from the child's pyre, between the rear of the house and the garage where Mrs. Valenti had placed the carriage. He gave the alarm. Mrs. Valenti left her mother-in-law, Mrs. Rosie Valenti, to whom she was talking, and rushed to drag away the blazing carriage, she said, lest it fire the house.

NEIGHBOR FIGHTS FIRE

Giros beat down the fire, and recovered little Dominic's body, but the smother of fire had killed him and he was burned almost beyond recognition.

The officers who went to investivate were impressed with the lack of emotion about Mrs. Valenti; in fact, they said, she made efforts to jest with them. Hours later, while the officers went into the tragedy thoroughly, viewing the child's body with the woman and further confirming their suspicions against her stoutly maintained innocence, she tripped on one question and then from her lips, the officers say, came the amazing confession of asserted infanticide.

THREATENED TO LEAVE

Two years ago, she said, according to Condaffer, Harris and Montgomery, Sabatini Valenti, who is a laborer at a motion-picture studio, brought her to Los Angeles from New York, and they lived together. Little Dominic was born last November. Josephine and Sabatini were married last April.

Since the child's birth the home life of the Valentis has been troublesome, the husband said. Mrs. Valenti rebelled at having to care for the child, threatened to leave him and often expressed a desire for more worldly pleasures.

Yesterday, Mrs. Valenti told the police, while giving the baby its morning bath she contemplated its destruction.

Accordingly she carefully finished little Dominic's bath. She dressed him lightly, smoothed down the soft woolen blankets in the carriage, placed the baby on them and wheeled him into the sunlight near the rear of the house.

ACT DESCRIBED

Mrs. Valenti went around to the front of the house and began a conversation with her mother-in-law, but returned once or twice to see the child and then determined to carry out her plan.

TALE OF CRUELTY SHOCKS OFFICERS

Josephine Valenti

She went into the house, she told the officers, got a match and returned to the carriage where the chubby child lay gurgling, smiling and kicking in the sunlight. With deliberate calmness she stooped over and scratched the match on the concrete driveway. She nursed the flames in cupped hands until it was strong and dropped it in the carriage.

As the fire caught quickly on the blankets and began spreading toward the baby Mrs. Valenti said she stepped back and hesitated until she was certain the blaze would burn vigorously.

Then she turned her back on the smoking pyre of her helpless baby son and went to exchange neighborhood gossip with her mother-in-law.

RESCUE ATTEMPTED

Giros saw the fire and attempted to save the child, but the Coroner's assistants say the little life was snuffed out quickly, probably before the mother left.

Mrs. Valenti told it all over and over again, the officers say, and reenacted the scenes for them on the spot where the tragedy occurred after viewing the body at the morgue.

She is to be charged with murder today, according to Condaffer, Harris and Montgomery, the officers who obtained her confession.

At Central headquarters she joked and talked with Policewoman Belles, while her 21-year-old husband considerably grieved and sat in another office. He denied her assertion that she took the baby's life because of poverty. He said he consistently has provided sufficient funds for their home and the child.

Further investigation of the case is to be made today, Condaffer says, on the husband's statement that two men recently threatened his life and alienated his wife's affections.

GRAPE-HELP PROGRAM TO BE OUTLINED

Vineyard Owners Living in Los Angeles Will Hear of Plans at Meeting

A complete grape industry program developed by the California Vineyardists' Association and the Federal Grape Stabilization Corporation, will be presented to vineyard owners living in Los Angeles, at a meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. on the ninth floor, Chamber of Commerce Building, according to H. Allen Thompson, local representative of the grape growers' organization.

Mr. Thompson says that, with thousands of acres of vineyard lands located in all parts of California owned by Los Angeles residents, the meeting has been called to give the owners an opportunity to learn first hand the plans of the industry looking toward its participation in the recent national farm-relief legislation.

Midweek Fare to Beaches Cut

Beach excursion tickets, at rates from 40 to 60 per cent lower than regular round-trip fares, will be placed on sale tomorrow by the Pacific Electric Railway. Thereafter they will be sold each Wednesday throughout the summer, the last excursion day being September 4, next, states an announcement issued today by D. W. Pontius, president of the company.

Under the reduced midweek rates round-trip fares to Santa Monica Ocean Park, Venice and Holton will be 30 cents for adults and 20 cents for children under 12 years of age. A 40-cent fare for adults and 20-cent fare for children will be effective to Long Beach, San Pedro, Seal Beach, Redondo Beach, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach and El Segundo.

HIGHWAY RULING ADOPTED

An ordinance declaring Vermont avenue, across Nigger Slough, a county highway, was adopted yesterday by the Council.

LYNWOOD PAVING SUIT CALLED OFF

Suburb's Dispute Over Pacific Electric Company Assessment Compromised

With indications pointing to a long-drawn-out litigation involving assessment against the Pacific Electric right of way in Lynwood, an amicable settlement was made yesterday.

The Pacific Electric Railway some months ago filed suit against the city of Lynwood and O. U. Miracle, contractor, to restrain payment of what it asserts was an excessive assessment in the improvement of Fernwood avenue. The railway had been assessed for one-third of the cost of the paving. It contended that such share was unreasonable, in that the railway did not share to that extent in the benefits to be derived.

Following an adverse decision a few weeks ago in the Superior Court the road was preparing to appeal he decision to the California Supreme Court. The contractor settled the case on the basis of cost to the railway of the curb and three feet of the paving.

K. of C. Dinner for New Deputy Planned Sunday

More than 1000 Knights of Columbus and their ladies have made reservations for the inaugural banquet for State Deputy-elect Robert A. McKenzie at 6:30 p.m. next Sunday in the Elite Cafe. Announcement was made by Richard B. Hayes, chairman of the banquet general committee. Frank J. Berry, Master of the Fourth Degree, will be toastmaster, and Joseph Scott will deliver the principal address.

Prominent knights who will attend include Supreme Director Thomas P. White, Supreme Warden David F. Supple, Isadore Dockweiler, Judge Desmond and Judge Aggeler. Representing the clergy at the dinner will be Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco, Bishop Armstrong of Sacramento, a representative of Bishop John J. Cantwell of Los Angeles, Father Joseph Sullivan, president of Loyola College, and Father Joseph Stack, State chaplain. Two major degrees will be conferred in the afternoon by Los Angeles and Manchester Heights councils.

Air Travel of 1928 Exceeded in Six Months

The impetus which air travel has received so far this year is indicated in a report issued yesterday by Western Air Express showing that 7880 passengers were carried on the company's lines from January 1 to July 1, as compared with 6794 for the entire year 1928.

"The surprising feature of this growth," the report states, "is that the Los Angeles-Kansas City line, making rail connections to all parts of the country, operated at 50 per cent of capacity during June, the first month of its existence. An average of twelve persons a day was maintained.

"The total for the month on this line was 371 paid passengers. Eastbound travel was about 50 per cent greater than that originating out of Kansas City. The six trimotored Fokkers used on this line flew a total of 86,000 miles during the month without mishap."

Still for Home Supply Brings Prison Term

Because Leslie K. McGregor, 38 years of age, wanted to "make a little liquor for his own use" he found himself yesterday under a San Quentin sentence of from one to five years and a fine of $1000 in addition.

McGregor had pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of a still and his plea for probation was denied by Superior Judge Wilson. McGregor told prohibtion officers the still was presented to him by a friend and he did not intend to use it in making liquor for commercial purposes. The report revealed that McGregor enjoyed a previously clear record and there was no evidence that he had sold any liquor.

It was said the still was of twenty-five-gallon capacity.

NEW DRAMA ACADEMY WILL MAKE ITS BOW

The couple maried June 28, 1924, and separated March 13, last, according to testimony.

MANY STARS TO APPEAR IN JUBILEE

Second Film Industry Benefit Entertainment to Be Given August 7

The second annual affair to be sponsored by members of the motion-picture industry in behalf of the Los Angeles Sanatorium is to be given at Hollywood Bowl Wednesday evening, August 7. To be known as the Hollywood Midsummer Jubilee, the entertainment will bring together stars of the stage, screen and musical world on a program boasting only headline talent, it is declared by William Koenig, Warner Brothers studio manager and chairman of the general committee in charge.

Indorsed and supported by the Community Chest, the sanatorium at Duarte, which succors those stricken by tuberculosis, is hard pressed to meet current deficits entailed by expansion and the proceeds of the jubilee will be presented to the institution as the motion-picture industry's share toward the recently concluded Amalgamation Deficit Appeal.

Last year the film folk staged a successful entertainment for the same cause at Warner Brothers Hollywood Theater and it is anticipated that the forthcoming jubilee at the Bowl will meet with equal support. Among the larger spectacles already booked on the special Bowl program are beauty choruses from current sound film productions, dancing ensembles and an act featuring a dozen pianists playing as one.

Plea in Julian Case Denied

Application for probation filed by Johiel Katzev, following his conviction for usury in connection with the Julian Petroleum debacle, was denied yesterday by Municipal Judge Pope. Katzev is out on bail pending his appeal to Superior Court from the six months' jail sentence imposed by Judge Pope following his conviction.

Trial of Arthur Perry, wholesale garment dealer, on similar charges was started yesterday before Judge Pope. At the time of adjournment last night a jury had not been selected. The trial will be resumed this morning.

Today's Bible Text

But let us, who are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love and for an helmet, the hope of salvation. 1 Thessalonians ii:8.

MAY BE SO

They say that Kemal Pasha wishes to make a journey to the United States. Maybe he has ambition for a career in the movies.

FRIEND OF RUSSIA

Anybody wishing to see Russia should get a card or letter from Senator Borah. The Idaho statesman is the blue-eyed wonder of the soviet leaders and they love him better than any other living American. A word from him is good for admission to paths that are usually forbidden to the stranger.

THE VICTORIANS

No girl students with backless gowns or sockless legs are wanted at the Hoosier University. The idea that maids must go in the raw and get all tanned up by the sun does not appeal to the faculty. So what can a poor girl do? If she craves an education she will have to don something more than a slave bracelet.

AT THE BORDER

Senator McKellar suggests a consolidation of the nation's border patrol into an independent service that would be available for all purposes. It would not only collect and protect all customs duties, but would cope with narcotic smugglers, rum runners, unadmissible aliens, international criminals and all other assailants of peace and law. Maybe it would be better to enlist the Army and Navy in this service and make a complete job of it.

THE LADY'S SHOES

A Massachusetts shoe manufacturer tells the Senate committee that unless there is a protective tariff on women's footwear the industry will be obsolete here in ten years. He demands a tariff of 35 per cent. It is difficult to make any ten-year statement regarding the shoes of our loved ones. Even now they are making them of straw, snakeskin, canvas, satin, felt, rubber, paper and almost everything but leather. The dames may be going barefooted by that time. They have a fine start already. It will take more than a tariff to decide. This Massachusetts man is talking through his porous plaster.

MAKING 'EM OVER

A prominent Italian surgeon is reported as having done some remarkable work in the rejuvenation of a number of old-timers by the processes of blood transfusion. He has tapped the crimson current of youth and suffered it to flow into the veins of senility. The results are said to be surprising, although their duration is not assured. The same experiment has been essayed in this country with no enduring advantage, although transfusion may be a life-saver for the moment. There is no idea, however, that an octogenarian can be brought back to the kindergarten by the simple process of siphoning the blood of youth into his sluggish veins.

CONFUSION OF TONGUES

The impression prevails that President Hoover likes his ambassadors, consuls and other diplomatic representatives to speak the language of the nation to which they are accredited. Anyhow, it is rather important that our ministers to the South American republics should be able to speak Spanish. It is not a very difficult language to acquire and they could at least pick up enough of it to enable them to order an omelet without calling in an interpreter. Of course when our diplomats get over in the Balkans, where half a dozen tongues may be on tap in one afternoon, it is expecting too much to ask the American Minister to read all the papers understandingly. But there is no doubt that if an ambassador can speak the language of the land wherein he is serving his government his value is increased at least 50 per cent. It is the new policy of the State Department to place its consuls and agents where they can be of the greatest importance to Uncle Sam's service. The languages they speak will determine this in almost every case. The valuable diplomats of the future will know French, German, Spanish and Italian in addition to their own English.

THE MAN AND THE JOB

Mayor Porter at the outset of his administration faces the hardest test of all executives, that of filling the many positions in the public service that come under his control and in each case of appointing the right man to fill the particular job. By the skill, ability and independence the Mayor displays in the choice of men to administer the various city offices, more than on other factors, depends the successful carrying on of our Los Angeles municipal affairs for the next four years. To eliminate all mere office-seekers at the start, and to pick the man the job requires, not the man who requires the job, is the course best calculated to serve the public interest.

In making his selections the Mayor might well take a leaf from the Presidential book. President Hoover, to the chagrin and amazement of the Washington politicians, has started an innovation in official life by disregarding all personal appeals and entangling alliances and basing all Federal appointments on what the position demands, not on what the applicant or his friends expect.

Thousands seeking to "serve their country" with an eye primarily to their own personal interests cool their heels vainly in vestibules and ante-chambers while the President personally picks the capable few that the work requires. Politicians are extremely tenacious in their efforts to perpetuate the system first introduced into American government by Andrew Jackson. But President Hoover can more than match their tenacity by his iron determination to find the right men, chosen solely on personal merit, experience, integrity and ability and having found them, to draft them into the public service.

This is no easy task but it promises results that the old system of political patronage has failed to effect. Because the right man for the job is, of necessity, as difficult to persuade as the string-puller is easy to procure. A good instance of the Hoover method is seen in the appointment of C. C. Teague to the Federal Farm Board. Mr. Teague, being a man of many duties and interests, already had his hands full of work; he could not see his way to add to his present responsibilities. Yet for that very reason he was just the man the Farm Board needed. And for the same reason President Hoover was determined to have him. In effect, the President drafted Mr. Teague over the latter's declination.

To party advisers schooled in generations of political pie-passing on a basis of campaign services, personal friendship, business association or other accepted patronage reasons such an appointment as that of President Hoover's when he named William D. Mitchell, a Democrat, as Attorney-General was well-nigh incomprehensible. And with scores of willing patriots eager to accept the salary and perquisites of the Interior portfolio, the old-line politicians could not understand why the President was willing to go to so much trouble to overcome the reluctance of the Stanford University officials to give a leave of absence to the university's president, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, to become Secretary of the Interior. More gasps went up when Mr. Hoover appointed William Starbuck, another Democrat, to the Federal Radio Commission. For the commission to investigate crime conditions the President literally combed the country, drafting the best qualified wherever he could find them, not hesitating to take judges from the bench, professional men from their busy offices, even a college president from her rostrum. Throughout his list of appointments which, though numerous, have been few in comparison with past "patronage" lists, the President has sedulously followed the same rule—to ignore every consideration save that of maximum fitness and, having determined who best would fill a given post, to spare no pains to get him. In a majority of cases the Hoover appointees have been drafted in the face of personal reluctance. There are no office-seekers among them and no "yes-men."

The same principle holds wherever important public posts are to be filled. For such a place the man who must be drafted is apt to be the man the people need, not the one too anxious to jump in whether trained or untrained. Some are born to jobs like hereditary rulers; some acquire jobs like members of a political ring; others have jobs thrust upon them; and the more there are in the last category the more efficient will be the service, whether public or private.

The people of Los Angeles have confidence in the good intentions of Mayor Porter to give this city an honest and business-like administration. The same test is before him as that through which President Hoover is passing with so much credit to himself and so much advantage to the American people.

If the Mayor wishes at the start to confirm the estimation in which he is held he will pattern himself on the Hoover model in the all-important task of selecting appointees for municipal offices. He will disregard the horde of voracious office-seekers. He will try to find men whose services are so valuable that they must be drafted for the occasion. And having found them he will stick to them till he has persuaded them to make the personal sacrifices that their acceptance entails.

BATHERS WARNED

From many parts of the country, particularly seaside places, come the usual summertime reports of accidental drownings. As in the case of many automobile fatalities, for "accident" one should read "cause and effect," for to bring into play all the essential factors for the production of a fatality and then call it an "accident" hardly seems a logical use of the term.

A person who knows little about swimming ventures out beyond his depth or a canoe paddler or skiff rower stands up in his craft or rocks it for the fun of scaring somebody, and when the fatal "accident" occurs it is a cause of wonder, though only to those who cannot seem to realize that water is not man's native element and that due care should be exercised when one ventures in or upon its depths.

California has more and better bathing beaches than any other State in the Union and the most frequented ones are fairly well provided with life guards, yet danger to reckless swimmers is here as elsewhere. In the East health officers are broadcasting daily or weekly warnings to ocean and lake bathers. Health Commissioner Wynne of New York stresses the point of overconfidence as one of the great dangers in swimming. This is well, for no matter how good a swimmer may be or how he likes to show off or test his endurance, there are such things as undertows, offshore currents, chills and cramps.

Then, too, there is danger in swimming on a full stomach, swimming when overtired and swimming far out into the ocean alone. Stout swimmers may believe that the rules given out by the health officials do not apply to them. But they do, though of course they apply more especially to those whose knowledge of surf bathing is scant.

If the warnings given every year to bathers at the beaches and lakeside resorts were heeded there would be few drowning "accidents."

The LEE SIDE o' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

"I MUST break the record," he said,
"For a lot depends upon it—
Though the risks fill me with dread
I can't stop until I've done it.
I must make the flight of flights,
All competitors to surpass—
For I've already sold the newsreel rights
And the ads for oil and gas!"

YEAH, WHO STARTED THAT WAR?
I'LL TELL YOU WHO—!

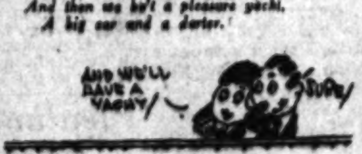
Last night we dreamed that we had just landed in Mars from a record-breaking airplane, and the Martians crowded around us in eager curiosity. It was 1940.

"What's the big war now wiping out most of your world about?" they asked. "We thought the League of Nations and the Kellogg pacts had wiped out all chances for war."

"All but one," we explained. "But this one had to come. It was over the old, useless, unquenchable argument as to who started the last previous war."

Satisfying Wealth

That gladsome day I wrote my play
The trustful wife and I
Began to blow its proceeds so
We soon were living high.
A most sedate, refined estate
We purchased for a starter
And then we bo't a pleasure yacht,
A big car and a darter.



AND WE'LL HAVE A YACHT!

(Alas! Within my desk today Reposes, all unsold, the play.)

That day of note "The end" I wrote
On page last of my novel
We started out to knock about,
Far from our crowded hovel.
Rich gifts we threw at all we knew
Who had a claim upon us,
And then carefree abroad fared we,
To let the whole world fun us.

(That book has brought, by many trips,
Nine dollars' worth rejection slips.)

Some folk depose their money goes
Not far enough by half,
But we have found the kind which round
The world can make us laugh,
Can buy all sweets, assure all treats,
Unlock all gates of bliss,
And never yet through it we met
Vile disillusion's hiss.

The farthest-going riches yet
Are those you dream but never get!

News to Us, Too

Lee: Chicago doctors announce that they are going to let the sick pay for their treatment on the installment plan.

Why, did anybody ever pay a doctor bill any other way?—R. B.

"Woman Is Changeable—"

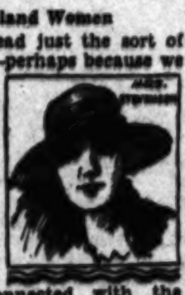
Already some of the girls are buying lotions to whiten their skins again. One stepped into a Long Beach drug store and asked: "Have you change for a tan-spot?"

How About the Lyin'?

The office grouch says some girls may belong to the cat family, but they're not akin to the leopard, which cannot change its spots.

Two Clever Southland Women

We can't all lead just the sort of lives we want to—perhaps because we can't all dig up the courage and enterprise which distinguish Mrs. Laura H. Stevenson and Miss Alberta Ellison.



Mrs. Stevenson used to teach music in and near Los Angeles, and later was connected with the Bishop School, La Jolla, where Miss Ellison then was secretary. Both longed to really know the historic centers of music and art in Europe, and Miss Ellison also cherished a quaint desire for a degree from London University.

"My dear," said Mrs. Stevenson, "I'm 50, and have been dreaming of that since girlhood. You're young, but if you keep on putting it off you'll get over that. Let's save up and go."

And so, in the mysterious way school-teachers must and do, they saved money and went abroad.

Making Dreams Come True

They fell in love with Florence. So they calmly decided to start a school there for American girls. Now they own a charming villa there with accommodations for about fifteen girls. Every summer Mrs. Stevenson sails from Los Angeles with a party of students, taking in many interesting points en route, including Pompeii and Naples. Every week-end the students go out to visit some interesting place in Italy, every Christmas week they spend in Rome, and then in spring they return to America, with stop-overs in Venice and points in Germany or France and England. Mrs. Stevenson comes with them and spends the summer with her daughter, Mrs. H. Randolph Wood, who lives in a suburb of Los Angeles.

A COMMENDABLE APPOINTMENT

The vacancy on the Board of Education, due to the election of Robert L. Burns to the City Council, could have been filled in no better way than by the appointment of E. E. Calvin, a man whose quality as a good citizen and capable business man has been proven in many responsible positions. Los Angeles now has a complete working school board where there are no square pegs in round holes, but where suitable material is at hand to fill the necessary positions on the various committees.

Mr. Calvin, for many years general manager in California of the Southern Pacific and lately retired from the vice-presidency of the Union Pacific Railway, came to Los Angeles, as so many retired business men are doing, to spend the rest of his life in the quiet comfort of our Southern Californian surroundings. But urge for active participation in the affairs of the community was stronger than the desire for rest. When the opportunity presented itself for turning his experiences of years of executive work to further useful ends he accepted the position on the school board and so made a valuable addition to a board already remarkable for the fine timber of its members. The schools of Los Angeles are fortunate in obtaining his services and the Board of Education is to be congratulated on the appointment.

SWIFT WINGS

Almost daily some new record is being hung up in the heavens by aviators. They have the place in the sun and even kings are standing looking up into the sky to see what is going to happen next.

Hawks has broken his record established but a few hours earlier in his flight from Los Angeles to New York. He had come West in 19 hours, 10 minutes and 32 seconds. Then he hardly waited for his motor to cool before whirling it about on a return trip that lasted but 17 hours, 38 minutes and 59 seconds. Hawks was out to defeat the old record of Capt. Collyer and Harry Tucker of 24 hours and 51 minutes.

It took the human race from 1492 to 1849 completely to span the United States. Some took the greater part of a year in going around Cape Horn. Others packed across Panama and spent months sailing on either side to reach San Francisco.

Last fall from New York to Los Angeles by rail required three days, eleven and one-third hours. Quite recently this time was cut down. It is now made by air-rail in two nights and a day.

The Pyle marathon last year "footed" up twenty-three days and twenty-one hours. Going by Panama Canal demands fourteen days. However, in his flightiest moments Jules Verne never dreamed of hopping from Los Angeles to New York between two moons.

THE SIGN LANGUAGE

Wife of deaf mute husband complains that her partner doesn't treat her right. When she is talking to him and he doesn't like what she says he quickly turns out the light so that he can't see what she is talking about. This is no way to treat a lady.

THE WRONG TIP

By James J. Montague

When I was in my middle 'teens,
With neither brains nor cash to spare
I pondered much on ways and means
To make myself a billionaire.
I had small doubt that boundless gold
I should be able to secure,
For I had frequently been told
That Rockefeller started poor.

If he, without a helping hand
And not a dollar in the bank,
Could in a few brief years command
Pre-eminent financial rank,
I thought that I could do the same
And dreamed of the approaching day
When I should earn the world's acclaim
By giving princely sums away.

Alas, for all those fatuous dreams;
My hopes of riches were in vain.
In spite of all my plans and schemes
No fortune did I ever gain.
The wolf is camped outside my door
Arrayed in an expansive grin,
And it may not be long before
He gnaws the lock off and steps in.

And now I'm told that when John D.
Began his riches to accrue
'Way back along in '83,
That he was fairly well-to-do.
I haven't got a cent to show;
I'm low in mind and sick at heart;
It's too darn bad I didn't know
He had me beaten at the start.

Ida to the Rescue

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As if we were not having troubles enough this hot weather, comes Miss Ida Tarbell, muckraker of distinction, in the current issue of Liberty, with a peculiarly horrifying prophecy of what will happen if the supporters of the Eighteenth Amendment do not ease up in their crusade against the liberties and free choices of those who want to look occasionally upon the wine when it is red. Miss Tarbell does not exactly claim this over-ruled and down-trodden minority are our best people, but their gallant resistance to oppression and the fact that their cause is championed by President Lowell, Nicholas Murray Butler, Upton Sinclair and herself, with others of the intelligentsia, would seem to at least qualify them as the spiritual descendants of the old Garrisonians, to whom the Constitution was "A league with death and a covenant with hell." Why should a bigoted and low-browed majority be allowed to impose its brutal will on people who simply ask the privilege of being permitted to do just as they please?

We had civil war in this country because we trampled on the liberties of the slave owners, and now, alas, the same calamity impends if we do not treat this personal liberty complex with a little more consideration. Away with the hypocritical pretense that a desire to conserve the livers, the kidneys, the arteries, the bank rolls, the business reputations and the domestic happiness of these martyrs to principle is sufficient justification for depriving them of their alcoholic opportunities!

INQUIRER.

Scandinavian Citizens

CULVER CITY, July 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have read in today's Times that a new national origins quota of the immigration law is to go into effect July 2 and that this new quota, strangely enough, is based on the blood in this country at the time America became a nation. As a result of this ruling the quotas for Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Germany have been reduced about two-thirds, while, on the other hand, those of Italy and other Southern European countries have been increased almost as heavily.

It is very evident to all unprejudiced observers of the social, industrial and political life of this country that immigrants of the German and Scandinavian races are today, as they have ever been, among our highest types of citizens. The great majority of them come from the intelligent, hard-working, law-abiding middle class of their native land, and seldom, if ever, are they found among the law-defying elements. Can as much be said for our citizens of Southern European blood? An examination of the records of the criminal courts will very quickly show that it cannot.

Too Much Radio

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Is there a law of any kind to keep people from turning on radios from early morn till late at night, with no let-up whatsoever?

Next door to me people have a new radio and they seem to act like children, no feelings for anyone else, and I have heard others complain also that they have to leave their home in order to get away from that continual radio.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Book-keeping?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

In six weeks of intensive study an evening-school student can learn to handle a simple set of books, how to close the books and find out whether there is profit or loss. Such a course will be given free by the Polytechnic Evening High School, 400 West Washington Boulevard, from July 8 to August 16. The class will meet in room 303 from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

While there is no charge for instruction each student must furnish his own practice blanks, which usually amount to $1 for the course. Then there is $1 book deposit, which will be refunded when the book is returned.

For those who already know a little book-keeping there will be an advanced class, taking up partnership, corporation, and cost accounting. This course usually requires a year and a half beyond the beginners' class, but ambitious students can often cover both classes by attending every evening for ten months.

Big Boy Wants Bigger Socks

Seventeen-year-old Max Starr of London, is complaining that he cannot get socks big enough. Max is six feet four inches tall, weighs 252 pounds and is still growing. His boots and clothes are made specially for him, but he has to be content with size 12 socks, which are so tight that they last only a day. His mother says he is a tremendous expense. He is believed to be England's biggest boy.

ELKS FORE AND AFT

BY EUGENE BROWN

I remember once reading in a book that you could tell an elk by the high shoulders, short neck and ponderous lip. But that was in a book. Come to find out you can't tell an Elk anything. He has either heard it before or is too busy to listen.

Get this straight now: There are two kinds of Elks. One is a deer and the other is a darling. One has four legs and the other has two—although the latter may be forehanded. One is a rather ponderous animal that may be now found mostly in the zoo and the other is a human being with a grip and a password. One is big game and the other is looking for it.

In his own forest the original elk was a tireless ranger. Some of the old story tellers have spun yarns about seeing specimens that would stand nearly eight feet high and weigh something like 1200 pounds. The bull elk would carry on his forehead a massive pair of antlers that would have a spread of six or seven feet and look for all the world like a gigantic hatrack. This decoration might weigh nearly a hundred pounds, and how an elk could race through dense timber with this contrivance on his eyebrow is more than a dumb Peruvian could ever explain.

The high-brows who write the books on natural history will tell you that the animal known in some sections of the northland as the elk is really the wapiti and in other spots the moose, but on a dark night you can't tell them apart with a dream book. Their thumbprints are pretty much alike.

Nowadays it is even difficult to tell an Elk from a Moose in the glare of Broadway. Possibly you can identify the Elk by his purple socks.

But in the pioneer days in the northland hunters trailed elk or moose with strict impartiality and cared not which they bagged.

Both the bull elk and the bull moose can emit a roar when they are feeling right that could be heard clear across the State of Vermont. The trumpet call of the elk champion is at once a summons and a challenge. It gives a thrill even to the human bosom and is one of the stirring emotional notes of the wilderness.

If one of these two-legged Elks from the Doyle herd could get that off in Pershing Square the police and fire departments would both be on the spot in three minutes.

Mostly the elk of the wilds gets his lunch from the leaves, twigs and small branches of young trees. His short neck and cumbersome antlers spoil his grazing powers. He could hardly nibble a lawn if he were staked out in the midst of Pasadena. His sensitive and rather prehensile lip encourages him in rounding up the leaves and tender shoots that make up his breakfast. So he has plenty of sport in the green season. But when the hardships of winter are on and the scenery is heavily mantled with snow the lunch problem becomes more acute. He may have to make his supper off of our surplus Christmas trees. They are all right to look at, but are not richly commended as refreshment. They are weak in calories.

Civilization and shotguns have been gradually driving the elk out of the picture. There are only a few herds left—just enough to give a name and some glamour to the grand lodge of human Elks. In another generation the elk of the wilds and the forest may have entirely disappeared.

But Bill will carry on.

These handsome and richly caparisoned Elks we now have with us may carry the snooty name of Cervus Alces, but they are called Bill for short—although they are not likely to be short for long. Neither are they condemned to worriment over the source of their fodder. If worst comes to worst they may struggle into the Biltmore and put on the nosebag with safety.

There was a day when the ranks of the Elks were made up almost exclusively of actors—good and bad—but they gradually became more expansive and companionable until now almost any white guy who loves his fellows and keeps his word may gain admittance to the reservation. We are told, in fact, that there are now nearly 900,000 of them and that there are more Elks in California than in any State of the Union save New York and Pennsylvania.

They are a good-natured, kind-hearted and friendly group and they not only take care of their own young, but are not averse to bearing nourishment and cheer to the young of others. In many ways they make this old world more balmy and beneficent to the pilgrims who are passing through.

Big Paintings Puzzle Heirs

What to do with the collection of huge paintings of the late Tivadar Csontvary, the Hungarian artist, has been puzzling his heirs. Each picture is as large as the front of a good-sized house. A plan was tried of selling them by the yard, but so formidable was even the task of unrolling them that when an attempt to photograph them was made the fire department was called in to help spread them out in the great courtyard of the City Hall. This plan of disposing them did not succeed, so a relative has bought the lot and is storing them in his garage for the present.

May Marriages Increase

Efforts in England to break down the prejudice against May marriages are meeting with success, for there was an increase of hymenial events in that month this year. The anti-May idea is inherited from the Romans, the medieval church copying them by forbidding marriage between Rogation and Trinity. The "close time" for marriages was marked in calendars as late as the time of Charles II.

Accused Aide of Keyes on Stand

Harold L. Davis Being Examined by Defense Counsel Paul D'Orr

KEYES JAIL STAY TO GO ON

Appellate Court Will Decide Later on Plea of His Attorneys to Free Him for Health's Sake

Asa Keyes, former District Attorney under sentence to San Quentin prison for accepting a bribe in the Julian cases, will have to remain in the County Jail for several days more at least. This despite assertions of his attorneys in the District Court of Appeals yesterday that Keyes is a victim of tuberculosis and must have proper medical care.

Attorneys Paul Schenck and Milton Cohen, arguing before Justices Thompson, Craig and Hauser on their petition for Keyes's release on bail, told the court that seven physicians who have examined the former County Prosecutor in jail, all are agreed that Keyes will suffer permanent injury to his health unless he is given his freedom to permit proper medical treatment.

Opposing Keyes's release, Dep. Atty.-Gen. Richards questioned the court's jurisdiction in a bail hearing and asserted that a question of bail for a defendant convicted in the Superior Court lies in that same court for settlement. Richards argued that the only procedure in the Appellate Court open to Keyes's attorneys is a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Schenck and Cohen in their argument, however, held that the District Court of Appeals does have jurisdiction to pass on the question of bail for Keyes pending the settlement of his appeal in the same court from the Superior Court's conviction and sentence. The court gave the attorneys two days in which to file a memorandum setting forth the authorities which they cited in their oral argument. The justices held that the question of jurisdiction will have to be settled before any decision may be rendered in the matter of Keyes's release on bail.

LAWYER FACES FIXING QUIZ

Charge Against R. C. Hunting Will be Placed Before Grand Jury at Request of Judge Turney

Charges that R. C. Hunting, Los Angeles attorney, obtained $1500 from two clients under promises to influence a judge, a Municipal Court clerk, arresting officers and others to "fix" liquor charges pending against them, will be placed before the Los Angeles county grand jury for investigation at the request of Raymond I. Turney, presiding judge of the Municipal Court, Dist.-Atty. Fitts announced yesterday.

At the same time Judge Turney announced that he had cited Attorney Hunting for contempt of court, ordering him to appear at 2 p.m. on the 15th inst.

According to Judge Turney, Felice De Rico and his mother, Carla Lencioni, of 3450½ Houston street, came to him and showed receipts for more than $1500 which they assert they paid to Hunting upon his promise to "fix" liquor charges pending against them in Municipal Court.

The two defendants made their statement to the authorities after De Rico had been fined $400 with an alternative of eighty days in the County Jail, and Mrs. Lencioni had been fined $500 and sentenced to 180 days in jail, according to Judge Turney.

SEQUEL OF PLANE CRASH TO BE DOUBLE FUNERAL

A double funeral will be conducted for Gust C. Swanson and Ellis Carlson, who were killed in an airplane crash Sunday afternoon at Baldwin Hills, tomorrow at 10 a.m. in Grace Chapel, Inglewood Park Cemetery. Norquest and Anderson will be in charge.

The accident occurred as the result of misplaced confidence in an antiquated Jenny plane when Swanson lost control of the plane. Carlson jumped clear at a height of 150 feet. Swanson was killed in the wreckage. The plunge was witnessed by many motorists.

Swanson, a cabinet maker for the Weber Showcase Company, lived at 1138 West Twentieth street. He was born in Sweden and his parents still reside there. Carlson, 3247 East Fourth street, was a machinist. A curious fact was that both men were exactly the same age, having been born February 18, 1904. Swanson leaves two sisters, Ruth and Corin, and two brothers, Cror and Ivor, all of Los Angeles. Carlson has no relatives here. His wife died a year ago, and he has since been making his home with her mother, Mrs. Caroline E. Gardner.

PROMOTER DESCRIBES OIL DEALS

Deuel Seeking $2,500,000 as Asserted Share in Developing Field

Admission on the witness stand by Warren E. Deuel, oil promoter, that he was working without an owner's commitment in his negotiations for the leasing of oil lands in Elwood Field near Santa Barbara and relying on his acquaintanceship with a representative of the owners of the land was made yesterday in the court of Superior Judge Yankwich.

Deuel, who is suing the Rio Grande Oil Company and others for a share of the profits derived from the land, asks $2,500,000 damages and an accounting. In his complaint he contends he had an agreement with the Rio Grande Oil Company and the Barnsdale Oil Company to exploit 1600 acres in the field, of which he was to receive 100 acres and the companies 300. Under the agreement, he maintains, profits of the balance were to be shared equally.

He further contends that the oil companies after drilling into pay sand represented that the well would never produce and probably would be abandoned, whereby he signed a release agreement for $2500, following which the well was brought in. He asks that the agreement be set aside, an accounting made and damages granted.

The case, said to be one of the most important of its kind ever tried in the State, involves land now valued at several million dollars.

Tax Advisers' Cases Deferred to September

Edward H. Hayden, income tax adviser accused of aiding in making a false and fraudulent income tax return for Raymond McKee, screen actor, pleaded not guilty yesterday in the court of United States District Judge James. His case was continued until the September calendar to be set for trial.

J. Marjorie Berger, income tax adviser accused of a similar charge, pleaded not guilty in Judge Sawtelle's court and her three cases were continued until September to be set for trial.

Raymond McKee was to have appeared for arraignment and plea, but the case was continued for a week.

Theft Suspect Has Large Sum

Accused of shoplifting, Mrs. Hildreth Wheeler, 47 years of age, of 184 West One Hundred and Eighteenth street, yesterday was booked at Central Police Station on a charge of suspicion of burglary. Search at the station disclosed $2785, including several $50 and $100 bills, in her possession. According to the police, she said she had yielded to "an irresistible impulse."

J. P. Leslie, chief detective of a downtown department store, reported that he caught Mrs. Wheeler in the act of taking four dresses of a total value of $54. He turned her over to Detective Lieutenant McCreedy and Policewoman Lulu Lane of the shoplifting detail. The policewoman searched her, discovering the money, and says the woman then confessed.

PIKE INQUIRY TO END TODAY

Indictments Possible in Bribe-Charge Case

Fitts-Smith Controversy Settled Amicably

Latter Tenders Apology to District Attorney

Final disposition of the investigation by the grand jury of the asserted frame-up of Milton Pike by Harold L. Davis, former chief deputy District Attorney, is scheduled when the inquiry body meets this morning.

When the grand jury recessed for the four-day holiday, after exonerating Pike of all charges of bribery in connection with the offering of false testimony and declared the entire matter a frame-up, it was announced that further deliberation would be taken on the case and that further official findings might ensue.

Return of two or more indictments growing out of the investigation is seen in the statement of Foreman De Garmo, who said that some legal points are under discussion on certain information that has been uncovered by the testimony submitted and that he expects these matters cleared up by today so that the jury can make its findings.

No additional witnesses on the case are expected to testify and the close of the case as far as the grand jury is concerned is anticipated today, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hammon, in charge of the investigation.

ROW PATCHED UP

An amicable settlement of the controversy between Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Ben Smith, official court reporter for the grand jury, growing out of Smith's refusal to turn over to the District Attorney his notes and statements taken during the Pike arrest, appeared certain. Fitts demanded that Smith be relieved permanently of grand jury duties. The jury temporarily removed Smith during the Davis-Pike investigation and the close of this phase of the case is set for today's session.

Smith has tendered an apology to the District Attorney for his actions and coupled his remarks with a statement that he was wrong in his position. He assured Fitts that he regrets the entire matter but had acted under what he believed to be his rights in the case.

The Smith apology will be given to the grand jury today with a full explanation of the controversy and it is indicated that the demands of the District Attorney will be withdrawn and the ban removed with the completion of the Davis-Pike investigation.

Pike was arrested in a downtown hotel at the request of Davis, who filed a complaint with Municipal Judge Ballard charging acceptance of $320 in marked money in return for testimony. Pike, one of the witnesses in the Keyes and others bribery conspiracy trial, was under subpoena as a witness against Davis in his present hearing. While Pike remained in the County Jail, under a bond of $15,000, the grand jury investigated the charges and declared him not guilty and requested his release.

ANOTHER INQUIRY

The grand jury also is expected to open an investigation into the sale of stock in the National Land Value Guaranty Company by Los Angeles representatives. It is charged that large sums of money were obtained from Los Angeles investors without first obtaining a sale permit from the State Corporation Commissioner.

The concern, incorporated under the laws of Nevada, was organized for the service of real-estate investors guaranteeing clients against a possible decline in the value of property purchased.

A continuance of the investigation into a series of "mistake" cremations at the General Hospital against the wishes of friends and relatives also will be undertaken, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hammon.

Officials at Lunch to Plan State's Fair

Gov. Young, Director of Finance Heron and State Agricultural Society directors will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon tomorrow in the Alexandria.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the people of Southern California with the full importance of this year's California State Fair. In honor of the fair's seventy-fifth anniversary a Western States Exposition has been developed.

Governors of virtually all of the eleven western States have promised to attend, as well as sending exhibits.

YOUNG FOSTER GUILTY OF RECKLESS DRIVING

Douglas Foster, Jr., 421 South Bixel street, son of the former Councilman, was found guilty of reckless driving by Traffic Judge Northrup yesterday. He will be sentenced tomorrow. Police Officers Kritser and Moyer testified that Foster, who is 21 years of age, nearly drove into a crowd that had collected at the scene of a traffic accident at Wilshire Boulevard and Irolo street. The youth's car, traveling at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour, hit one driven by Charlotte Wildrung of 1217 North Citrus street in the rear without causing serious damage, they declared. The former Councilman appeared as a witness for his son, declaring that he is a careful driver.

ORDINANCE WITHDRAWN

On motion of Councilman Webster, the Council yesterday withdrew from the Mayor's desk the ordinance rezoning Beverly Boulevard, between Norton avenue and Wilton Place, from A Zone to B Zone. Mr. Webster explained that an error in the description of the property invalidated the project.

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

ESSENTIALS

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

At a certain summer camp where fifteen tiny children grow brown and gay and hearty throughout the summer months, the environment is purposely limited to the scale of the child's world.

Each youngster has his little bed, a shelf for his clothing, a hook for his toothbrush, a rack for his towel. He has his own little table, his own little chair. There is a great playroom for rainy days.

Along the walls are toys and shelves and tools, but the floor is vast and blessedly bare. That is all—except for the whole bright countryside which belongs to them. Three meals a day and bedtime, punctually observed, are the only demands which the adult world makes upon them.

You have but to look upon these children to know that they have come into their own.

All through the winter months we must live in complicated households which meet the complicated needs of busy people in a busy world. But summer is for us all the golden opportunity of the year to get down to the essentials of really living with our children.

Even if you are not going away you can pare down the mechanics of your household to barest essentials. Simplify your housekeeping, swallow your domestic pride and live with bare floors and little furniture. Put away your hangings and all of those decorations which make so much work for you and, as far as the children are concerned, only clutter up the landscape. Serve such meals as require only the minimum of labor and planning.

Decide, this summer, to cultivate the season and give it its due. Keep yourself free from social claims, schedules, and appointments. Take the children for whole days under the sky.

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb-sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

MOTHERS AFRAID TO APPLY PSYCHOLOGICAL SUGGESTIONS

Mrs. M. P. H. writes: "I appreciate your personal answer to my letter. You seem to be one of those persons who is never too busy to give a word of advice or praise where you think it will help.

"On the subject of feeding babies, I am wondering if you feel as I do that it isn't always a matter of patience? My children have to be prevented from eating and overstuffing by keeping a tempting dessert in sight. However, I know of a case where the difficulty was purely because of the mother's anxiety that the child wouldn't eat. I saw this mother feed the baby more than once. The food was attractive and well cooked. There are a variety, and not too much at a time to make the amount seem discouraging; in fact, there was no fault in her method of feeding. This baby's mother did not force the food, but would offer it and if the child refused, would take it away and then try again next time. But I believe her fear that he would not eat had something to do with his refusal. I know enough about animals to know how quickly our feelings are betrayed through our bodily tension. On days when I was thoughtful my saddle horse would walk along quietly. On days when I felt joyous and free and wanted to feel the wind against my face, he would gallop and run and shy at a shadow. I believe that her thoughts as displayed by her muscular tension had something to do with his not eating. She should have understood this natural tendency and not worried so. If this mother had read the articles on eating in 'Child Guidance' by Blanton and Blanton, she would have understood this."

Answer: I wonder if she would. She might have understood, but would she have used the advice? The psychological aspects of the appetiteless child are no longer mysteries to the mother. She knows she is doomed to failure if she shows an emotional response toward the child's lack of appetite. She knows he should not be teased, scolded, pleaded with, rewarded by songs or stories, spanked or overpraised for noneating or eating. She should accept his attitude as if it were only a temporary thing which will quickly end. Did I say she knows this? She should. It is the advice given to all mothers of appetiteless children when this lack of appetite is clearly the result of the knowledge on the child's part that refusal to eat is upsetting to the mother. When it is due to overeating, to previous illness, to physical conditions which need remedying, it is still just as valuable a method of procedure while things are being righted.

The failure of any method is not because of the wrongness of the method, but the mother's inability to apply it. She knows that she is encouraging the child to continue finicky when she lays such stress upon eating, but it is more natural to fuss, to bewail his poor appetite, to be tense and disappointed, than it is to be indifferent.

Chafed Skin

Fuller's earth is splendid for chafing, caused by perspiring during the extremely hot weather. Wash the chafed portions and dry just a little. Dust the fuller's earth on the dampened surface and rub in carefully. If this is done before retiring there will be no trace of irritation in the morning.

HOW TO USE POULTICES

Poultices are valuable home remedies to be used whenever one desires to bring about a more rapid discharge of pus from an inflammatory infection. They are valuable in bringing boils and carbuncles to a head, and in bringing about a discharge of small splinters or thorns, and in serving to prevent blood poisoning from puncture wounds by dusty septic objects.

Through the use of the poultice, one has an easily applied method of securing continued heat and moisture to a part. The heat causes a dilation of the capillaries and a greater supply of blood and in this way strengthens the defenses of the body. The moisture softens the skin structures and helps to dilute toxins. The discharge tends to work outward through the action of the heat.

Many different substances may be used for the preparation of poultices, the most commonly used poultices being made from cornmeal, flaxseed, potatoes, bread and hops, but practically any substance of a mushy nature may be used if these are not available. Leaves may be boiled and applied hot. Mud may be boiled and used, rice, etc., the efficacy being not so much in any substance contained in the poultice material as in the effect of the heat and moisture. The consistency should be quite soft but not enough to run.

The usual way of making a poultice is to spread out a piece of old muslin or cheese cloth. The area of the muslin should be nine times as big as the finished poultice, and the hot mush should be poured in the center of the muslin, which is then folded over from each side so that the two overlapping edges are on top. The poultice may then be tied upon the part with the free ends or with another piece of muslin, allowing the mushy substance to come as close to the affected area as possible.

Poultices should be applied just as hot as can be borne. If the poultice becomes cold, it may be removed and dipped into boiling water for a minute or two and then reapplied. To keep the poultice warm, it should be covered with oiled silk or waxed paper, and over this a heavy folded towel or piece of woolen material.

Poultices may be left on all night and, if the patient falls asleep until morning, the moisture continues to be valuable even after they have become cold.

A properly prepared poultice will not stick to the skin when it is removed. After removal, the skin should be washed with warm water and the pus or splinter can be squeezed out. If the pus has not come to a head the poultice should be renewed. Applied in time, poultices will often prevent serious complications.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cereals With Fruit

Question: Mrs. H. G. K. asks: "Are cereals with sliced fresh fruit a good combination?"

Answer. Cereals should never be combined with acid fruits. However, a glass of orange juice taken about an hour before a cereal breakfast is all right, as this fruit juice leaves the stomach almost entirely within that time.

Always Clearing Throat

Q.: Mrs. K. B. writes: "I have to clear by throat real often, although I don't bring up any phlegm. It doesn't seem to be a habit. Could you tell me what causes this?"

A.: Such symptoms are often bronchitis. Any irritation in the lungs may create the desire to cough, even when there is nothing to cough up. If the cause of the irritation is not removed, there may finally develop enough degeneration so that phlegm and pus will gather in quantities large enough to be coughed up. Every tickling cough, without phlegm, should be carefully considered and the cause removed.

The "Bland Diet"

Q.: A. E. R. writes: "I get much from your articles in the paper, but I seem to be troubled with constipation, and someone has suggested I try the 'Bland Diet,' as roughage seems to irritate. I want to know what you think of this diet."

A.: I know what you mean by a "Bland Diet," but I do not recommend it. Rather, I advise you to take plenty of exercise, eat a large amount of cooked and raw greens, and take an enema daily, if necessary, until your bowels move naturally. Drink only a moderate amount of water, and that between meals, and not at mealtime.

Diabetes

Q.: J. R. asks: "What remedy do you recommend as being correct for the treatment of diabetes?"

A.: I do not recommend any "remedy" for diabetes outside of living on a carefully planned diet. Stop using starches and sugars, and write me a personal letter, giving me your name and address so I can send you more information on this subject.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Little Helps

Old-fashioned rickrack will add an attractive finish to the neck, sleeves and pockets of the bungalow apron.

If your home is equipped with casement windows oil the hinges occasionally. This helps to prevent their rusting.

Boil a few potato peelings with a little water for a few minutes in the new frying pan. Food cooked afterward in the pan will not be so apt to stick.

Try giving weak cocoa to the child who is not fond of milk, yet should have it for strengthening purposes. It may be served cold during the warm weather.

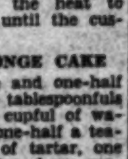
Summer Furs

If you are one of the vast army who wear furs in the summer time, don't forget they soil very quickly in warm weather and the neckband should be cleaned with a piece of flannel moistened with petrol every so often.

Elastic in Place of Ribbon

If you are annoyed with shoulder straps on your underwear that continually slip off your shoulders, try using the ribbon-trimmed elastic instead of the ribbon straps. They will keep in place nicely, yet give when the arm is raised.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES



Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

SOUR CREAM PRUNE PIE

Two cupfuls of pruns, the yolks of four eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of sour cream, one-half a cupful of sugar, the grated rind of one orange, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, wash the prunes and soak them in warm water for three hours, drain thoroughly, remove the pits and chop, having two cupfuls of the prune pulp after chopping, beat the yolks of the eggs, add the sour cream, sugar, salt, nutmeg, cinnamon and orange rind, combine with the prunes, line a pie plate with rich pastry, pour in the mixture and bake for ten minutes in a hot oven, reduce the heat and bake until the custard has set. Cover with a meringue, return to the oven and brown.

ITALIAN COOKED FISH

Two pounds of fish, two teaspoonfuls of salt, seasoning of paprika, one medium-sized onion, two tablespoonfuls of oil, one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one egg, cut the fish in fillets, for individual service, place in a deep saucepan, add the chopped onion, oil and boiling water, cover closely and simmer until the fish is tender, add the seasoning, remove the fish to a hot platter, sprinkle with the chopped parsley, make a sauce of the fish stock, add the lemon juice, and gradually pour over the well-beaten eggs.

ITALIAN SQUASH PIE

Two cupfuls of cooked Italian squash, three eggs, one-half a cupful of milk, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, two tablespoonfuls of butter, line a pie dish with a rich pastry, press the squash through a sieve, add the sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and the slightly beaten eggs, add the butter melted and mix well. Add the milk and mix again, turn into the pastry-lined dish, place in a hot oven for ten minutes, reduce the heat to moderate and bake until the custard is set.

CHOCOLATE SPONGE CAKE

Six egg yolks, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of cocoa, one-half a cupful of water, six egg whites, one-half a teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of vanilla, and one cupful of flour, beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, place the sugar and water and cocoa in a saucepan and cook until the soft ball stage is formed, cool slightly, and add in a steady fine stream to the egg whites which have been stiffly beaten with the cream of tartar, add the vanilla, egg yolks and flour, that has been sifted three times, folding the flour in, bake in an unoiled tube pan for ten minutes in a moderate oven, then reduce the heat and finish the baking, about forty minutes.

Vacation School Roster Heavy

Vacation schools opened yesterday with an enrollment of approximately 30,000 students in the elementary and junior and senior high schools. It is expected this figure will reach 36,000 by the close of the week.

While not all the schools are holding summer sessions, the enrollment is considered high for the first day. Classes are being conducted in ninety-six elementary and in thirty-six junior and senior high schools. Many of the students are making up studies in which they failed in the spring term and others are raising their grades for the coming year.

Aiding in Music Season's Success

MAX PANTELEIEFF + EUGENE GOOSSENS + BRUNO WALTER
ALFREDO SAN MALO + RAYMOND BRITE + BERNARDINO MOLINARI

Prominent Figures at Hollywood Bowl

BOWL WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Eighth Season's First Concert Will Be Offered Under Direction of Bernardino Molinari

With the Italian conductor, Bernardino Molinari, leading the 100-piece orchestra, the first of this season's symphonies under the stars will be given tonight in the Hollywood Bowl. The opening is especially significant in that it will reveal for the first time to the many thousands of music-lovers the new steel shell which hereafter will serve as the setting for the orchestra.

The huge glistening concavity will be disclosed when an immense fan-like curtain, covering a semicircular expanse eighty-eight feet in width and forty-four in height, parts in the center and folds away like a gigantic split fan.

TYPICAL PROGRAM

Almost at the same moment the pizzicato of violin strings will signify that the eighth season is on. Inaugurated simply and modestly with the Corelli suite so congenial to violinistic interpretation, the program will close with the Respighi symphonic poem, "Pines of Rome."

The initial week of eight, each of which will be marked by four concerts, will offer two soloists instead of the customary single added attraction.

The program tonight is typical of the eight to be conducted by Molinari—on Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this and next week.

The opening night also will be distinguished by the Pacific Coast premiere of Giuseppe Mule's new Sicilian suite in two parts, one of which contains a vocal passage to be sung by Mme. Molinari, wife of the conductor.

SAN-MALO TO PLAY

Alfredo San-Malo, first Panaman artist to win European honors, will make his bow to a western audience Thursday night, the first soloist of the season. The event, aside from its musical importance, has social and diplomatic significance, as the young Latin American violinist is a scion of one of the first families of Panama City and a counselor of the Panama Legation at Rome. He will play Lalo's colorful Spanish serenade.

Max Panteleieff, Russian baritone, on the following night will double the usual weekly quota of soloists, singing two "Prince Igor" arias and may have Signor Molinari himself as piano accompanist for one of his encores.

Another feature of the Friday program will be the rendition of Respighi's compilation and orchestration of seventeenth century airs originally played on the lute.

OPERA FEATURE

The season of symphonies under the stars opening tonight is to introduce for the first time a series of complete nights devoted to the score of a popular grand opera, with the leading arias to be sung by operatic headliners and the orchestra supplying instrumental highlights of the score. Elsa Alsen, Paul Althouse, Alice Gentle and Alexander Kisselburgh, Angeleno who has won meteoric success in concert and oratorio in the East, are among the principals engaged for these concertized versions. The operas thus to be created are "Carmen," the 26th inst.; "Walkuere," August 2, and "Tannhauser," August 16.

The coming of Fokine as a Bowl attraction is creating much attention. Fokine a quarter of a century ago rebelled against French and Italian domination of the imperial ballet school at Petrograd and set out to produce independently and originated that picturesque fusion of interpretative dancing to special scores, with gorgeous costuming and impressionistic sets which since has dazzled the capitals of the world and presented to the public such notable figures as Pavlowa, Mordkin, Nijinski, Karsavina, Bolm, Vera Fokina, the ballet master's wife, and others. He is in Los Angeles now to teach a master class of graduate students of the dance, whom he will utilize in staging a program of divertissements of his own creation August 9 and the bacchanale for the concert version of "Tannhauser" August 16.

DETECTIVE APPEALS FINE CASE

Lieut. O'Connor Carries Agua Calienta Matter to Police Commission

Fined $250 pay for asserted "inefficiency and neglect" in connection with the search in Los Angeles for a member of the gang which committed the Agua Caliente hold-up over a month ago, Detective Lieutenant M. C. O'Connor has appealed to the Police Commission for a hearing.

Chief Davis stated his belief that the penalty is a means of impressing on the officer's mind that in matters of serious import alertness is required at all times."

Chief of Detectives Cline reported that O'Connor, while acting captain of the night shift of the robbery and burglary squad, failed to take action on a telephone report from Officer William J. Helms as to where Lee Cochran, one of the bandit suspects, could be apprehended. Instead, according to Cline, the message was relayed to the Sheriff's office so that the Sheriff made the arrest instead of the police.

O'Connor's explanation, according to Cline, was that he had received probably a dozen calls which did not develop anything and that he did not know that the Helms call was from a police officer.

In addition to being shifted from the Central to the Georgia-street division, O'Connor is prohibited from being in charge of that division at any time.

Gyping Autoist Proves Costly

"Gyping" a motorist out of two and three-quarters gallons of the five he ordered to be put in his gasoline tank brought George W. Stillwell, employee of a downtown filling station, the option of paying a $25 fine or spending five days in jail when Municipal Judge Ambrose found him guilty of violating the Weights and Measures Law yesterday.

Stillwell was arrested by Deputies Parrish and Hoppes of the County Department of Weights and Measures after a citizen complained that he had been given short measure and volunteered to buy another "five gallons" for evidence.

NYE WILL URGE HIS RADIO PLAN

Federal Station Proposal to Get Consideration

Matter Slated for Attention of Senate Committee

New Receiving Set Exhibit on for Tomorrow

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

The committee on interstate commerce will take up the proposal of Senator Nye, North Dakota, for the establishment of a radio station to be owned and operated by the Federal government after the Senate reconvenes on August 19, next.

He will explain his plan for erecting a broadcast station in Washington to be under control of the Secretary of Commerce for the dissemination of information by governmental agencies and which, during political campaigns, would be available for speakers of any party without charge.

"There should be some agency left through which the government may reach the people without going through privately controlled, and possibly monopoly controlled channels," Senator Nye says.

"It would offer an avenue of appeal for minority parties that might be prevented from reaching the voters by lack of funds and would insure a more thorough presentation of political issues in campaigns."

PHILCO PREVIEW TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Following the preview of sets and the business meeting, dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Robert Herr, chief engineer, and others, will be the speakers.

HEALTH TALK FROM STATION KHJ

Dr. Frank McCoy's weekly health chat at 3:45 p.m. today over KHJ, the Don Lee station, will be given by his associate, Dr. Fred Reinhold, with the subject of "Nervous-Mental Disorders." He will discuss the different causes of nervousness, neurasthenia, hysteria and dementia praecox.

POPULAR PAIR GIVEN NEW STORY

Theda Bara Returning to Profession Via Vaudeville; Doris Hill Has Ingenue Lead in Lasky Talker; Colleen Moore Leaves First National

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It would be too bad if Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell were not at least good friends—which, I hasten to assure you, they are—because it looks as though Fox were going to team them together in talking pictures for some time to come.

They are deep in their current costarring feature, and their next, we understand, will be a story called "Playmates."

Both of these pictures are to be lavishly produced, and both are to be exhibited as road shows.

THEDA BARBA TO COME BACK IN VAUDEVILLE

THEDA BARA

Theda Bara is much too brilliant a woman to be allowed to completely bury her talents. Despite her professional reverses and even her retirement after marriage, someone is always saying to me, "There was never anyone exactly like Theda Bara. Where is she?"

Now we have the pleasure of announcing that the champion vamp is going back into the profession, this time in vaudeville.

Miss Bara has secured a dramatic sketch for her use, dealing with a Russian heroine, the character she will portray. She is now assembling her cast.

The actress has already been signed for the Radio-Keith-Orpheum time.

Doris Hill's Ingenue Lead

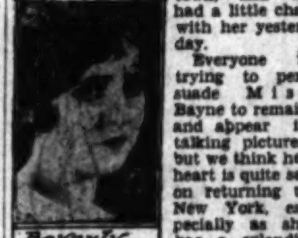
DORIS HILL

After all, Doris Hill and not Jean Arthur is to take the ingenue lead in that shivery mystery melodrama, "Darkened Rooms," which is to be Evelyn Brent's next starring vehicle for Paramount.

Paramount officials had Miss Hill in mind for the role, but she had been loaned to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for a leading part in Jack Gilbert's picture. The role is an important one, and Jean Arthur was assigned the part, although no less than two directors were clamoring for her services. But Doris Hill finished in time to take the "Darkened Rooms" role, and so Jean Arthur is free to portray the leading part in one of the other pictures.

David Newell is to have the juvenile lead opposite Miss Hill, while, as heretofore announced, Neil Hamilton will be the hero in Miss Brent's picture.

Beverly Bayne is Here



Beverly Bayne

Beverly Bayne, who used to be one of your favorite picture heroines, you remember, is back in town, and we had a little chat with her yesterday.

Everyone is trying to persuade Miss Bayne to remain and appear in talking pictures, but we think her heart is quite set on returning to New York, especially as she has a splendid new play which she will appear in next season on Broadway, under the management of Hunter Williams.

The new play is titled "Escapade," and was written by Lawrence Eyre, a young playwright of the East who has several dramas to his credit. In the piece Miss Bayne will have the role of a Viennese opera singer, and as she has spent several years in the cultivation of her voice, she will not use a double for the singing numbers, but will give them herself. Rehearsals begin in August, and until then Miss Bayne will remain in the West.

Mr. Eyre, by the way, is also author of another play in which Chrystal Herne is to appear.

Lawrence Tibbets to Europe

You'd better listen to Lawrence Tibbets sing while you have the chance. He will, of course, leave his singing celluloid double with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but will take his real self, along with Mrs. Tibbets and the twins, to Europe next year and then one wonders if Europe won't keep him for a long while.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is having a hard time finding the grand-opera singer just the right vehicle. He, himself, would like to appear in "The Beggar's Opera," that classic of light opera, but M.-G.-M. officials don't think, apparently, that it has just the right vogue and quality for Tibbets.

Colleen Moore Leaves

COLLEEN MOORE

With the filming and recording of final scenes for "Footlights and Fools" yesterday, Colleen Moore terminated an affiliation with First National Pictures extending over the past six years.

Miss Moore has been working continuously since the middle of March, and will take a vacation until September before turning her attention to picture production.

According to John McCormick, her husband and the producer of the star's pictures, negotiations are now carried on with several companies, and an announcement will be made shortly as to Miss Moore's future affiliations.

Warners to Make Revue

It never would do, of course, for the Warners to be left out of the revue-producing end of the talking-picture business.

Evidently they think so themselves, for they are shortly to make a huge revue called "The Show of Shows," in which every star on the Warner pay roll, including Monte Blue, Dolores Costello and even Al Jolson, will appear.

Such a mammoth affair is the revue to be that four directors, we hear, are to have a hand in its production. Alan Crosland, Michael Curtiz, Roy Del Ruth and Lloyd Bacon are the four in question.

Frank Dazey to New York

Frank Dazey and his wife, Agnes Christine Johnston, are leaving shortly for New York, where a new play by Dazey is to be produced.

The author, who, you remember, made something of a sensation with his play, "Peter Weston," in which the late Frank Keenan starred, has not named his play as yet, but he assures us that it is a comedy drama, and that it will be modern.

TIME UP ON DATA FOR BUDGETING

County Officials' Reports Must be in Supervisors' Hands Tomorrow

All reports by county officials on which the 1929-30 budget is to be based must be in the hands of the Board of Supervisors by tomorrow, according to a notice sent out by Deputy County Counsel Kenny, at the request of County Counsel Mattoon.

After considering these reports, the county auditor must tabulate them, and submit them to the supervisors not later than the 20th inst. After this report is submitted the board has until August 20 to prepare the budget for the ensuing fiscal year.

Meanwhile, on or before August 20, the Supervisors must hold public hearings on the auditor's report, and, during this period taxpayers have the right to appear and protest any item, or ask for any increase in any item, for a specific purpose.

After the budget is adopted, Deputy Kenny pointed out, the Supervisors may not exceed the budgeted amount for any purpose except in a case of emergency.

LOS ANGELES AT PEAK OF WATER USE

Van Norman Declares City in Need of More Storage Reservoirs

Los Angeles is entering the peak period of water consumption and the Department of Water and Power is faced with the responsibility of delivering 225,000,000 gallons of water a day, it was stated yesterday by H. A. Van Norman, general manager.

In the height of the summer season the 1,300,000 residents of Los Angeles will consume an average of 172 gallons a day per person, Mr. Van Norman said. This is the heaviest drain of the year.

Since twice the amount of water is used in summer than in winter, the necessity of providing large storage reservoirs in close proximity to the points of consumption is evident, Mr. Van Norman said. At present there are twenty-eight reservoirs and nineteen tanks in and near Los Angeles, but the need for added storage is imperative.

Council Delays Clerk Pay Vote

The ordinance increasing the salary of the fifteen Council secretaries from $150 to $175 per month was submitted to the Council yesterday but failed of immediate adoption because Councilman Webster voted alone against suspension of the rules.

The ordinance will come up again next week, when a two-thirds vote is required for passage. Councilmen McAllister and Martin by their opposition prevented the immediate adoption of an ordinance increasing the salary of the police department's master printer from $250 to $275 per month.

HELEN MENKEN PROVES POWERS

"Top o' the Hill" Yields Her Effective Opportunity

William Boyd Shows Rare Skill in Portrayal

Premiere of Kenyon Plays Draws Gala Audience

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

A new play and a notable cast! First nighters went forth to welcome them with enthusiasm last evening at the Mayan Theater. The premiere of "Top o' the Hill" was in all outward manifestations a gala event of the year.

Helen Menken and William Boyd headed the company presenting the new piece by Charles A. Kenyon. It was "the first performance on any stage." It was the sort of event that will be coming with greater and greater frequency in the next few years, and as a precursor of such bright happenings was the reason for special anticipations and an exceptional thrill.

The glow was apparent long before the play started in the crowded conversational lobby of the theater; it reached its peak with a sensational demonstration following the end of the second act, the net results of which were that Miss Menken made a speech; that Felix Young, producer, and Lowell Sherman, stage director, in addition to the members of the cast, took a bow, and that the modest author could as usual not be found.

Altogether, it might be said that the initial giving of "Top O' the Hill" marked a sort of turning point in theatrical history here. And it may well be added that it brought a thoroughly fascinating interpretation of an exceedingly difficult role by Miss Menken, and some remarkably forceful acting by Mr. Boyd. These, it may also be appended, were the primary facets of interest, and unusually worth while.

After all, though, it is the play—and so let's to it. Mr. Kenyon, the author, is well remembered in the theater for his "Kindling." It was one of the best plays of its time. Indeed, as one other playwright remarked last evening, it made a history of that time in being one of the earlier American dramas of quality.

To "Top O' the Hill" Mr. Kenyon has brought a smooth and intelligent craftsmanship, and an evident knowledge of the theater in his treatment of his subject for its dramatic and psychological values. He has built up to a stunning peak in his second act, and provided especially ideal scope for Miss Menken in her portrayal. The play was not actually written for her, but wraith-like and spectral as she is on the stage she has made the role that she plays exquisitely captivating. It is a far better portrayal than she gave a few years ago in "Seventh Heaven."

I say that the climax of the second act was stunning. And it is. It won the audience, and dissipated some of the skepticism that they might have felt over the first. But unfortunately the third act succeeded in being merely a weak epilogue.

"Top O' the Hill," I fear, deals vainly with the idea that a rich motion-picture actress with a past can arouse sympathy for meeting that past again after she has achieved success. The idea is intriguing, of course, but the tragedy is much more apparent than real.

One doubts the situation that finds Gerba Carhart, former lady of easy virtue, encountering the man whom she once called lover and going at his behest to the roseate rendezvous of their past amours, there to tell the young boy that she plans to marry of her sordid life in other days.

The entire play hinges on this disclosure and on the fact that the heroine subsequently finds out that the young man is merely intending to wed her for her money. It is a reasonable enough assumption that she would refuse to marry him under these circumstances, perhaps, but somehow it is not a sufficiently shocking revelation after the story she herself has divulged. The ending of the play is for this reason weak. And what is more, there is scarcely any surprise to its revelations as they are already suspected or known.

"Top o' the Hill" deals in very serious values, and the first act would gain greatly by contrasting comedy elements. The audience would be held better by a lighter entrance into the main dramatic theme, which is Miss Gerba Carhart's coming out from behind the mask that she wears as a successful cinema Thespian.

Los Angeles is probably the most difficult place in the world to offer an impression of what a film actress is like, but even allowing for that, I believe that both the first and final acts of "Top o' the Hill" might well be built up and strengthened for any production that may take place elsewhere. Certainly the play provides an interesting opportunity for Miss Menken and certainly she avails herself of it most magnetically. This and a strong second act are "Top o' the Hill's" main justifications. They might be enough, but I somewhat doubt it until the play in toto has been revised.

Boyd takes an impossible—a caddish role—and makes it almost believable. His positive virility and reserve of power were wholly responsible for that.

Miss Hilda Vaughn was engaging with her emphasis on the humor of her role as the old-time friend of the heroine. More comedy lines could well be allotted to her.

Anderson Lawler and Alden Gay were others especially good. It is, however, mostly Miss Menken's play by virtue of her personal appeal in her role.

GALA EVENT PLANNED AT OCEAN PARK PIER

Fifty singing and dancing girls will sparkle in the elaborate color scheme of free entertainment planned for Elks and families at seashore day festivities on Ocean Park Pier today.

"The Two Little Sweethearts," Margie Crosby and Dorothy Baker, will be on the bill for the Elks with other individual stars giving dance specialties. The Smaroff-Trash revue will further embellish the spectacle with special routines.

Comedy Weaves Tangled Love Web

Sylvia Field
Interprets the role of Diana Wynn, a southern girl, in the fantasy of Virginia, "Love-in-a-Mist," which starts tonight at the Majestic Theater.

MENJOU TAKES NEW ROLE

A shining example of a player being given new life, new prestige and new popularity is expected by the Paramount Theater management when the theater screens "Fashions in Love," Adolphe Menjou's first talking picture, starting Thursday.

Menjou has a story superior to "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," "The King on Main Street" and others of his pictures, it is said. In addition, he exhibits a splendid voice, both singing and talking.

The story presents the actor as a typical idol of women, who is too proud to retire to the comforts of his home and wife. Women still fall in love with his musical genius and his suave methods of love making, and the egotistical musician cannot resist them.

The picture was adapted from Herman Bahr's play, "The Concert." Victor Schertzinger directed and Fay Compton, John Miljan and Miriam Seegar are in the supporting cast.

MASON PLAY GIVEN NEW TREATMENT

Yiddish Art Theater Stages "Lower Depths" Minus Plot or Intrigue

BY JACOB COOPER

A marked contrast in style was effected by the Yiddish Art Theater players last night in the second of their series of dramas given at the Mason Opera House. Their opening play, "Tevya the Dairyman," moved in sequence and furnished fine humor and pulsating drama, but "The Lower Depths," by Maxim Gorky, as produced last night, had no tide of action which could carry the interest of the audience to a more or less obvious climax.

This play, unlike many of our so-called successes, deals not with plot or intrigue, but is merely a series of characterizations which build up an atmosphere revealing that stratum of life for which there is rarely hope of regeneration.

It was a brave move on the part of the Yiddish Art group to feature this play so early in its repertoire. To those unacquainted with this drama of Gorky's it would seem dull, dragging and devoid of interest. It is, perhaps, one of the hardest plays to produce properly so as to hold interest.

The action takes place in a disreputable cellar in the slums of a Russian city, which is run as a night shelter for the riff-raff and downfallen. Here comes the actor who has seen better days and who lives now only from drink to drink. Here also is a one-time baron, gone to seed but still haughtily attempting to regain glimpses of his former estate. Huddled together in this one room with thieves, card sharps and fallen women they eke out their lives which still show faint sparks of activity, interest and intrigue before they are finally extinguished in the lower depths of human society.

Gorky had created a vivid picture of the people amongst whom he had at one time lived; and Maurice Schwartz, in his presentation last night, honored the writer with faithful interpretation of his work.

This is not a play for stars—for the delineation of one or two central characters around whom the rest of the cast faintly revolve. It gives each actor an equal opportunity to contribute to building up the whole. Schwartz, who played Luka, the old pilgrim who stumbles into this cellar and exerts his Christ-like influence, did not attempt to thrust himself forward and overpower the rest of the cast by his own histrionic ability. There was distinct feeling throughout the play that each actor constantly was aware of the pulse of the thing and attempted neither to fall below nor beat higher.

The outstanding characterization was that of the Actor, as played by Isidore Cashier. His scene in the second act, in which he receives hope of redemption from Luka, was a veritable masterpiece. Lazar Freed, who enacted the Baron, carried his difficult part through without a trace of weakening. A hasty substitution was made in the part of Kastilov, the keeper of the cellar, Joseph Bleifer playing this role.

Griddle Leads to Romance in Artists' Film

Romance, comedy and drama are blended in Vilma Banky's first dialogue picture, "This is Heaven," which starts at the United Artists Theater tomorrow. The actress has her first role as a modern American girl, appearing as a "flapjack flipper" in a Fifth-avenue cafe. The young lady "flips" her way into intriguing romance as a result of her deft manipulation of the griddle. The role of Eva in "This is Heaven" gives the star an opportunity to prove herself a comedienne of note as well as a dramatic actress. James Hall plays opposite Miss Banky as the millionaire who poses as a chauffeur.

Miss Banky brings to the speaking screen a voice that is suited to the personality which won her stardom. Her trace of accent is said to be intriguing—and necessary to the plot of the picture.

VARIETY OF PLAYS OFFERED AT MART

Program of Comedy and Tragedy Runs Emotional Gamut for Patrons

BY KATHERINE T. VON BLON

If variety is the spice of life, Theater Mart this week offers good measure in five highly seasoned and delicately aromatic condiments, programmed as one-act plays.

A deftly considered little satire, suggestive of the spiritualistic peregrinations of Conan Doyle, is "Heaven According to Doyle," by John Robinson. The dialogue is clever, and there is a certain rather sardonic wittiness. Numerous quips and cues at the expense of the moving-picture actors and talkies elicited responsive merriment from the audience. As the dear old overworked grandmother whose idea of heaven was just a "place to rest," Pauline Eckhart managed a touching simplicity and a natural characterization as the "hard-boiled" angel (former lodging-house keeper) Minna Vaughn, with her acrimonious negations, was amusing, and Minna Ferry as Martha Spivens supplied a further comic touch.

"A Bed Time Story," by Wilfred Noy, with its naughty innuendo and provocatively risque situations, belied its title inasmuch as it was neither a soothing syrup nor a sleeping potion, but seemed rather an hilarious cocktail served for the delectation of night-club patrons. As the virtuous and heavily inhibited collector of antiques, Noy himself added considerably to the general gayety. It was a cleverly drawn portrayal. Pat Somerset gave a spontaneous and easy performance at the "fast-working" Lord Ashton. Katherine McGuire somehow lacked conviction and poise in her part of the girl artist. As the strongly acquisitive pocket-book vamp, Doris Mortlock was naturally intriguing.

Although "Who Is She?" by Patsy Grey Ingersoll, is concocted from the ancient triangular ingredients, it is nicely garnished with modern aphorisms in the vernacular and manner of the day. Huntly Gordon was delightful as the bon-vivant, connoisseur of femine charm extraordinaire. Grace Valentine, as the lovely lady "lobby pick-up" was subtle and effective in her delineation. Ben Hewlett as the erstwhile husband of the "pick-up" was alert in his swift-flowing repartee, and managed his lines with a dextrousness that brought a laugh for every sally.

Patsy Ingersoll was also responsible for "On a Dark Stage," a lightsome bit anent back stage happenings. A nicely turned skit, with more than a soupcon of humor, supplied by the Irish janitor, who turns out to be the great impresario himself. Bob Ingersoll gave a clever account of himself as the janitor whose ready tongue flashed with the perennial wit of the Irishman, and Sarah Rusevelt as the conniving actress dramatized herhelf with well-considered artistic impression.

"A Man Out of Bedlam," by H. P. Dawson, brought a touch of pathos, which was well realized by Patricia Craig, who portrayed a living girl who poses as her dead sister. The play somehow missed in its denouement, though the first part was admirably couched and constructed. It was not very convincing, perhaps, because Edgar Reeves, who took the part of the lover, seemed not very well up in his part. Frank Dawson as Dr. Summers gave an interesting performance.

HIGH STAKES PLAYED FOR AT WARNER

"Gamblers" Reincarnated on Vitaphone; Smoothness Noted in Telling

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

The dust that is never allowed to settle over yellowed manuscripts has been disturbed again, this time for the exhumation of "The Gamblers," by the late Charles Klein. Produced just a decade ago by the Vitagraph company as a silent picture, this property passed recently into the hands of the Warner Brothers, who gave it articulation, a director named Michael Curtiz, and finally a showing yesterday at their theater in Hollywood. It is still good drama—slightly fusty, slightly aged in the word, perhaps, but tolerable enough as one of the less strenuous summer pastimes.

Curtiz has contrived a dovetailing smoothness in retailing an essentially stagey melodrama of low methods in high finance. There is a great deal of to-do about the "gambling Emersons," who cannot help obeying that seven-eleven impulse whenever they feel it coming on, even though giving way to it involves moneys not their own. The Emersons, you see, are bankers—the Emerson Trust is capitalized at $75,000,000—and when Carvel Emerson's broker calls for more margin, his young sporting blood can do no more than respond instanter. This precipitates the plot proper, bringing in old man Emerson, sister Emerson, a man from the Attorney-General's office and his wife—an old sweetheart of Carvel—and sundry distressed directors of the bank.

All these persons are moved hither and yon with a commendable lack of stiffness, an obedient camera following them around. By its very nature, of course, the action is restricted; a drawing-room drama is a drawing-room drama; but Curtiz has seen to it that the eye suffers a minimum of tedium, with lavish and moviesque settings to background it.

The best acting in the picture is done by H. B. Warner, as the Attorney-General's man. Its finer qualities are somewhat clouded by the manner in which the character has been made to play, the spectator being left in the dark as to his mental attitude until the closing scenes, when his nobility can be measured by the extent of his sacrifice. Unquestionably, however, he dominates—always.

Next I would nominate Johnny Arthur and George Fawcett for your consideration—the former as a craven bank manager, the latter as Emerson, Sr., or more accurately, as himself. A degree of adequacy is attained by Lois Wilson and Jason Robards in other principal roles. The bank directors—a motley crew—are portrayed, I believe, by Frank Campeau, William H. Tooker and Charles Sellon, the last-named in a too-broad caricature. Pauline Garon plays the Emerson daughter.

Adaptation from the Klein opus is credited to J. Grubb Alexander, who also wrote the talk.

Dolores Costello Sets Exciting Pace in New Drama of Underworld

To the Tower Theater yesterday came Dolores Costello in "Madonna of Avenue A," a curious blend of hokum-melodrama and saccharine play on mother-daughter love.

The picture is a silent with talking sequences, with Grant Withers and Louise Dresser making up the supporting cast.

Dolores is a fragile-appearing blond, a student at a girls' seminary who is in blissful ignorance of the occupation followed by her mother, that of a proprietress of a joint gambling house and cabaret, located down on Avenue A—wherever that may be.

Some of the same lust for excitement which possesses her mother to follow such an unconventional occupation runs through the veins of Dolores. In a moment of rashness she runs off with a tall rum-runner who happens to capture her fancy. A shooting affray occurs and Dolores is captured by detectives who return her to the seminary. Expelled without delay, she returns to the city seeking her mother, to find that person in the midst of a scene of the wildest dancing and drinking in the gambling house.

Mother bows her head in shame. Dolores weeps silently. The good-looking rum runner appears, explains that he is more than ever smitten with the litle girl's charms and asks, does she not love him? "Get out!" shouts the mother. "Get out! Get out!" He does, but Dolores, ever the nomad of spirit, follows him.

They marry, and life is not easy. He cannot find an honest job. Well, eventually, mother-in-law has him "framed." When she discovers what a cruel blow she has dealt her daughter, she commits suicide so as to collect money enough on an insurance policy to pay a lawyer for defending the guiltless lad. The insurance policy has a suicide clause so no money is collected. The hard-hearted lawyer refuses to aid the case and son-in-law goes to the penitentiary. Dolores has a baby and "carries on" as a cabaret dancer—"the Madonna of Avenue A."

One night, as some gross creature is about to insult her, the husband, just out of jail, hoves in sight and protects her. Close-up: The two in one another's arms. Fade-out.

Dolores has little to do other than look appealing, fragile, sweet and innocent. Grant Withers and Louise Dresser carry the bulk of the acting with Withers doing an excellent piece of work. He is natural and convincing in a role well adapted to him. Perhaps the story is a good deal to blame, but Miss Dresser does seem to put the mother stuff on a bit too thick.

ACTRESS VACATIONS

Sally Eilers has been granted a short vacation by Pathe studio, pending the announcement of her next picture, and is spending it at Catalina. Sally declares there are as many motion-picture people enjoying the island breezes as there are left at home in Hollywood. Her latest vehicle for Pathe, "A Sailor's Holiday," is now being edited.

MESSAGE LINKS ENDS OF NATION

Elks' Airplane and Auto Fleet Delivers New York Dispatch to Mayor Porter

A purple and white airplane and four automobiles similarly decorated managed to squirm their way through Los Angeles' Elk-choked streets yesterday and deliver a message from Mayor Walker of New York to Mayor Porter.

The airplane, mounted on a truck and drawn by a tractor, attracted considerable attention before it arrived in front of the Elks' Temple, where Mayor Porter officially received the New York message.

The airplane and the purple and white automobiles comprise the fleet of cars that toured across the continent stimulating interest in the Los Angeles convention. The units of the fleet met by prearrangement outside of the city and then made their way to the Elks' Temple. Their trip across the country was a stunt arranged by the Elks' Magazine.

Edward Gibbs, Exalted Ruler of the local lodge, introduced speakers who addressed the crowd that gathered at the appearance of the purple and white fleet. In addition to Mayor Porter, Grand Exalted Ruler Hulbert and Past Grand Exalted Ruler Fanning, editor of the Elks' Magazine, spoke. The Elks' Band and chanters gave a musical program.

Death Prevents Happy Reunion of Elk Buddies

A touch of sadness entered the generally enthusiastic and happy Elks' celebration yesterday when Arthur McCaughlin, of Ballard, Wash., found his way to the Elks' medical division in the Biltmore on the verge of a breakdown because of the death of a war "buddy" he expected to meet here.

McCaughlin told Nurse Lorna Price and Police Lieutenant White the following story:

He and Clifford Bowes, 5429 Sunset Boulevard, went through the World War together. Bowes was to meet McCaughlin when the latter arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. He did not appear at the station and when McCaughlin called his home he was told that Bowes had died Saturday night at the Sylvan Lodge Hospital from a sudden stroke.

The dead man was a member of the Los Angeles Athletic Club and well known in amateur swimming circles. He will be buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery today.

Craft Owners Offer Aid in Showing Port to Visitors

With practically every yacht club and individual yacht owner offering the use of his craft to make the affair a memorable one, final details were being worked out yesterday for the water voyage of Elks about Los Angeles Harbor, Long Beach and the Channel tomorrow afternoon, starting at 1 p.m. from the California Yacht Club at Wilmington.

In order that the committee in charge will be able to have an adequate number of the craft manned, it was requested yesterday that Elks intending to make the trip sign up at registration headquarters in the Subway Terminal Building.

Veteran Elk Happy Among Old Comrades

CHARLES A BETZLER

Among members of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, who are endeavoring to extend a cordial welcome to the visiting antlered herd, none was more diligent yesterday than Charles A. Betzler of 907 Ridgeley Drive.

Mr. Betzler, who has attended twenty-five Grand Lodge sessions, including the first Elks' reunion at Detroit in 1887, is a Past Exalted Ruler of both Cleveland and Chicago. The former he represented at the first Elks' convention at Detroit in 1887, representing his Chicago lodge at the Dallas convention in 1908, and voting to hold the following year's convention here in Los Angeles.

Since becoming a resident of this city in 1914, Mr. Betzler has been active in Elkdom here, and also has entered the films. Under the nom de plume of Arliss, the veteran Elk played the part of a college dean in Clara Bow's latest picture.

All Prepared at Beach City for Beauty Parade

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, July 8.—Preparations for the bathing beauty parade to be held tomorrow afternoon on the Venice pier as the feature of "seashore day" for the Elks' convention were completed today.

Lodges from far and wide will enter their most pulchritudinous representatives, and visiting groups having no bathing beauties with them this trip will be supplied from the large stock at the seashore cities.

Exalted Ruler H. W. Brown will head the Santa Monica Bay lodge as host of the day, with open house and many entertainment features at the clubhouse in Ocean Park.

BID OPENING SET

On the recommendation of the Finance Committee, the Council yesterday set the 16th inst. as the date for opening bids on $2,200,000 of harbor bonds and $1,500,000 of St. Francis Dam bonds. Councilman Henning, from the Harbor district, explained that money is needed for immediate projects.

LADY ELKS FIND PASTURE GREEN

Wives of Visiting Members Well Entertained

Motor Tours, Dinners and Dances Provided

Biltmore Headquarters Busy Purveying Information

It may be great sport to be an Elk this week, wear a purple hat band, shout "Hello Bill" to brothers of the herd, march in parades and puff and blow over band instruments, but the wives of the Elks, who aren't expected to do any of those things, are sure that their is a much better lot in view of the plans which have been made for their convenience and entertainment.
venience and entertainment.

With Paul D. Robinson as chairman of the women's reception committee and headquarters established in a reception room at the Biltmore, just off the general offices of the Grand Lodge on the Olive street side of the hotel, no stone is being left unturned to supply information and administer to the wishes of the wives of Grand Lodge officers, the wives of delegates and the wives of all visiting Elks.

OPEN HOUSE DAILY

The women's headquarters will hold open house every day during the convention and each day a subchairman of the reception committee and a staff of aides will be on hand to greet the visitors and serve them with punch and coffee. Yesterday Mrs. Charles J. O'Hara was in charge and she said that the visiting women poured in in a steady stream all day and she and her assistants were kept busy arranging for motor tours, answering questions and generally extending a welcoming hand.

Those assisting Mrs. O'Hara were Mrs. Casey Brain, Mrs. Charles Burr, Mrs. G. L. Armstrong, Mrs. M. A. Vargo, Mrs. Harriet English, Mrs. M. C. Mohen, Mrs. Perry Rudolph, Mrs. Margaret F. Slusher, Mrs. Robert L. Casey, Mrs. Joseph G. Lukomski and Silas Masters.

MRS. HULBERT HAPPY

Mrs. Murray Hulbert, wife of the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, was comfortably settled in her suite at the hotel yesterday and looking forward to a gala week. She has been attending conventions for years, she said, and she loves them for she sees so many old friends from conventions past that it is just like a great reunion. She expects to take part in all of the events which are scheduled for the women and even though she comes from New York, she also will find time to tour about our shops, for, she thinks they are very fine ones. With Mr. and Mrs. Hulbert are Miss Jean Hulbert, their daughter, and Miss Carrie Harper of Lynchburg, Va., daughter of a past Grand Exalted Ruler.

PLENTY OF SHOCK

Both Mrs. Hulbert and Mrs. John G. Price, wife of a past Grand Exalted Ruler, echoed the emphatic hope expressed by numerous other visitors, that if the slight earth shock which caused a ripple of excitement in Los Angeles yesterday morning was staged for their benefit and edification we should withhold any further demonstrations of a similar nature until after their departure. Or, in other words, they didn't care for our earthquake one bit.

Today about seventy wives of Grand Lodge officers will be luncheon guests at the home of Mrs. Jack Doyle in Santa Monica. On Sunday the same women were guests at a garden party given by Mrs. Margaret Slusher in Alhambra. Plans for the wives of visiting Elks today include everything from automobile tours leaving the Elks' Temple at 9 a.m. to open house at the Santa Monica Bay Women's Club and a grand ball tonight at the El Patio ballroom. Mrs. Clayton Warde will be the hostess for the day at the Biltmore headquarters.

OFFICIAL 'HELLO' HEARD BY HERD

berton Andrews of Atlanta, Ga., to succeed Murray Hulbert practically has been conceded. Andrews began the practice of law in Atlanta in 1891 and has been a national figure in politics. He served two terms in the Georgia State Assembly and was appointed in 1913 by President Wilson as Commissioner-General to the Balkan States in the interest of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. His career as an Elk started in 1904 and he since has served as Exalted Ruler of his home lodge and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler for Georgia, North. He reorganized the Georgia State Elks' Association and was made its president.

OTHER CANDIDATES

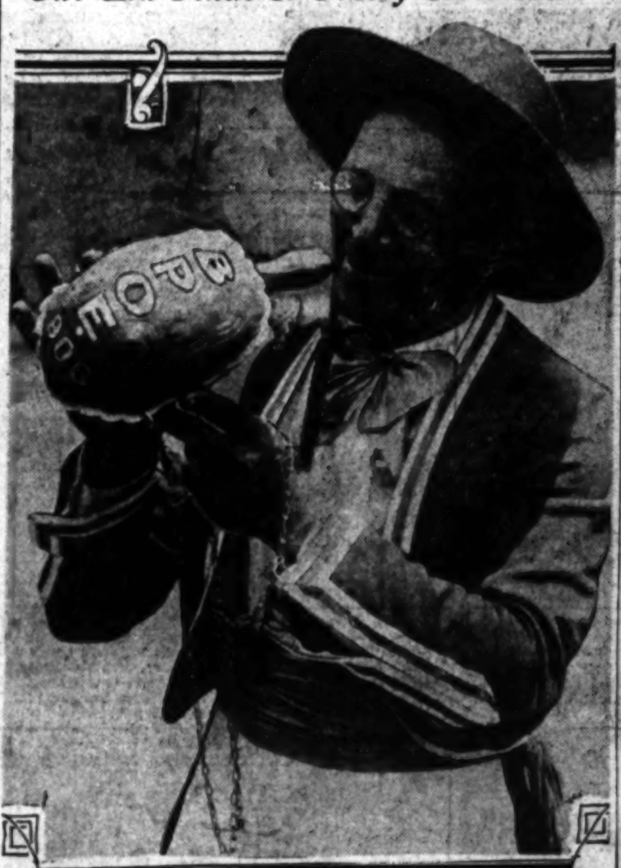
Other candidates whose election is expected include Lloyd Maxwell of Chicago, a life member of the Marshalltown (Iowa) Lodge. He is a candidate for Grand Treasurer. He served two years as Esteemed Leading Knight and was elected Exalted Ruler for two terms. He was elected Grand Esteemed Lecturing Knight in 1912 and Grand Esteemed Leading Knight in 1914, and served in many other outstanding capacities in the lodge.

A. Charles Steward of Frostburg, Md., is the leading candidate for the office of Grand Trustee. He has served as District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler for Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, and as a member of the Grand Lodge State Association Committee in 1926-27.

J. Edgar Masters of Charleroi, Pa., is expected to be re-elected Grand Secretary. He also has a long record in official capacities both in his own home lodge and in the Grand Lodge. In his home county of Washington he serve as County Treasurer and formerly was president of the Southwestern Pennsylvania State Normal School Board.

Elections for Grand Lodge officers are held by the Elks each year. No local men, as far as could be learned last night, are among the candidates.

One Elk Finds It Pretty Slow Here



Just Bring on That Hare for a Race!

L. T. Szymanski of Santa Monica carried "Hello Bill," pet turtle mascot of B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 906, through the streets yesterday. "Slow going," says Bill.

ZOUAVES TO RESUME DRILLS

Crack Athletic Team to Perform Before Temple; City Hall Lawn Fracas Smoothed

Zouave troopers from Jackson, Mich., renewed their attack on the Arabian walls of Los Angeles last night and peace reigned once more in the offices of the City Park Department and in the hearts of Elk officialdom. The situation created when the Jackson drill team, making use of the lawn of the City Hall grounds found after their first drill Saturday that their apparatus had been taken down and ordered elsewhere, has been smoothed over and exhibitions were resumed last evening in front of the Elks' Temple at Sixth and South Park View streets.

Capt. William Sparks, leader of the Zouaves and a wealthy radio manufacturer, said yesterday the drill stand had been erected on the City Hall lawn with the approval of the custodian of the building and that when the city authorities decided to move it some damage had been done the structure.

"However," Capt. Sparks said, "we will hold our drills on the pavement in front of the Elks' Temple every evening during the convention, and I hope it will give a little pleasure to the people of this city."

The twenty members of the Jackson Zouaves make up one of the most famous drill teams of Elks. In addition to their membership in the fraternal order they are members of the American Legion and, during the Paris convention of 1917, were the guests of various military societies in the capitals of all the Allies in Europe.

ELKS TODAY GIVE DRILL EXHIBITIONS

Competitions for Prizes Will be Held at Coliseum This Forenoon

No admission will be charged and school children are especially invited to attend the National Elks' drill contest at 10 a.m. today in the Coliseum.

Among the organizations competing will be drill teams that have won national distinction, and their best efforts will be put forth to win the honor of having the best team, as well as to collect sizeable cash prizes.

Among the groups that will be seen in action are the Detroit Zouaves, the Seattle Honor Guard, the Jackson (Mich.) Zouaves, the Buffalo Elks, the Purple Patrol of Huntington Park, the Pasadena Crown Patrol, the Oakland White Oaks, the Portland Zouaves, Sacramento Elks and San Francisco Lodge, No. 3.

While the drill teams are performing in the Coliseum, another free exhibition will take place in Westlake Park, where four bands will compete for national honors among the Elks' musical organization. Bands from Pasadena, Santa Monica, Seattle and Stockton will be heard.

Salazar Balm Suit Ruling Due

Superior Judge Elliot Craig, presiding, will decide today whether to permit the $180,000 damage suit of Dolores Salazar to go to trial on depositions of the defendant, Ferdinance Pinney Earle, or whether to enter a judgment for the plaintiff by default.

Miss Salazar asserts that Earle deceived her under promise of marriage. The defendant is in Paris in pursuit of his vocation as an artist.

LEROY COLE BISHOP'S BURIAL TO BE TODAY

Funeral services will be conducted at the Dellenbaugh Chapel, 630 Venice Boulevard, at 10 a.m. today for Leroy Cole Bishop, who died Saturday at his home in Puente. PAGEANT PLANS NOW REVEALED

Thursday Coliseum Program to be Impressive

Nature to Smile and Frown at Man's Behest

Thousand-Piece Band Will Crash Elk Finale

Plans for an impressive finale presentation of the enlarged and improved $1,000,000 motion-picture electrical pageant in the Coliseum Thursday night were announced last night by Jack L. Warner. The plans, kept secret by the motion-picture industry for the past month, were revealed last night following a successful rehearsal of several details of the finale.

At the conclusion of the pageant of illuminated floats there will be a 1000-piece band seated in the middle of the field, a rose garden of twenty arbors of illuminated roses "planted" at one end of the arena, and an orchard of 100 illuminated orange trees at the other end of the arena.

STORM TO BREAK

At a command every light in the Coliseum will be turned out, a fleet of storm machines from motion-picture studios will create all of the effects of a terrific storm and as the storm abates the massed band of 1000 pieces will strike up "The Star-Spangled Banner."

When this selection is ended a huge gong will sound eleven strokes, each stroke illuminating the dial on an enormous clock in the center of the field. At the stroke of eleven Conrad Nagel will give the Elks' 11 o'clock toast. A brilliantly illuminated Elks' head will appear in the clock and the band will play "Auld Lang Syne."

THURSDAY PROGRAM

The pageant will start promptly at 8:30 p.m. Thursday. It will follow a polo game between the Uplifters' team and the Buccaneers. Every effort will be made to complete the procession a few minutes before 11 o'clock, according to Frank Riley, business manager, but the spectacle will be staged on such a large scale that the exact time of the finale may be anywhere between 10:45 and 11:15 o'clock.

Tickets admitting to the Grand Lodge dress parade in the Coliseum Thursday afternoon, to the polo game early Thursday evening, and to the $1,000,000 motion-picture electrical pageant, are still available at B. H. Dyas stores, Seventh and Olive streets and Hollywood Boulevard at Vine. This will be the last time that the pageant will be presented, it is stated by Warner.

CHARITABLE ENDEAVORS INCREASED

Elks Expend More Than $2,000,000 With Aggregate of $30,575,632.29

From 1880 to 1928, inclusive, the various Elks' lodges of the country have expended $30,575,632.29 in charitable endeavors, it was stated yesterday in a report made by Grand Secretary J. Edgar Masters.

Figures before 1880 are unavailable, the report stated, but in that year the struggling Elks' organization was able to give $4440 to those needing help. The Grand Secretary's figures show the growth of the organization, for the modest sum of 1880 increased year by year until in 1928 $2,449,179.79 was expended.

A comparison of the sums allocated every tenth year gives an adequate conception of the expanding charities of the organization: 1890, $13,131.74; 1900, $30,083.73; 1910, $401,091.25; 1920, $1,566,234.63.

In 1921 the figures jumped to $2,044,218.97 and every year since has been above the $2,000,000 mark, reaching a high point of $2,556,634.44 in 1927.

Tax Liens Name Cinema Players

A film actress, a film actor and a scenarist were named in income-tax liens filed yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Welch. The liens were filed in United States District Court.

The government wants $6.09 from Sally Phipps, actress, as additional taxes for 1928. Liens were filed against Norman Kerry, one for 1926 for $421.26 and one for 1927 for $89.08. A lien was filed against Jeannie MacPherson for 1926 for $1014.16.

IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS UP

The Council today will take up hearing of protests against the improvement of Madison avenue between Melrose avenue and Beverly Boulevard, the improvement of Santa Susanna avenue between Marilla and Schoenborn streets and the opening and widening project of Trolley Way and Second avenue.

TWENTY THOUSAND ELKS ONLY PART OF MIGRATION

More than 20,000 visiting Elks had been registered at downtown registration points up to a late hour last night and thousands more were reported still on their way to the city.

Late arrivals of eastern delegations have been attributed to routings given special trains, which stopped at the request of delegates at the Grand Canyon and various other scenic points on the way west.

Elks executives yesterday admitted that they have no adequate method of checking the actual number of Elks in the city, as thousands are known not to have registered as yet and many California Elks are expected to neglect to officially record their presence.

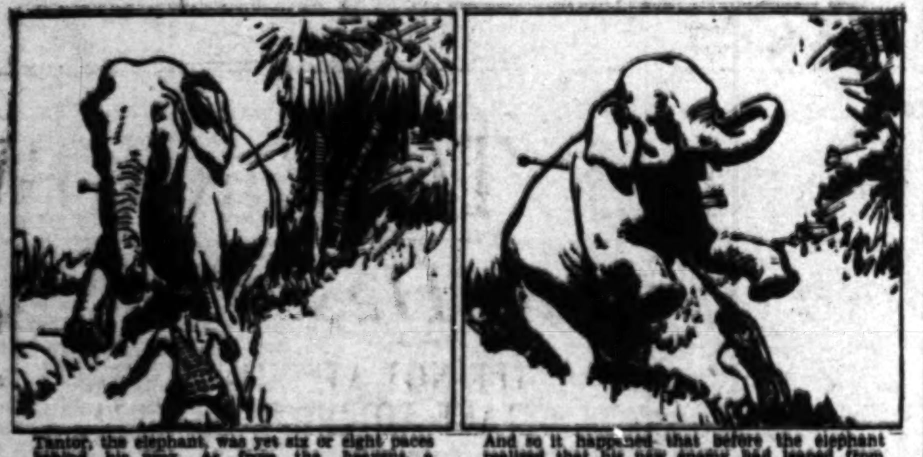
Although many of the delegates came by train, convention officials estimated that automobiles transported even larger numbers to Los Angeles, while steamship travel is also more popular than ever.

For every Elk registered, it was estimated one or more other persons accompanied him, the delegate generally bring his wife with him and in many cases whole families accompanied the lodge man.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

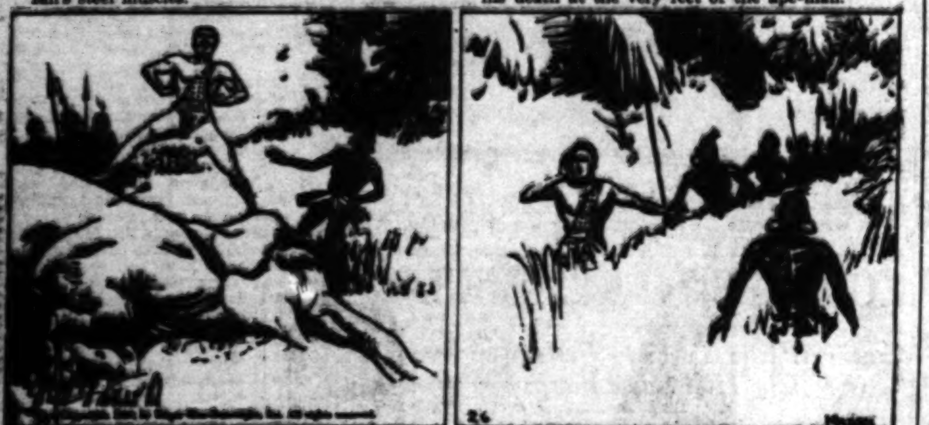
THE RETURN OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Tantor, the elephant, was yet six or eight paces behind his prey. As from the heavens, a sinewy white warrior dropped almost directly in his path. With a vicious lunge he swerved to dispose of this new foeman. But he had not reckoned with the lightning quickness of Tarzan's steel muscles.

And so it happened that before the elephant realized that his new enemy had leaped from his path, Tarzan had driven his iron-shod spear from behind his massive shoulder, straight into that fierce heart. And with such marvelous swiftness that the colossal pachyderm toppled to his death at the very feet of the ape-man.



Then Tarzan leaped upon the carcass of his mighty kill and gave voice to his weird cry of victory. The old chief and the warriors swarmed about him, their admiration mixed with a certain awe. For they attributed supernatural powers to this man who fearlessly fought with Numa, the lion, and Tantor, the elephant.

Nor could they understand this strange creature who ran through the trees as quickly as Manu, the monkey. The hunt after the retreating herd once more began when, behind them, faintly sounded a strange popping. "Guns! come," cried the chief, "the Arab raiders have returned for our ivory and our women!"

He stated that there is a third city now under investigation and

STARS FACE TRIBE TODAY

Hollywooders Confident After Successful Series Against Sacs Last Week; Angels Meet Solons

BY BOB RAY

Mr. O. Vitt and his sparkling Stars, who got off to a rather hasty start in the second half by taking five out of seven at Sacramento last week, return to the greensward of Wrigley Field today to open up a seven-game series with Seattle and, incidentally, put their newly gained glory on exhibition before the local populace.

The Sheiks, after winning five and tying one of the first six games with the Sacs, sort of stubbed their toe Sunday, dropping the twin bill, but before they left they caused Mr. Lew Moreing, the scribe-swatting owner of the Senators, untold anguish. In fact, the Stars at one time during the past week had Moreing on the ropes and threatening to take his ball club, which at that time seemed folded up for immediate moving, right out of Sacramento.

OSCAR VITT

Skipper Vitt was even more bubbling over with enthusiasm than ever when he arrived here yesterday and predicted that his Stars would give the Indians a disastrous welcome this week. The Hollywood skipper has plans of running the Tribe right off the reservation, but perhaps Ernie Johnson's Indians have other plans.

The Indians, although they dropped six out eight to the Seals in San Francisco last week, have quite a potent array of sluggers and ought to make it an interesting series. The last time the Tribe came here the Stars could only take four out of eight, and Hollywood had to win the Sunday doubleheader to get an even break in the series.

The Sheiks, though, are full of

MERCURY TRACKSTERS HOME

Los Angeles Athletic Club Cinderpath Squad Returns from Denver With Relay Championship Trophy; Eight Local Athletes to Compete at Vancouver

BY PAUL LOWRY

Members of the L.A.A.C. track-and-field team returned yesterday from the national A.A.U. championships at Denver bringing with them the big cup emblematic of the relay championship.

FRANK WYKOFF

The Mercuries won this beautiful trophy with a total of 16 points, which was twice as many points as the next nearest teams, Denver A. C. and New York A. C., scored for a second-place tie.

The L.A.A.C. won the 440 and 880 relays, took second in the two-mile relays and fourths in the 440, 880 and mile relays. Two teams were entered in the shorter relays.

A new world's record for a 440 around two turns, was established by the Mercuries, 41 9-10s.—and a new A.A.U. meet record of 1m. 26 4-10s. was set in the 880.

A total of twenty athletes were in the party returning yesterday. Other of the athletes branched off and went to San Francisco. They took second both in the junior and senior championships as well as winning the relay title.

Eight of the boys—Frank Wykoff, Cliff Halstead, Milt Maurer, Jimmy Ferrie, Bill McGeah, Henry La Salette and Cliff Blanchard—went to Vancouver for a meet there, the 12th and 13th inst., under the jurisdiction of the British Columbia branch of the A.A.U. There is also a meet at Seattle the 15th inst., in which some of these boys will participate. The party going to Canada was in charge of Ken Grumbles and Mrs. Grumbles.

Those returning yesterday were Joe Treharne, Maurice Guyer, Rudy Obergfall, Bill Carls, Bob Van Os-

HUFFT HOLDS HIS LEAD IN COAST LOOP HITTING

Only nine points now separate the first and fifth-place batters of the Coast League. Fuzzy Hufft continues to set the pace with a mark of .392. Gus Suhr is right on his heels with an average of .389. Ed Coleman is in third place with .385. Smead Jolley and Cleo Carlyle are tied for fourth place with averages of .381.

Smead Jolley, last year's leading batter, has been climbing steadily for many weeks. He collected nineteen safe hits in the eight-game series last week.

Walter Berger was the batting hero of the local series. Clouting out seventeen safe hits has brought his season average up to .345. Fred Haney registered sixteen safe blows, raising his average 38 points to .339.

Gus Suhr tops the home-run hitters with 27. He also leads in safe hits with 159. Knothe has pilfered twenty-two bases, closely followed by

Tod to Weigh in Over Limit for Olympic Clash

Hess is Considered Rugged Opponent by Fans

Ocean Park Youngster Upset Dope in Last Fights

BY KAY OWE

Tod Morgan and Goldie Hess will weigh in today at 3 o'clock for their ten-round nontitle bout in the Olympic tonight.

This is the first time Morgan has gone to the post this year here over title poundage.

TOD MORGAN

Both of Morgan's championship battles with Santiago Zorilla and Baby Sal Sorio drew big gates. One ran $25,000 and the other at Wrigley field jumped to $35,000.

He is by far the most rugged of the three Morgan opponents. Zorilla tried to whip the champion with speed. Sal attempted to knock Tod out. Morgan whipped both with strategy and class.

But the little Ocean Park "Pauline" has another line of attack. He doesn't get his second wind until he has fought five rounds. Then he is a good bet to take the post and keep it.

UPSET DOPE

Hess took at least six rounds from Zorilla and five from Taylor. Young Goldie was at his best in the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

The fight tonight should bring out the greatest tenth fans ever saw. Morgan is partial to that heat, himself.

Hess has tremendous reserve strength. It looked like he might stop Bud in the tenth. Most referees are likely to forget about the first five rounds and remember the last five when Hess fights.

Morgan had a slight cut on his nose which bothered his training a little last week. But minor injuries mean nothing to Morgan. He fought for a whole year with a broken thumb that wouldn't heal. The little Scotchman is a gamester.

He likes to win and he likes money

Baker Center of Attention at Atlantic City

Reduced Coefficient Likely to Aid San Jose

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) July 8. The four young athletes who are to represent Los Angeles and Southern California in the national finals of the Junior Olympic Games are enjoying about the busiest hours of their lives.

VANE BAKER

For four days Arthur A. Dieta, veteran Los Angeles playground director, and "Pop" Squire, coach of Huntington Park High School, have been putting them through their paces at the local gymnasium, on the cinder track at the municipal airport and on the beach front.

BAKER POPULAR

Vane Baker, the flashy Huntington Park youngster who ran off with the junior championship of Southern California on June 1, is the center of attention. His almost unbelievable record of forty-odd chins at the bar has the champions of other cities and States gasping. There is none who claims he can approach Baker's record.

Jerry Deal, the versatile little fellow who is here in Atlantic City for the second time as junior champion of Los Angeles, strides down the Boardwalk with the air of a veteran, pointing out to all the national contestants the places of amusement. He enjoys the distinction as a repeater with Morris Pollock of San Diego, the national junior champion of last year, who is here this year as San Diego's representative in the senior division.

Robert San Jose, the consistent Filipino lad of San Pedro, who was second high scorer in all Southern California in the senior division this spring, by a special system of dieting has reduced his coefficient from 570 to 550. If he doesn't regain weight and performs in the national meet with the same skill as he did in the San Pedro contest, this lower coefficient should

Ralph Hutchinson First in Girard Tourney

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—Qualifying rounds of eighteen holes in the second annual Santa Monica Bay championship golf tournament will start on the municipal links at Clover Field next Saturday, the 13th inst., continuing to the 21st inst., according to George Basil, manager, and Lou Berrien, professional at the course. A large entry list from Southern California players has already started to come in.

The thirty-two low gross scores will constitute the championship flight, and the sixteen defeated in this flight will make the first flight. There will be as many additional flights as the sixteen entries warrant.

All players, men and women, will be welcomed, regardless of handicap. There will be trophies and prizes for winner and runner-up in each flight, and trophies for low gross and low net in the qualifying round, 68 and better to tie for low net. Entries can be made and starting time reserved by telephoning Santa Monica 65420.

The women's Santa Monica Bay district championship will be held August 5 to 9, inclusive, with qualifying rounds August 5 only. Finals and a special medal-play event for all women will take place August 9.

MUNSEY VICTOR IN PLAY AT PASADENA

L. E. Munsey won first honors in the blind-bogey tournament for past masters of the Masonic Lodge held over the week-end at the Pasadena municipal course, according to Jack Tarrant, professional. Munsey shot a 96-20-76.

Blind bogey—First, Hugh Fleming, 76-0—76; second, Frank Hubaty, 89-10—79; third, J. F. Brereton, 90-10—80.

RALPH HUTCHINSON GIRARD WINNER

Shooting a 74, Ralph Hutchinson won low-gross honors in the Douglas aircool plane flag tournament held over the week-end at Girard. Low net went to J. Roberts, who had a 78-10-68.

Second low net resulted in a tie between Jack Rooney and Gerald Kerr, both of whom shot 81's with six handicaps. Third low net was also a tie, C. Davey and George Strompl winding up with 78's.

MRS. WENTWORTH IS VICTOR AT RANCHO

Mrs. Ike Wentworth won low gross in the candy tournament staged yesterday at the Rancho club, having a 96. Second place went to Mrs. Paul Jones with a 97.

Mrs. Ray Chesseboro took low net with a 107-28-79, while Mrs. W. F. Dolke, 103-24-82, was second. Third low net was a tie between Mrs. J. Lazarus, 104-18-86, and Mrs. Conway Tearle, 100-14-86.

JOHNSON AND STROUD LEAD

more lately known as a prominent local realtor, won low net honors yesterday. Jim shot a 78, which with his handicap of 12, gave him a 66.

All the long hitters made good scores yesterday. Deleot hits a long ball off the tee and it was seldom that he had to pull his brassie from the bag. Some of the golfers found difficulty making their ball stick on the speedy Sunset Fields greens. Those who are experienced in the art of running the ball up found this method more satisfactory than a high pitch shot.

Although the team championship seems pretty definitely settled as the result of the strong showing of the local squad there are plenty of the brethren left in the running for the individual title, particularly as this tournament has two more days to run. A glance at the scores will show that any one of a score of gentlemen may slip in ahead of Johnson and Stroud before play is concluded at Rancho tomorrow night.

Results of first round—Low gross, Paul Johnson, Rio Hondo, 73; L. S. Stroud, Stockdale, 73. Low net, J. J. Donahue (L.A.C.C.) 78-12—66.

RABBIT PUNCHES

HOT SPORT NOTES

MARTY KRUG is deposed as manager of the Angels and another deposed manager takes his place—Coast League moguls get a Christmas present as a result of "women free" ruling—Allison and Van Ryn crown France's Davis Cup kings in the doubles—Goldie Hess, a kid with two major league fights under his belt, meets Tod Morgan, a champion—Life history of Lou Daro of the "Fastest Growing City" to be printed in a magazine of national circulation L.A.A.C. track boys reach home with national A.A.U. relay championship cup.

Just a few of the leading items in the sport world these days. The Krug incident is particularly interesting. Marty couldn't make a grand slam as the popularity kid with the baseball bugs. He knew his baseball, but it didn't down with the second guessers. Jack Lelivelt, the new Los Angeles boss, had the same trouble, it appears, at Milwaukee.

Lelivelt comes to the Coast, where his tormentors won't follow him. Under the circumstances, why wouldn't it have been nice to arrange a swap of jobs? Lelivelt may become a big cracker with the Angels, and Krug might knock 'em over in new scenery. The only drawback in the latter case seems to be that Marty has a wife and kids, and he wants the latter to grow up in Southern California. Krug gave his best to the Coast League and deserves a cheer wherever he goes, or whatever he does.

HIRSCHFELD IMPROVES

HIRSCHFELD, the giant German, who was the favorite to win the shot put in the Olympic Games at Amsterdam last year, finally seems to have come into his own. He put the sixteen-pound pill 52ft., 10 17-64in. the other day, which is nearly a foot farther than the distance John Kuck achieved in setting the present accepted world's record.

Hirschfeld is coming along while Kuck seems to be on the downward path if his efforts at Denver last week are any indication. A logical one-two in the shot by Brix and Kuck would have won the senior A.A.U. title for the L.A.A.C Brix did his part, but Kuck failed to qualify for the finals, where the man who took fourth was nearly five feet back of Kuck's world record toss.

Brix is the boy who will bear the watching on this side of the pond. Pat McDonald, the big New York cop who has competed in championships since 1911, took a big liking to Brix at the Denver games.

He took Brix aside there and showed him several wrinkles about the use of his shoulder that were unknown to the big ex-Washington star.

Pat also admonished the blond giant about coming out before a meet and using up a lot of his steam with unnecessary practice putts. Pat still heaves the shot around 48 feet in spite of his age and his slowness afoot and his weight—350 pounds.

The old boy nearly broke the world's record in the fifty-six-pound weight for height at Denver, and everybody in the stadium was pulling for the veteran to do it.

A LOT OF IFS

THERE were so many ifs to the L.A.A.C.'s downfall in the senior championships that it was heart-breaking for the boys from the Coast.

The official score was 43 to 39 in the Olympic Club's favor although it was given out as 44 to 39 by the scorers, one point made by John Anderson of Cornell in the shot inadvertently being given to the Winged O.

Had Kuck come through as expected the L.A.A.C. would have won 42 to 41. Had the final leap of Dick Barber of the club not been foul by the merest fraction of an inch it would have been the winning leap and won for the club 44 to 42. Had De Mers shown up for the javelin it would have been different.

And so on down the line.

But if it hadn't been for the L.A.A.C. there would have been no team competition worthy the name at Denver.

The Mercuries were runners-up with 49 points in the junior championships, runners-up in the senior championships and winners of the relay title.

They scored a total for the three-day competition of 104 points distributed as follows: Junior championships, 49; senior championships, 39; relays, 16.

No other team came even close to that three-day total.

HESS AND MORGAN

IF the blond from Ocean Park can beat the brunette from La Habra Heights at the Olympic tonight it will be a real feather in his cap.

That victory over Santiago Zorilla and a draw with Bud Taylor established him as a rather tough young man who is likely to become more and more dangerous as he goes along.

So if Goldie Hess, the blond, should up and snatch a victory over Mr. Tod Morgan, the brunette, tonight he can consider himself a real hero. They said he didn't have a chance against Zorilla, and they said the same thing when he fought Taylor. And now he's about a 7-to-10 shot against Morgan.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC FINALS SLATED FOR TOMORROW

raise his score from 677 to about 690, which would set a new record.

Fernando Ramos, Southern California's senior champion, who broke the national record in the baseball throw at Los Angeles, has had a consistently large audience in his workouts at the municipal airport, where he delights in showing how easily he can lose the ball in the air.

Baker and Deal have found a way to capitalize on the "Yo-Yo fad, so popular among the boys of Los Angeles. On the first day they were here, the two lads encountered on the boardwalk a ballyhoo salesman who was having little luck retailing the funny contraptions. Analyzing the salesman's failure as inexpertness in demonstration Baker and Deal proceeded to show him how many fanciful curlicues could be made. And almost instantly a crowd gathered to watch them. Whenever Coach Dietz can't find either of the two lads, he knows he has to go only as far as the Yo-Yo stand. To date Baker has made $10 and Deal $6 as demonstrators for the Yo-Yo man, who is now doing a land-office business. San Jose and Ramos are doing their bit by herding in passers-by to witness the peculiar skill of their compatriots.

If the hotel chambermaid in charge of the California boys' rooms doesn't get too huffed up about their use of the ledge over the door as a practice chinning bar and the soft velvet carpets for broad-jumping use they should go into the national meet, which starts Wednesday morning, without scars or other deficiencies. They have trained lightly but steadily and their diet has been simple and of the right kind of food.

Today they donned the official white and red jackets and caps of the national contest and posed for a picture with all of the other contestants. Then they took a roller-chair ride down the boardwalk and later a swim at the beach. Following a carefully guarded dinner they were guests at a local movie house.

Tomorrow they will meet H. Jamison Swarts, graduate manager of athletics at Pennsylvania University and manager of the famous Penn relay carnival, before going over to be weighed in for the big meet. Swarts is the head referee in the national contest.

begin match play Wednesday morning for the title.

Eighty-one strokes, nine more than par, were required by the veteran Chicago golfer in his first eighteen-hole test. Unless he cuts several strokes off his qualifying round tomorrow his bid for another title will have faded before the tournament hardly gets under way.

Close behind the leaders came Don Moe of Portland, Or., and Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City. Each had 72, even par. Moe was among the leaders last year and is striving to carry back again to his home city the title left undefended by his fellow-townsman, Frank Dolp.

The fifteen leaders in order after the last of the 117 starters had checked in, were:

Chester C. Jones, Kansas City	36	35—71
Clarence Hubby, Dallas	37	34—71
Frank J. English, Kansas City	35	36—71
Frank Aylward, Kansas City	34	37—71
Don Moe, Portland, Or.	37	35—72
Keefe Carter, Oklahoma City	38	34—72
J. A. Kennedy, Tulsa	36	37—73
Morton Benedict, Kansas City	35	38—73

Donald Armstrong, Aurora, Ill.	36	38—74

Marshall Becker, Topeka	38	36—74
A. J. Staller, Kansas City	36	38—74
John McKinlay, Chicago	35	39—74

Thirty-two players finished with 77 or under, indicating to tournament followers that nothing over 155 would qualify for the title flight.

Johnnie De Paolo, Bakersfield, Cal., turned in a card of 39-38—77.

WRESTLERS OUT FOR BLOOD

Malcewicz and Lutze Punish Trainers in Final Workout for Bout Tomorrow

That both Nick Lutze and Joe Malcewicz are in a vicious mood for their best two-out-of-three fall mat battle at the Olympic tomorrow night was shown yesterday at the Main-street gym during the final hard workout each had for this match.

Malcewicz started putting more pressure and becoming rougher with his trainers several days ago. The first casualty was a 180 pounder from St. Louis who was knocked out as he was tossed upon his head with a backward body slam. The following day "Wild Bill" Beth and Malcewicz locked horns in the gym and the workout ended in a fist fight. The Utican came out of the fray with a black eye, which resulted from Malcewicz's carelessness in putting the optic in front of Beth's elbow. Beth, bleeding profusely, landed several effective uppercuts as he dashed out of the ring, with the Utican in pursuit.

Beth joined Lutze's group of trainers yesterday, a fact which did not seem to brighten Malcewicz's disposition toward his other three trainers, each of whom took a terrific mauling at the hands of the mat panther.

Yesterday's workout was Malcewicz's fastest. He announced that he was in perfect condition, and never felt better before any bout. He doubted if Lutze would last as long as he did in their first meeting. Their last match lasted almost an hour.

Lutze, who followed Malcewicz to the training mat, looked more impressive than he had in any previous workout. His set-to with Beth during the workout was as rough and as colorful as any which the rough lumberjack has had with the Utican. Two other trainers, both life guards from Venice whom Lutze brought with him to help get in condition, tested the popular mat idol's speed and holds.

At the end of yesterday's workouts, each grappler weighed 196 pounds. Beth had taken off two pounds in their workouts. When they step into the ring tomorrow night, each is expected to weigh 198 pounds. Their match is expected to develop into the greatest ever seen at the Olympic.

As the result of Beth's showing against both Malcewicz and Lutze, Promoter Lou Daro yesterday signed Jack Wingo, a tough 245-pound giant from Oklahoma, to meet him in the opening event of this card. Jack O'Malley, young 220 pounder, who has been seen in action here before, will meet Nick Velcoff, a rough 215 pounder from San Francisco, in the special event.

YOUNGSTER WINNER OVER ANDRE ROUTIS

BOSTON, July 8. (AP)—Young Jake Zeramby of Lynn trounced Andre Routis, featherweight champion, tonight in the Boston Garden's feature ten-round bout, a nontitle affair because the victor came in over weight. The youngster, fighting his first important bout, stopped most of the champion's body attack by beating him to the punch with staggering pokes to the head. Routis won only two of the rounds.

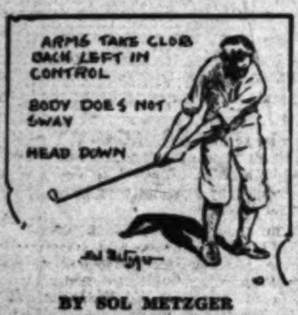
Pitch Shot Discussed



BY SOL METZGER

Chick Fraser takes his club back slow for a pitch, keeping the club head low to the ground. His own head is anchored. It isn't permitted to move all through the stroke. The arms alone figure in the backswing, the left keeping straight and controlling it. Note how his left turns or rolls in its shoulder socket. This brings the back of his left hand into full view and, what's important, opens the face of his club.

His weight now begins shifting from his left to right leg. It couldn't do otherwise unless he made himself rigid. The mere swing back of his arms causes this transfer of weight. Don't worry about it. If you remain relaxed it will take care of itself.

confidence and are out to go some place this half. Vitt has struck on a winning combination and his only worrying is caused by his pitching staff. If the Star slabsters continue to perform as they did last week, the Vittmen will stick up in the race.

George Hollerson, who twirled a four-hit game against the Solons, is expected to open up on the mound against the Indians. Pisch, one of Seattle's young southpaws, or Pipgras, is due to get the hurling assignment from Johnson.

The Angels, who dropped their manager while running up a seven-game winning streak against the terrible Portland club last week, tackle the Senators in Sacramento. The Solons seem to be badly shot and the Cherubs ought to have another profitable week in the hot spot of California.

Jack Lelivelt, the new Seraph skipper, will take over the managerial reigns during the Sacramento series. Lelivelt, who is driving out from Milwaukee, is expected in Los Angeles either tomorrow or Thursday for a conference with Joe Patrick before joining his new-found charges. Until Lelivelt arrives on the scene Truck Hannah will continue as boss of the Angels. Hannah is batting a 1.000 as temporary Angel manager, having steered the Seraphs to three straight wins.

The Cherubs looked great last week, but it is best not to get too enthusiastic until they perform against some stiff opposition. The Ducks were hopeless and could make most any Class AA club look like a champion. However, the Angels have plenty of power and are getting a lot better work from their pitchers. Ed Baecht makes a lot of difference in the Cherub chuckking corps. Baecht, Walsh and Barfoot give the Angels three dependable pitchers and if Lelivelt can dig up one more winning hurler the Angels can't help from keeping in the race.

From now on Deacon Plitt, who hasn't been able to finish a game at Wrigley Field this year, will be strictly a road pitcher. Plitt always pitches good ball away from home so will be used to start only when the Cherubs are on the road. Plitt will pitch the opener against Sacramento and come back later in the week for another start.

In the other series, beginning today, the Mission Reds, first-half winners, who took five out of seven from the Oaks to get off to a good start, play hosts to the Ducks, while the Seals and Oaks tangle at Emeryville. Unless the Portlanders play a lot better ball than they did against the Angels, the Reds are liable to sweep the series and once more get out in front of the pack. The Seals will be favored to trim the Oaks, who can beat the bums but don't go so well against the stronger outfits.

del, George Jefferson, Dick Barber, Manley Edwards, Clarence Schleimer, Jess Mortenson, Bob Patton, Harry Bowman, Coach Dean Cromwell, Manager Charley Keppen and Assistant Manager Hugh Pinney. In the same party was Ray Alf of Denver, the sprinter who won the junior 220 at Denver in 21 5-10s., and took second in the 100 to Leland of Texas Christian University.

The L.A.A.C. boys who branched off to other sectors were: Charley Paddock, who went to Minneapolis to assume his new job with a map-publishing company there; Fred Sturdy, who departed for New Haven to take part in the combined Yale-Harvard vs. Oxford-Cambridge meet there next Saturday; Harry Chauca to Arizona to see his father; Swede Leistner, Alma Richards, Jeddy Welsh, Bob Maxwell and Howard Arthur to San Francisco.

Coach Tommy Davis left Denver Friday with Ed Moeller and Jack Williams and reached home Sunday. Tom Yancey stayed in Denver to visit relatives.

GROVE BEATS CHICAGO OUTFIT

Fourteenth Triumph for Star Left-Hander

Yankees Hammer Trio of Brown Hurlers

Washington and Detroit Split Twin Bill

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—"Lefty" Grove put an end to the pestilence of the White Sox today by letting them down with six hits to win, 8 to 2. It was Lefty's fourteenth triumph of the season.

Harold McKain, a rookie pitcher, undertook to defeat the Mackmen, but lasted only seven innings, during which time he challenged the prestige of Grove. When the A's had disposed of McKain, victory was only a matter of time. The league leaders made twelve hits, one of which was a home run by Haas. They scored six runs to cinch the game in the eighth. BROWNS FALL

ST. LOUIS, July 8. (AP)—The Yankees made second place in the American League safe for New York today by defeating their rivals for the post, the Browns, 10 to 3. The Yanks hammered three Brown pitchers for sixteen hits, including home runs by Gehrig, Meusel and Dickey. Gehrig's was his twenty-second of the year.

George Pipgras did some fine pitching, especially in the early innings. He gave but four hits and retired the first thirteen men to face him in order. Score:

SPLIT BILL

DETROIT, July 8. (AP)—Washington and Detroit split a double-header featured by heavy hitting in both games today, the Senators taking the first, 5 to 4, in ten innings, and the Tigers the second, 16 to 6.

George Uhle and Sam Jones divided pitching honors in the first contest, but Uhle was charged with a defeat because an error by Roy Johnson in the tenth permitted the Senators to score.

In the nightcap the Senators had never a chance. Marty McManus got a home run with the bases loaded in the first inning and the Tigers added five runs in the fourth with isolated runs scattered all along the route. Scores:

Lay Plans for Army Contest

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—Capt. L. M. "Biff" Jones, coach of the Army football team, and Maj. Phillip B. Flemming, graduate manager at West Point, arrived here today to make preliminary arrangements for the intersectional game between Stanford and Army, December 28. They are seeking a training field for the Army squad and will look over sites at St. Mary's College; Santa Clara University, San Jose and at Stanford University. Coach Jones said the Army have a strong team this year, although he is losing four linesmen and one backfield regular.

INDIANS COP

CLEVELAND, July 8. (AP)—The Indians rallied for four runs off Danny MacFayden in the sixth and made it two wins out of three over the Red Sox today with a score of 5 to 2.

Until the sixth MacFayden had allowed only two hits. Joe Shaute, Cleveland southpaw, was touched for eleven hits, but kept them scattered. Score:

ELKS TO SEE POLO CONTEST

Will Rogers, Jr., son of America's self-appointed ambassador at large, will make his first appearance away from his home field when he rides at No. 1 on the Uplifters. Roach will ride at No. 2 and C. B. Wrightsman, the west coast's best-mounted polo player, will play at back. Snowy Baker will play No. 1 for the Buccaneers, Big Jim Colt of Santa Barabara will hold down the No. 2 position and Scott Hackley, a local youngster, will play at back. Lyel Puckett has been named as alternate in case any of the players are hurt in the game.

The night game will be played under United States Polo Association rules but the teams are made up of three men apiece and the length of the contest will be cut to four chukkers instead of the regular eight.

The regulation game of polo calls for four-men teams but in night tilts it is cut to three.

Polo officials also announced that the ball used in Thursday night's game will be a little different from that used regularly.

The ball in regulation polo is made of hard wood. The ball that will be played Thursday will have a felt wrapping so as to protect injury to spectators as the field at the Coliseum on which the game will be staged is much smaller than the regulation playing field.

Before the game the visting Elks and their guests will be treated to a parade of the polo ponies which will take part in the mallet tilt. One hundred thousand dollars' worth of valuable polo stock will be presented to the audience. Some of the ponies which will appear have already won international fame. C. B. Wrightsman has several of the famous Argentine string which were featured in the last tournament between North and South America.

The game will precede the $1,000,000 motion-picture electrical pageant which will be presented by the film industry for the Elks. Officials in charge believe that 100,000 people will attend the program.

The line-ups:

Uplifters.		Buccaneers.
Will Rogers, Jr.	No. 1	Snowy Baker
Hal Roach	No. 2	Jim Colt
C. B. Wrightsman	Back	Scott Hackley

The Sacramento Bee today editorially placed the blame upon Moreing for not giving the city a baseball club which can stage interesting exhibitions of the national pastime.

MORGAN BATTLES HESS

that his title brings him. Some say he is twice the fighter when his title is up.

This may favor Hess tonight. Morgan will have to hit on all cylinders to whip a boy who was good enough to beat Zorilla and draw with Taylor.

MORGAN FAVORITE

If Taylor was fighting Hess tonight the betting would likely be even money. The name of Taylor sounds bigger than Goldie's. Fans tag Taylor on his great fights of the past and not his present pace.

Hess is confident he can win over Morgan. His manager, Harvey Petit, says that Hess feels good enough to knock Morgan out. But this is ultra enthusiasm.

Gamblers are making Morgan a 10-7 choice over the little "Paulino." The Hess money is coming from the beach district largely where he won sixty-six out of sixty-eight fights.

Under Morgan and Hess is a great semi-wind-up. They are Leo Hernandez and Larry Murphy. Hernandez is the young Mexican welter who has been knocking everybody out. His right hand is a lot of bad news.

Murphy won over Benny Miller two weeks ago. He surprised everybody. They had picked Larry to lose. But he swung too often for the younger Benny.

Johnny Torres meets Charley Sullivan in the special. Torres is on a winning streak. He hits hard with a right and figures to win. Sullivan has slowed down recently.

One of the fours is Pat Hayward vs Hugh Shropshire. They weigh 190. Hayward is young but has never lost a fight. He beat Shropshire once before.

Leonard Porter and Mission Bolo open the show.

...on the coaster it's THRILL!

...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

JUST AS A STEAK can be tough, tasteless, disappointing—or tender, crisp, done to a turn . . . a cigarette can be flat, heavy, over-sweet —or sparkling with spicy aroma and delicate tobacco flavors.

To knowing smokers, Chesterfield makes the difference clear. A blend of fragrance, flavor, and satisfying character, to which cross-blending, the standard Chesterfield method, adds a final touch.

In a cigarette it's TASTE...In a Chesterfield it's

SOCIAL REFLEXES

While Prof. Baker of Yale was telling a New York audience how the typewriter, the telephone, the telegraph and the movie are affecting our habits of speech, Howard A. Magee, a public utility engineer, was telling a Trenton audience how recent sociological changes are affecting the business of the public service corporations.

Mr. Magee cited particularly the effect of modern changes in our modes of living on the business of gas companies. When families become smaller, even though the total population of a community does not change, the consumption of gas is likely to decrease. The small family is more likely than the large one to lead the "delicatessen life," or to dine out more frequently in restaurants. This increases the consumption of gas by hotels, restaurants and bakeries, but the gain there does not offset the decrease in households. Where food is prepared in commercial quantities relatively less fuel is used than in home cooking.—New York World.

Police Commission Scored for Allowing Question

Citizen's Immunity to Entry Held Not Debatable

United States Constitution Emphatic on Subject

Criticism of the Police Commission for allowing open discussion of its order to the police department against the search of private dwellings for liquor without warrants is contained in a communication received by the commission from W. H. Anderson, chairman of the constitutional rights committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association.

The commission has set the 12th inst. as the date for a debate by leaders of the Anti-Saloon League and California progressives on the order.

IGNORANT OF LAW

"Putting the matter in a class for open discussion tends, in my opinion, to subject your commission to the criticism that your members are ignorant of one of the plainest, simplest and most fundamental of our constitutional provisions, namely, the positive and universal inhibition of anybody entering a citizen's premises without a search warrant," Anderson writes.

He cites a quotation from a speech by Lord Chatham in Parliament 150 years ago, as follows:

"The poorest man may, in his cottage, bid defiance to all the forces of the crown. It may be frail. Its roof make shake. The wind may blow through it. The storm may enter, the rain may enter; but the King of England may not enter; all his forces dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement."

SUPREME LAW CITED

Anderson, in his communication, holds that Section 3 of Article I of the State Constitution is the California "declaration of rights, and it provides that the United States Constitution is the supreme law of the land." He also cites Section 29 of the national prohibition law as follows:

"No search warrant shall issue to search any dwelling occupied as such unless it is being used for the unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor, or unless it is being used in part for some business purpose, such as a store, shop, saloon, restaurant, hotel or boarding house. The term 'private dwelling' shall be construed to include the room or rooms used and occupied not transiently but solely as a residence in an apartment-house, hotel or boarding house."

Helper of Fitts Quits to Become Aide of Werner

After having served as a deputy in the District Attorney's office for more than three years, Thurmond Clarke yesterday tendered his resignation to Dist.-Atty. Fitts to accept a position as assistant City Attorney under Erwin P. Werner. Clarke stated in his letter of resignation that he wishes to specialize in civil law rather than criminal law and for that reason found it expedient to end his association with the District Attorney's office.

In accepting the resignation, Dist.-Atty. Fitts praised the efficiency and sincerity of Clarke's work in his office and expressed regret at his departure.

Clarke will assume his new duties in the City Hall Thursday morning.

Later in the day Dist.-Atty. Fitts announced that he has appointed Robert J. O'Connor, formerly United States District Attorney in this district for eight years, to fill the vacancy.

Accident Story Puzzles Police

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, July 8. (Exclusive)—Report that a boy had fallen from the Hi-Boy roller coaster into the ocean tonight provided a mystery for the Santa Monica police. Two boys reported to the cashier of the roller coaster on the Ocean Park Pier that while a car in which they were riding was rounding a high curve, a third boy, unknown to them, stood up and was thrown off. This was telephoned to Night Sergeant Buck. By the time Detective Captain Watson and Sergt. Greer reached the Hi-Boy roller coaster to investigate the two boys who had reported the matter had disappeared.

The police set life guards to searching the water overhung by parts of the roller coaster. Other parts are over planked pier. At a late hour no body had been discovered. The police were at a loss to know whether the report was a hoax or not.

MRS. WHITING WINS DIVORCE AT RENO

Mrs. Rosalind E. Whiting, wife of Dwight Whiting, was granted a divorce decree in Reno yesterday, according to word from the Nevada city. The complaint and other papers in the divorce action were sealed, but it is understood that the complaint charged only mental cruelty. Whether a proper settlement has been effected was not indicated by the files and neither did they reveal the disposition made of the matter of the custody of the couple's two minor children. Before Mrs. Whiting established her residence in Reno the couple lived at 842 South Lorraine Boulevard in this city.

DIXIE WOMAN JUDGE VISITS

Memphis Juvenile Court Official Declares for Eternal Feminine in Public Affairs

Women in public affairs should strive to remain eternally feminine. They are needed in the job of public housekeeping as never before, but as women, and they have a tremendous responsibility in the shaping of the whole social structure.

Judge Camille Kelley

This is the belief of Camille Kelley, first woman judge ever to be appointed south of the Mason-Dixon Line and the second in the United States. She is in Los Angeles on a brief visit, having come here en route to her home in Memphis, Tenn., after attending the joint convention of the National Probation Association and the National Social Workers' Association in San Francisco.

ETERNAL FEMININE

"If we come into public life and try to be like men," she said, "then we just clutter things up. We must keep eternally feminine. I said to a friend once that if ever she saw me with too much powder and such on my face, it was simply my reaction to seeing women who try to be mannish in their ways. Nor do I mean that women occupy a secondary place to men, but a separate one. As I see it our positions are comparable to railroad tracks, side by side always, but they never touch except in vision."

As Judge Kelley talks in true southern fashion she fans herself gently with an exquisite little fan. Child welfare and education should be women's chief concern, she believes, and there can be no possible room for a fight with men.

COURT NOW MODEL

She started studying law, she said, when her sons had grown up and she wanted to keep alert and not grow rusty. She wanted to become a broader thinking mother and learn to understand a woman's job the better to help modern youth to withstand the shell shock of this hectic age.

"I want to be a good mother first and a good judge next," she said.

For the past eight years she has been judge of the juvenile court of Memphis and of the domestic relations division. At the time she was appointed the laws of Tennessee had to be changed to make it possible for a woman to serve on the bench. She has twenty officers on her staff and 500 men and women of the city who render volunteer service in her department. Since her service in the domestic relations division, the nonsupport receipts, she said, are ten times greater than before and one-third of the divided families have been reconciled.

Her court has received commendation from the Russell Sage Foundation, and Charles Chute, secretary of the National Probation Association, says that it is one of the twelve standard juvenile courts in the United States and second to none in spirit and procedure.

"In my eight years of experience of dealing with raw emotions and the stark realities of life, I have been in no way disillusioned," she said. "Because young people lack knowledge of relative values and a sense of proportion, they get into distress and difficulty, but I am afraid if they are going to follow their elders they are not being given a very conservative example of good behavior. We feature morals too much with youth, when there are evils of disposition, bad temper and such things which are just as bad. Youth is daring and unafraid but not vicious; and plenty fast, but we older ones should try to make the road safer for them."

PRAISES SCREEN

Exceedingly interested in our motion-picture industry, Judge Kelley believes that motion pictures are definitely an educational factor. She feels that the good in pictures should be featured more strongly and when a better public appetite is created, then pictures will become what we want them. Now, she says, the public has mental indigestion over the pop and hot tamale character of our films, but when it is ready for something better she thinks that the picture industry will be ready and willing to feature the good and beautiful.

With Judge Kelley on her visit here are her two sons, Heiskell, an attorney of Memphis, and Gerald, a newspaper man of Milwaukee. Following a breakfast this morning at the Mayfair Hotel, at which Judge Kelley is to be made an honorary member of Phi Delta Phi, a legal fraternity, she and her sons will start their motor trip back to Memphis.

KEARNS MAKES RING OF NINETEENTH HOLE

Included among some things men will fight about is a golf score. This explains the two black eyes worn by Jack Kearns, former manager and partner of Jack Dempsey, and the swollen nose that adorns the face of Charles Delaney, motion-picture actor, according to the principals, of a fist fight that occurred at El Rancho Country Club on the Fourth.

According to Kearns's version he and Delaney agreed to play a match game in which he gave the actor a stroke a hole. After the game the pair could not agree as to the number of strokes the other one had taken.

"I did it in 71," modestly explained Kearns yesterday. "This fellow is at least a 6-stroke man on every hole and, of course, I overlooked a few swings, but when we got into the clubhouse he begins talking about making it in 72. Then the argument started and I made a pass at his nose. He came right back with a swing at my eye and landed. I landed one right back on him and it went along merrily for about five minutes."

Delaney's version was no less reticent about his prowess with golf sticks, but he asserted that he made the course in 72 and that Kearns would have been fortunate if he had made the round in 96.

"But we made up and will be good friends again, but I don't think we'll play golf together," asserted Delaney.

PHYSICIAN BOOKED ON DOPE COUNT

Dr. Graham, 80-Year-Old Venice Practitioner, Held as Selling Suspect

On evidence obtained by the wife of a former narcotic addict, the police last night arrested an 80-year-old physician and held him on a dope-selling charge. The physician, Dr. Alfred Graham of 1628 Electric avenue, Venice, was booked for suspicion of violation of the State Poison Act, felony, sale. At the same time his office assistant, Miss Bonnie Carlock, 32, was taken into custody and held as a material witness.

The police did not reveal the name of the woman whose complaint caused them to make the arrests. Her husband, they said, apparently had been cured of narcotic addiction, but when she learned recently that he had pawned his watch she suspected he had used the money to purchase dope. Pursuing the trail, she found, according to the police, that the drug had been purchased from Dr. Graham.

Before calling in the police, her story went, she visited Dr. Graham and purchased some morphine tablets herself and arranged for the physician to deliver an additional supply at her home. Meanwhile she obtained the assistance of Detective Lieutenants Yoakum, Powell and Tibbedeaux and they supplied her with marked money to pay for the second purchase.

Then last night, in company with Mrs. Mary Ross, a policewoman, she went to the doctor's office to make another purchase. Stationed in an anteroom, Policewoman Ross overheard the conversation incident to the asserted transaction and then called in the three detectives, who made the arrests. The detectives asserted that they discovered 225 quarter-grain morphine tablets in the office.

In the excavation the agents reported finding thirty-four 500-gallon vats, fifteen of which contained mash; a 5000-gallon water tank, 18,000 pounds of sugar, a water pump and 200 five-gallon tin cans. PYLE FAILS TO SHOW BOOKS

Bunion Derby Promoter Scored for Further Delaying Wage Suits of Employees

C. C. Pyle, whose financial difficulties have won for him as much notoriety as has his annual bunion derbies, came in for another scoring at the hands of Deputy Labor Commissioner Richardson yesterday at a resumed hearing of former employees of the promoter, who are seeking pay asserted to be due them for their services in the 1929 transcontinental foot race.

The second failure of Ted Shiverts, Pyle's auditor, to appear at the hearing with Pyle's books, brought a declaration by Richardson that Pyle was not showing the proper spirit of co-operation with the Labor Commission and that there was no excuse for the continued absence of Shiverts. At a former hearing Pyle pleaded for further time on the promise that he would produce Shiverts at the next hearing.

Of five labor claims pending before the commission as an outgrowth of the recent bunion derby, three were dismissed yesterday.

Ernie Mack, vaudeville actor, who sought $800 back salary, may get a ticket to New York.

Cases involving H. M. Jinks, former time keeper for Pyle during the race, who seeks $400, asserted back pay, and Mike Pegota, a runner, who seeks return of $50, representing one-half of his entry fee, will be heard Thursday.

Bail was fixed at $2500.

McGee is accused by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burgess of telling Police Officer William H. Dutton, one of the officers who arrested Mrs. Pantages, that "there will be plenty on the line" if he would testify as directed at Mrs. Pantages's trial. McGee is 45 years of age and lives at 1015 East Seventy-eighth street.

Arraignment of Mrs. Pantages, scheduled for Judge Ballard's court yesterday, was postponed until the 22nd inst. at the request of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, who told the court that the theater man's wife is still in the hospital suffering from the effects of an operation which followed the crash in which the Japanese, Joseph Rokumoto, was killed on June 16, last. PROFESSOR RAPS RUM SEARCHES

Dr. Victor Harding Speaks to City Club on Apparent Injustice of Some Raids

While announcing himself as an advocate of law and order, Dr. Victor H. Harding, professor of political science at Uuniversity of California at Los Angeles, in an address on "Search and Seizure," given yesterday at the City Club, vigorously opposed the apparent injustice done private citizens when police officers, without warrants, break into homes and search the premises on suspicion that prohibition laws are being violated.

"If it is true that we are governed by laws, then citizens of America are well protected in the field of search and seizure," said Dr. Harding. "However, the truth is that, in the last analysis, this is a government of and by men and our constitutions, State and national, are effective as they are interpreted and to the extent that they are enforced."

The speaker mentioned a case in which he said a poor, honest woman's home was broken into, partly demolished and searched by police officers "at a time when, in the same neighborhood, liquor parties were not disturbed because they were being conducted in the homes of economically valuable citizens."

"We have so many laws on our statute books that the average citizen does not know half of them," said Dr. Harding. "Of those laws with which we are acquainted, most of us observe the ones that please us and violate others when we consider them wrong and think we can get away with it. The majority of motorists knowingly violate traffic ordinances every day, especially those regulating speed. I enjoy smoking and if a law were passed prohibiting smoking I suppose I would be in jail half the time."
